5 Villages Do Not Respond To Word Of Tollway Meet

Officials from five villages surrounding Hoffman Estates have, as of yesterday, failed to respond to notification of a meeting to be held March 1, aimed to gain access to the Northwest Tollway at Roselle Road.

The meeting, to be held at Harper Junior College, is to include Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Roselle, Inverness and Palatine. None of the villages have responded saying they'll be represented.

Purpose of the meeting is to implement a survey in the area to determine the need for a Roselle Road access to the tollway.

RESULTS OF THE survey, planned by Harper's planning and development department, would be used as evidence in an Illinois Tollway Commission (ITC) hearing to determine if ramps at Roselle Road will pay for themselves.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman, is organizing the meeting.

He said a follow up letter will be sent out by Feb. 22 asking the villages to express their interest in the project one way or the other.

If the villages fail to show interest toward helping to implement the survey, Regan said he'll organize a local task force in Hoffman Estates to gather the information needed.

Regan has long urged the need for Tollway access at Roselle Road saying that if Roselle Road ramps are not provided there will soon be mass traffic freezes at the Rte. 53 and Barrington Road Tollway ramps.

Ramps at Roselle Road will also help alleviate traffic snarls along Golf, Higgins and Algonquin Road caused by cars heading for the Barrington Road and Rte. 53 ramps.

BUT, THE ITC maintains that it cannot install new ramps unless it is shown that the installation will not hinder payments to tollway bond holders.

Evidence must be provided to the ITC commissioners showing that enough new tollway traffic will be attracted to pay for the Roselle Road ramps.

In a joint meeting Dec. 3, Regan met with officials from Schaumburg and Harper Junior college to begin an evidence collecting committee.

Following the meeting, John Lucas, Harper's director of planning and development, began studying exactly what information is needed for the ITC. Inquiries were also made of officials in Elk Grove and Arlington Heights to find out how they went about gaining the Arlington Heights Road Interchange opened last month.

Rap Vacationing Clerk

by JERRY THOMAS

"Santa Claus doesn't take a vacation Christmas week." But that's what the Hanover Park village clerk has done," said Mrs. Sally McKinney.

As a member of the Hanover's Own Party, she challenged the clerk's absence in the final week of time allotted residents to check candidates' petitions submitted for the April village election. The clerk, Mrs. Elaine Mars, says that her absence has not made the petitions unavailable.

Mrs. McKinney, representing the HOP party candidates, said she made a Tuesday appointment with Mrs. Mars sometime last week and came to the village hall to check the six independent candidates' petitions.

"The clerk was not in, and when I asked others in the office they said she called in Tuesday morning to tell them she would be out all week on vacation," said Mrs. McKinney.

Mrs. McKinney said "a village employee hand-delivered a message to the clerk telling her I was waiting and asking if she forgot our appointment."

AN ANSWER came back stating she was on vacation all week.

Mrs. McKinney added that as late as Wednesday afternoon she was not able to contact the clerk.

Clerk Mars told the Herald Wednesday, "I am on vacation but decided on it on the spur of the moment without remembering the last week of challenge was this week."

She admitted she missed the appointment she made with the HOP party representative, but added that "there is no problem."

"I will make myself available to Mrs. McKinney so she can check the petitions even if I am on vacation," said the clerk.

MRS. MARS INSISTED she had told workers in the office that she could be contacted "and the clerks have contacted me in the last two days many times," she added.

She said she is reluctant to appoint a deputy but may consider it adding "it's too late for this election anyway."

The Cook County election commission said some provision should have been made by the clerk before she planned her vacation.

Stressing that they have no authority in village elections, the commission spokesman added that the village clerk has complete control of elections in the village.

"The clerk may vacation whenever she pleases, but should have appointed a deputy to make the petitions available to residents the five days the laws allow them to be checked," he said.

Again stressing that the Cook County election commission has no control over the clerk, the spokesman added that a resident's only other recourse, if denied the opportunity to inspect the petitions, is to bring a mandamus action against the clerk.

"THIS IS DONE by going to the Circuit Court and asking the court to order

Burglary Rate Soars In Area

by NANCY COWGER

With the advent of apartment complexes in Schaumburg Township, the number of reported burglaries has increased.

Local police departments have recorded leaping statistics on burglaries, and their chiefs say most incidents involve apartments.

In Hoffman Estates, reported burglaries jumped from 41 in 1969 to 349 in 1970. Police Chief John O'Connell, in making his annual report to village trustees last month, said the rise reflected an increased number of apartments, and poor security by tenants. O'Connell said the residents frequently did not lock their doors, or locked them improperly.

In Schaumburg Village, 1969 showed 32 burglaries, while 1970 reflected a 125 per cent increase to 72 burglary reports. Chief Martin Conroy agreed the increase reflects a greater number of apartment buildings.

Since the opening of 1971, neither village has experienced a large or alarming number of apartment burglaries, say their police chiefs. But each village experienced some.

ACCORDING TO THE police, there is not a great deal a tenant can do to protect himself from an apartment break-in. Police do, however, list a few suggested procedures to discourage burglary attacks.

Locks are important, agree officials in both departments. In most apartment complexes, the tenant is not the only person with a key to his unit. The manager or rental agent likely will have a master key, or a spare key for each unit. Maintenance men either may have keys of their own, or have access to a manager's key. Police recommend avoiding units where master keys are common, or easy to obtain.

Frequently, said William Freund, Hoffman Estates police lieutenant the locks on apartment doors are "not designed for maximum security." Many of them can be opened with a plastic credit card slid through the gap between door and frame, he said.

Both Freund and Conroy recommend checking with apartment management to see if it will allow installation of a second lock.

Both men recommend use of a dead bolt lock, one with a good tumbler design, with a bolt that slides through the door frame and one which must be locked using a key.

A DEAD BOLT lock cannot be opened with a screwdriver or knife, as can many other kinds of locks, said Conroy. But, he said, many apartment complex owners do not allow tenants to install dead bolt locks.

Other possible devices, for use while the tenant is at home, are sliding bolts and chain locks. Freund said these are ineffective in preventing entries, because a strong jolt will pull the nails or screws holding them in place out of the wall.

But, said Conroy, either of these would delay an intruder slightly, and might leave enough time for the tenant to complete a phone call to an operator or police. Also, he said, the delay could give the tenant enough time to vacate the apartment.

Both men said the tenant, or any homeowner, should immediately call their telephone operator if he suspects a burglar may be trying to enter his home. The operator can notify police while the tenant vacates the apartment. The tenant, however, could be delayed by a busy signal in trying to call police himself, said Conroy.

APARTMENTS OR HOMES with patios and sliding glass doors are especially tempting to burglars, said police, and persons living in them should take extra precautions.

One suggestion is to insert some object in the slide track, so the door cannot be forced open. The same measure can help protect sliding windows from entry.

Locks and chains to prevent entries are good, but not always enough, police said. More subtle measures can also be employed to discourage burglary attempts. Frequently recommended to homeowners, police said these measures make just as much sense for apartment dwellers.

Keeping a light in the window is not always a beacon for a traveler. It also is a signal to potential burglars that an apartment is not empty. Said Conroy, "electricity is the cheapest insurance you can buy." The expense of leaving a light switched on in an empty apartment could be a savings if it discourages a burglar, he added.

WHEN AN apartment is to be empty more than a day, the tenant can save himself potential grief by arranging with a friend for regular pick-up of mail or newspapers. Stacked delivery items signal an empty residence, a likely spot for burglaries.

Both police and apartment building managers say tenants are ignoring one responsibility they should take for their own protection.

Tenants should be aware of their neighbors, at least well enough to notice strangers. Persons acting suspiciously, or unfamiliar persons, should be reported to management or maintenance personnel, or to the police, said Freund and Conroy. Persons on legitimate business should have no objections to explaining their presence.

Mrs. Barbara Terry, rental agent for International Village apartments, also emphasized tenant responsibility.

"The responsibility residents take for each other is not what it could be," she said. She urges apartment residents to "get to know their neighbors," and become familiar with maintenance employees. Tenants can "work together to look out for their neighbors," and thereby improve protection for themselves, he said.

INTERNATIONAL VILLAGE has dead bolt locks on all apartment doors, and allows tenants to install chain locks as well, said Mrs. Terry, although it does not allow them to change the main door lock. The complex has regular police patrols, and maintenance men watch for strange persons or cars, she said. Tenants may notify her when they are leaving their apartments vacant for extended lengths of time, and maintenance men will check the apartment regularly, she said.

Never the less, International Village has experienced burglaries in recent months, as have other apartment complexes. Mrs. Terry said these burglaries were not accomplished with master or pass keys, or by slipping a lock open, but by actually breaking into units.

International Village also allows tenants to purchase and install fire alarms in their apartments. Police recommend these as well, and say they are relatively inexpensive.

EARL WADE of Burns Electronics, Chicago, explained small units can be attached to a door lock. Once the door is closed, the alarm will sound a buzzer or bell if it is reopened without a key. The noise is loud enough to alert persons in neighboring apartments, he said, who can call police. Also, he said, the alarm generally will frighten off would-be burglars.

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, firebombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

Lt. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $900 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950 mile downstate freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported wholesale prices rose .7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 1.7 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gunnar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

The Northeast was the first part of the country to lose the relief of the February balmy spell. A pocket of Arctic air spread over the region, producing some subzero readings. The rest of the country had mild weather, including thunder-showers in the Great Lakes region.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	66	47
Houston	77	62
Los Angeles	57	50
Miami Beach	74	67
Minneapolis	38	27
New York	39	27
Phoenix	80	58
Seattle	51	42

The Market

The gradual afternoon recovery averted a big drop on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow-Jones Industrial average, down six points by mid-morning, finished down 2.19. Volume was 18,720,000 shares. Prices also declined on the American board, in heavy turnover.

'Howie-In-Hills' Trial Postponed

The trial of the Teamsters Union Pension fund against the Village of Hoffman Estates was postponed yesterday until May 3.

The case, being heard before Judge Helen McGullicuddy, in the Cook County Circuit Court, charges fraud involving the village in the confirmation of Hoffman Estates special assessments numbers 4, 5, and 7.

Under the special assessment, street and sewer work was scheduled for the defunct Howie-in-the-Hills subdivision. Pension fund officials want the special assessment vacated.

The pension fund claims to hold a $1.7 million mortgage on the subdivision which they hope to recoup.

The trial was postponed yesterday because Joseph Teitelbaum, a key witness in the village's defense, will not be available for immediate testimony due to ill health.

MAY 3 WAS THE earliest date the army of attorneys involved in the proceedings could agree to meet again.

Teitelbaum, a former executive with the pension fund, will be called as a hostile witness by Atty. Edward Hofert, who is defending the village.

A motion made on behalf of the special assessments' bond holders asking that the pension fund suit be dismissed was denied yesterday by Judge McGullicuddy.

Attorneys presenting the bond holders said the bonds in special assessment should be held valid. They claim a special assessment confirmation in court is final, and that any taint of fraud arising later should be handled as a separate matter. Confirmation of special assessment numbers 4, 5 and 7 were given in court in December of 1967.

ALSO DENIED was a petition that federal receivers for the City Savings and Loan be allowed to enter the suit filed by the Teamsters Pension Fund. The receivers were granted title to the property last August because City Savings depositors' money was used in the Howie-in-the-Hills subdivision before the savings institution became defunct.

The petition was denied on grounds that the receivers requested entry into the trial without being subject to the court's full jurisdiction.

Hofert said he's have welcomed the receivers into the case if they had taken the stand that the special assessment should be upheld.

He wanted the receivers to enter the case in order to increase the chance for a settlement agreeable to all parties concerned with Howie-in-the-Hills.

Had the receivers entered the proceedings, it would represent the first time all parties concerned would have come together.

It is expected that the receiver's attorneys will restate their position for entering the trial on May 3.

Inquiries Made About Hospital Here

Persons interested in building a hospital in Hoffman Estates have made inquiries about sites available, Richard Regan plan commission chairman, said yesterday.

Groups of doctors and investors have made new inquiries about locating in Hoffman Estates because of talk that a hospital is being planned on a 10-acre Schaumburg Road site in Schaumburg, he added.

Regan said the inquiring parties are being checked out now. He believes, however, that only a not-for-profit hospital would be advantageous to the communities.

"I DON'T CARE where it is located, in Hoffman Estates or Schaumburg, as long as it is located on a proper site," he added.

"I'm only interested in a facility that will properly serve the area," Regan said.

The 10-acre site proposed in Schaumburg is too small according to experts, he added.

The Schaumburg Road site does not provide enough ease of access according to persons Regan consulted.

A 25-acre site near the Tollway at Barrington Road would be better suited for community needs, Regan said.

The Barrington Road-Tollway area is more distant from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village (which recently announced a 200-bed expansion) and would better serve population coming with the development of areas to the north and west, he added.

A 25-ACRE SITE built away from existing homes would minimize hospital traffic in a residential area.

The site would also permit a possible heliport allowing helicopter landings which parties Regan spoke to said is the latest innovative patient transportation.

The need for helicopter service to hospitals has arisen because of the problems ambulances experience in moving accident victims during heavy traffic periods.

"A location where helicopters could land without disturbing residents sounds like a worthwhile idea," Regan said.

Regan added he'd pose no objections if a site in Schaumburg would become available offering the same features existing at Barrington Road and the Tollway.

Why Not Trade Police Cars Every Six Months?

It might be cheaper for Hoffman Estates to trade police squad cars every six months than pay maintenance costs for a car kept a year, Trustee William Cowin said Tuesday.

Squad cars need new tires after six months and cars develop transmission and power steering problems, which are expensive to repair, Cowin noted.

In other action, trustees approved the appointment of Robert W. Johns, 414 Winston Dr., to the zoning board of appeals. The term will expire April 30, 1975.

Johns is president of the Winston Knolls Homeowners Association.

Public improvements in Hoffman-Rosner Units 27, 29, 30 and 31 were accepted by the village for maintenance. Trustee Bruce Lind said two minor problems will be corrected by the builder this spring, according to a letter of intent.

THE BOARD DIRECTED Village Atty. Edward Hofert to prepare an ordinance to require elevator inspections every six months. The village currently has two elevator buildings.

Phil Mendel, representing the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association baseball program, asked the village to improve the ballfields at Chino Park.

Chino Park is the only recreation field under village control; other lands are held by the park district. The village is considering giving the title for Chino to the park district.

Mendel said the backstop at the park must be replaced and the infield needs work that will cost upwards of $1,000. He asked the village to pay for the backstop and half the cost of the infield work.

Mendel's request was referred to the public works committee and a recommendation is expected at Monday's board meeting.

Cop Is Theft Victim

An Elk Grove Village Police officer was the victim of a burglary this week in Schaumburg, when his police monitor radio and speaker were stolen from his pick-up truck.

Patrolman Kit O'Reilly, 1304 E. Algonquin Rd., told Schaumburg Village Police he had parked his truck in the lot near his apartment at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday. When he returned to it at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday, the radio equipment was gone. The equipment had been bolted to the truck he said, and it apparently was removed by unfastening the bolts.

The equipment was valued at $200.

Firemen's Practice Building Burns

The Schaumburg Fire Department had a chance Monday to extinguish a fire in a building they had used to practice fire-fighting tactics for about eight months.

A fire broke out in the attic of Barney's Tap, Schaumburg Road, at 4:52 p.m. Monday. About eight men from Schaumburg responded to the alarm, along with three Hoffman Estates firemen. The fire was extinguished at about 6 p.m., after the attic was destroyed.

Schaumburg Chief Lloyd Abrahamsen said the building had been vacant for some time, and during the past eight months his men had used it for drills in setting up equipment to extinguish fires. The building is on property proposed for a hospital and medical complex site.

Village To Clear Sidewalks

The village of Hoffman Estates will assume the responsibility for keeping sidewalks along Jones Road by Churchill School free of snow and ice, Mayor Frederick Downey said this week.

Children in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg attend the school. Parents have complained that the walks are in dangerous condition for children walking to the school.

At Tuesday's village board meeting in Hoffman Estates, Downey read a letter he sent to Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Downey's letter states that the sidewalk is within the village of Schaumburg. He said it was installed as a joint project of Hoffman Estates and Dist. 54 about five years ago.

Hoffman Estates will keep the sidewalks cleared, but "legal counsel informs me that since the sidewalk is within the village of Schaumburg," liability rests with Schaumburg, Downey wrote.

A child was injured two weeks ago while walking home on the icy sidewalks. Some parents were threatening a boycott of the school unless the sidewalks were cleared.

The school district has done nothing to clear the walks. Hoffman Estates has left salt along the walks.

Vacationing Clerk Rapped

the clerk to produce the petitions," he said.

She could then be sued twice, once as clerk and then the clerk, village president and senior trustee could again be sued as the election board.

The residents have a right to see the petitions and these are only available the five days after filing closes added the spokesmen.

Mrs. McKinney added that the HOP party committee has seen the GOP sponsored party petitions but not the six independent candidate petitions.

The six independent candidates are, incumbent Trustee Gordon Jensen, William Hommowun, John Kluxen, James Dowling, Macedonio Iniquez, and Harold Soucie.

Conant High Group To Entertain PTA

A Conant High School choral group will perform at the first meeting of Twinbrook School at 8 p.m. Feb. 23 in the school multi-purpose room.

After the program, Larry Small, science consultant for Dist. 54, will conduct a discussion of science curriculum and parent participation activities.

Third grade mothers will be hostesses.

Recruitment Of Teachers Under Way

Teacher recruitment got under way Feb. 8 when over 25 principals and directors met to discuss recruitment procedures.

According to Richard Hirschman, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, nearly 250 new certified staff members will be recruited from over 70 universities and colleges throughout the nation.

The number of teachers needed for the 1971-72 school year results mainly from the approximately 80 to 100 new staff positions and from retirements, pregnancies and transfers.

Hirschman explained that the new positions are being created partly as a result of an anticipated increased enrollment of 1,200 students in September.

"ALONG WITH needing more classroom teachers a number of back-up people, such as special education teachers and consultants, are also needed," Hirschman said.

From now through March 5 recruiting teams will visit schools in Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Kansas, Minnesota, North Dakota, Missouri and Wisconsin. Numerous trips are also planned for 20 universities and colleges in Illinois.

In addition to visiting schools, the personnel office maintains an extensive mailing list and corresponds with colleges and universities from California to New York.

Preparation for this year's recruitment program started last June when schedules were arranged with the college.

In November the personnel office consults with principals and directors to determine staff needs for the following school year. A tentative vacancy list is prepared.

ABOUT THIS TIME materials, such as recruitment brochures and packets, are prepared.

In January information is sent to all college placement offices informing them of U46 needs.

Because of the increasing number of applicants Dist. U46 has cut back slightly on the number of recruitment trips, Hirschman said.

Last year the district had over 4,000 applicants for about 250 positions.

Paul R. Lawrence, superintendent of schools, said that while the number of teacher candidates available is increasing, so is the number of students enrolling in the district.

"It is imperative that we hire not only more teachers," he said, "but also the best available."

Currently Elgin School Dist. U46 is staffed by 1,215 certified staff members with a student population of over 23,000 students.

Set Education Program In U46

An in-service education program for secondary teachers in Elgin School District U46 will be held today from 1 - 4 p.m.

Students will attend school in the morning, but will be dismissed after attending a minimum of three clock hours.

Elementary schools will be in session all day.

According to Sam Nicholas, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, over 20 different subject meetings are being planned and are scheduled to meet in several central locations throughout the district.

These subjects include art, English, foreign languages (French, German, Latin, Spanish), guidance, health education, library, mathematics, music, physical education, reading, science, social studies, speech, vocational-technical education, educable mentally handicapped and speech therapy.

Most of the discussions will be led by district staff although several subject groups have invited outside resource persons.

Among the guest speakers to the district will be Dr. Leland H. Roloff from the department of interpretation at Northwestern University. Dr. Roloff will present the topic "Thinking with Bodies" to secondary English teachers.

Speaking to the district's health services staff on the food stamp policy will be John Hall, regional director, Aid to Dependent Children.

Other secondary in-service programs scheduled for the 1970-71 school year are on March 23 and April 28.

OK Service Station Here

A zoning variance to permit construction of a Mobil Oil service station at Golf and Higgins Roads in Hoffman Estates was approved by the village board Tuesday.

Stipulations for building the service station include a provision that a proposed Eagle Food store on an adjoining lot must be under construction before a building permit will be issued for the service station.

The village included this provision because in several past cases, developers proposed commercial facilities along with a service station, but only built the service station.

The design for the food store and the service station must be compatible.

Other stipulations for Mobil include constructing a sign no higher than 30 feet. The sign must not rotate or flash. The station cannot have rental vehicles, such as trucks and trailers. The village can order the station razed if it remains vacant for a year or more.

Catholic Schools Official Sees No Closedown Ahead

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

The superintendent of schools of the Archdiocese of Chicago said in Des Plaines Tuesday night he does not foresee the close-down or phasing out of any Catholic schools in the northwest suburbs.

The Rev. Robert Clark told an audience of more than 100 people at St. Mary's School, 1455 Prairie St., that there may, in the future, be fewer Catholic parochial schools and more Catholic children being sent to public schools but the Catholic parochial school system will survive.

"I just don't see the close-down of a $100 million operation which includes 300,000 youngsters," he said. "If we can't then we must move vigorously into a operate a full program of Catholic education time program with the public schools."

Rev. Clark led a panel discussion on the problems facing nonpublic schools and answered questions submitted by parents of school children and other parishioners.

He told the audience the archdiocese will request state aid again this year for nonpublic schools.

"I THINK THE legislature will pass the bill without a doubt," Rev. Clark said. "Politically, things never looked better for us. The votes are there since the Senate is now controlled by Democrats."

Rev. Clark added there's no telling what the bill on state aid will provide or what agreements will be made among members of the general assembly before the bill is passed.

"It's a guess — but I think they will pass the bill," he said. "The big decision will come from the Supreme Court, though, and that will probably come in May."

Rev. Clark also talked about educational problems facing the Catholic school system.

"The vexing problem facing us is that the kids now will face the 21st century — and no one knows what that will be like. To educate the children in the traditional way won't help."

"The amount of information and knowledge available to youngsters is beyond our grasp," he continued. "We must prepare the children to know how to learn, how to find sources of knowledge and to be eager learners. Schools must move rapidly into new modes of education in order to survive the next 10 years."

REV. CLARK admitted the Catholic school system in Chicago Archdiocese has not succeeded in providing special programs for problem youngsters.

"I don't think we'll ever provide a special program for problem youngsters. I don't think we'll ever provide education for handicapped youngsters. It's just too expensive. But I do hope we will set up an office for the guidance of these children and their parents."

Rev. Clark added the enrollment in Catholic parochial schools in the Chicago archdiocese has dropped from 380,000 pupils in 1964 to 280,000 this year.

"This great drop can be attributed to several factors," he explained. "The biggest factor may be the changing attitudes by parents. According to surveys, money is not a significant influence on parents to withdraw their kids from school. What people want — they will pay for."

"There is some drop from the high costs, though, and there is a drop because of declining birth rates and a declining baptismal rate. The drop can also be attributed to the movement from the city to the suburbs where parochial schools are not as accessible to the pupils."

Just Politics

by Ed Murnane

Local government officials have been sitting on pins and needles while waiting to find out what their share of the pie would be if President Nixon's proposed revenue sharing program is approved by Congress.

Figures for Arlington Heights and Des Plaines, as well as other large cities in Illinois, have been printed in various newspapers (although not all the figures have been the same) and other communities are speculating as to what their share will be.

The Treasury Department is the storehouse of wisdom that has been distributing the figures and, when it released the first batch last year, department spokesmen admitted they were doing so to drum up grass roots support for the revenue sharing program that had been collecting cobwebs somewhere in the corner of the House Ways and Means Committee closet of neglected bills.

By releasing the figures, administration officials felt they could get the interest of the people in the various communities. The feeling was that Arlington Heights and Des Plaines residents upon seeing what kind of good fortune they stood to gain, would motivate their congressmen to help move the bill along.

IN THE CASE OF these two communities, the congressmen involved are Rep. Philip Crane, R-13th, and Rep. Harold Collier, R-10th.

Collier is a member of the Ways and Means Committee — the third ranking Republicans to be exact — and he is a staunch supporter of revenue sharing.

In fact, he was one of the principal sponsors of the revenue sharing bill when it was introduced into the House last week.

Surprisingly, at least to those who have listened to him in two campaigns in the past two years, Crane also is listed as one of the sponsors of the bill.

The reason Crane's support is surprising is the fact that he has been one of the most outspoken opponents of sending money to Washington, only to have it come back to the states and local government in substantially less quantity.

As recently as last fall, when Crane was speaking to a group of residents and city officials in Rolling Meadows, he strongly opposed sending money to Washington when it could be used to solve problems at home.

"LET'S KEEP THE green right here," Crane said. "The brokerage fee is too high."

And in 1968, when he ran in the Republican primary, Crane spoke strongly against federal aid to education, saying funds were being wasted by sending them to Washington, only to have them come back to the states after administrative costs were shaved.

Apparently Crane has been convinced otherwise, and the arguments used must have been pretty strong to change one of his basic convictions — and a conviction that was largely accepted by many of his constituents.

If the revenue sharing concept is approved by Congress — and it seems doubtful in view of Rep. Wilbur Mills' opposition — local governments are going to have to wait for the Treasury Department to provide official figures on the amount they will receive.

Or they can try to figure it out by themselves by reading the revenue sharing bill sponsored by Collier, Crane, Rep. Robert McClary and more than 130 other members of Congress.

Here's the section of the bill dealing with payments by states to local governments.

"THE LOCAL governments of each state shall be entitled to receive an amount equal to the payment to such

THE HERALD

Section 1 — 5

state pursuant to section 401 (dealing with payments to states) multiplied by a fraction the numerator of which is the sum of the general revenues of all units of government of such state and the denominator of which is the sum of the general revenues of such state and all its units of government. Such amounts shall be computed by the state on the basis of the latest data available from the Department of Commerce at the beginning of the fiscal year."

There are other sections but we suspect that persons interested probably will be willing to wait for the Treasury Department to publish its figures.

HEAA May Include Winston Knolls Area

Tuesday night, at the suggestion of The Herald, a representative of Hoffman Estates Athletic Association indicated the organization could extend its total program (baseball, football and hockey) to Winston Knolls, the northernmost area of the village and park district.

Appearing before Hoffman Estates Park board members in an annual plea for assistance and cooperation in making ball fields playable, Phil Mendel, HEAA baseball commissioner, admitted his group had not considered Winston Knolls in planning for the 1971 baseball season.

Following the meeting Mendel agreed, during an interview, to schedule a special baseball registration for Winston Knolls families if interest warrants.

Although by-laws of HEAA presently restrict membership to residents of Schaumburg Township, Mendel also agreed to submit a request for revision to include the Palatine Township residents of Winston Knolls.

HEAA IS DEALING directly with the park district regarding baseball fields this year, since playground lands at schools in Hoffman Estates have recently been transferred to the district from Dist. 54.

Playing fields used by HEAA in the baseball program include school playgrounds plus Chino Park, owned by the village and used exclusively for pony league games.

Park officials granted HEAA the use of school grounds and agreed to provide $300 in labor and equipment use to assist in grading the fields.

Additional financial consideration may come in preparation of the park districts budget for fiscal 1971 which will not be concluded until at least May.

The Winston Knolls area is within Dist. 15, and to date negotiations for a park-school lease agreement for that area have not begun. Although there is a school site in the subdivision a building will not be constructed for approximately one year.

Apparently unmindful of the fact that

Winston Knolls is a part of the village, HEAA officials obviously did not take the area into consideration when asking for park assistance to be provided through tax monies levied by the district.

RECREATIONAL LANDS in Winston Knolls being donated to the park district by Centex-Winston Corp., area developer, are now in process of being turned over to the park district and could provide playable areas for a baseball program.

Work proposed at the existing fields includes installation of two backstops and fencing at both fields adjacent to Hillcrest School which is considered priority work by the athletic association plus grading and surfacing of several other fields.

Mendel told park officials that HEAA has a proposed budget which could produce excess funds totaling $5,748 and was advised by Park Pres. Fred Weaver that incidental work plus surfacing all fields could be done for about $3,500 based on costs obtained by the park district.

WEAVER POINTED out that this could easily be accomplished with HEAA funds and park board members could consider supplying equipment, material and labor.

Although Mendel expressed preference for a park district expenditure of funds, he agreed to a joint meeting of HEAA officials and park board members Feb. 23 at 8 p.m. in park offices.

Baseball Signup Urged

Residents of Winston Knolls interested in Hoffman Estates Athletic Associations baseball program are being asked to immediately contact Baseball Commissioner Phil Mendel to make arrangements for registration.

Although not previously included in HEAA's membership area, Winston Knolls, the northernmost section of the village of Hoffman Estates, can be serviced by the association this year if the demand warrants, Mendel said this week.

He also indicated that a special registration for Winston Knolls residents can be arranged in their area.

All interested residents of Hoffman Estates are encouraged to attend the March 12 general membership meeting of HEAA which will be held at 8 p.m. at Vogeley Community Center, Mendel also pointed out.

For additional information contact Mendel, 529-4104 immediately.

HEAA provides teams for little league minor and major players, as well as pony league for older boys and ponytail softball for girls.

Oszuscik Named Finance Committee Head

Claude Oszuscik of 1480 Cypress St., Hanover Park, has been named as chairman of the finance committee of the Republican Party of Hanover Park.

The formation of a finance committee to handle financial matters of the Republican party in the village was announced by Donald Totten and Jerome Mann, Republican committeemen of Schaumburg and Hanover townships.

Oszuscik explained that the purpose of the committee is to establish campaign budgets, supervise the raising of funds, and manage receipts and expenditures for the Republican Party of Hanover Park.

"Our committee expects to be very busy in the coming weeks, not only in the handling of money matters, but in the active participation in any and all fund raising events the committee might put forth," said Oszuscik.

Oszuscik said volunteers to serve on the committee are still needed. He may be contacted at 837-7288 by anyone interested in serving on the committee.

Health Referendum Passage Is Only The Beginning

(Editor's Note: The following article is the third in a series on the Feb. 27 mental health referendum in the townships of Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling. The referendum will ask voter approval of a tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation to be used for mental health and mental retardation services.)

by SANDRA BROWNING

If voters approve next week's referendum for mental health and mental retardation services, it will mark the beginning of an involved process before a budget is finally approved.

If voters authorize the levying of a tax not to exceed 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, then the Northwest Mental Health and Mental Retardation Council can begin to prepare a budget to be presented to township officials.

The council will coordinate the requests from each individual agency, decide on the amounts to ask for from the townships and then present the recommendations to each township's mental health board.

AFTER REVIEW AND study, the appointed mental health boards of each township will present budgetary recommendations to their respective townships' boards of auditors.

The boards of auditors have the final say on the budget figures and determine annually the amount of tax to be levied for mental health and mental retardation purposes.

The budgeting process will continue beyond this point, with the Council presenting budget requests for state and federal funds. In the meantime, the council can show it has the support of the local residents by citing the amounts contributed by the townships.

One of the problems involved in the budgeting process is the step involving the local townships' mental health boards. In three of the townships, the mental health boards have been appointed and held their first meetings within the last year.

Officials in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships announced the appointment of their mental health boards during the summer, 1970. The township mental health board in Palatine was appointed early last month.

IN CONTRAST, the mental health board for Wheeling Township was created in May, 1968. Almost since its beginning, mental health board officials discussed an area study of community mental health services and needs.

The mental health board served in an advisory capacity to the township board of auditors, presenting recommendations on disbursements of excess township funds to various mental health agencies. The mental health board heard presentations by representatives of various agencies and would then recommend to the board of auditors how the excess funds should be spent.

This system worked until the ruling that the excess funds collection system was declared unconstitutional last spring. At that point, townships no longer had any funds to hand out to qualifying agencies.

Palatine Township Board of Auditors also functioned with an advisory committee on mental health funds. Almost two years ago, members of this advisory committee recommended formation of a structured mental health board in keeping with the Community Mental Health Act.

IN ADDITION TO the problem of functioning with mostly recently created mental health boards, another possible problem is the mental health boards are not required to deal only with the council's requests for funds.

If the four townships do not sign an agreement, each township could decide on its own whether to give all of its funds for mental health and mental retardation services to the council, to only individual agencies or to a combination of both.

This way, an agency could make its own appeal to the mental health board and ask for a portion of the money, rather than joining the council which would in turn present a consolidated request to the township. This could happen if the townships do not agree to deal only with the council.

Another controversy involved in the referendum is a question about whether township government is needed. When the disbursing of township funds was declared unconstitutional, much of the power of the township was reduced. Giving the right for the township to levy a mental health tax would reinforce the idea that township government is needed.

ANOTHER CONTROVERSY involved in the issue is the "short notice" given to township boards of auditors to call the election. Although the boards were supposed to be kept informed about the progress of referendum plans by the citizens' committee, somewhere this communication broke down.

One of the first public "breaks" on specific dates for the referendum was in late December. Formal presentations to the boards of auditors to call the referendum were made in January. Some of the boards called special meetings to instruct township clerks to begin preparing for the Feb. 27 vote.

The authority to call a referendum was originally approved by registered voters attending the annual town meetings in April of last year. At that time, general comments show that the referendum would be called in the fall or early winter. After that time, the idea of a referendum seemingly dropped from general public sight until late December.

A PORTION OF the problem for townships involved a decision on how many precincts should be used for the referendum.

During a Jan. 16 meeting with the supervisors, clerks and attorneys for the four townships, the officials were advised by their attorneys that the full number of precincts used in the last election would have to be used for the referendum.

This legal opinion made it necessary for the hiring of 1,000 judges to serve in the total of 218 precincts in the four townships. Officials had not counted on this and the costs of holding the referendum meant spending $37,200 just for the judges for the referendum. This price tag does not include the printing of ballots and other costs.

The township boards had not included this large amount of money in the fiscal budgets which end Feb. 28. The budgets were approved last April when officials thought only a small number of precincts would be needed. The money to pay for the referendum will probably be budgeted for in the townships' allocations for the next fiscal year, which begins two days after the referendum.

ANOTHER ISSUE raised by people asking questions on the campaign is how the tax, if it is approved, will be levied on a township by township basis. The Council officials recommend that the actual tax rate be the same for all townships, stating that this will mean people in each township will be paying an equal rate to be available for the same mental health and mental retardation services. No official decision has been made on this matter.

prehensive program for mental health and mental retardation services is best administered by the townships because "the county is too big, no municipality is large enough" and it provides a way of covering unincorporated areas.

According to the council, the township will provide the proper governmental structure for development of a comprehensive plan to provide all phases of mental and mental retardation services in the four township area.

Tomorrow: The concluding article of the series will scrutinize the comprehensive plan for services and what the future might bring.

Law Can Help Keep Mailbox 'Clean'

by TOM ROBB

Her 10-year old daughter "felt kind of important" about the daily routine. It was a little girl's game — fetching the mail each afternoon — and her mother played along.

She even let her daughter claim the "junk" mail and coupon mail as her own pride and possession.

But the other day, the little girl brought her mother an envelope stamped "Sexually Oriented Ad." and the game was over.

Embarrassed and outraged, she related to the Herald "If there was only something I could do about this sort of thing."

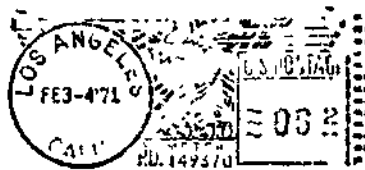

She was only one of many victims of the "smut peddlers" who do not know there is something which can be done. Last Monday, Americans gained the right to instruct their local post offices to stop delivering smut mail to their homes.

This would account for the seven or so complaints each of several post officials in different northwest suburban communities say they get each week, but not the untold number of obscene advertisements which are tossed in the waste basket and never reported.

SEX-ORIENTED LITERATURE can be banned by simply filling out a form stating your name, age and address. The forms are currently available at local post offices.

These forms are used to compile a list of names which will be sent to Washington, D.C. on Feb. 20, and each month thereafter to keep the list updated.

"Smut peddlers" who sent their material to anyone on this list are subject to severe criminal and civil penalty.

UNDER NEW postal regulations, this disclaimer must be on all envelopes containing sexually oriented material. Much of the material is coming to this area from companies in the Los Angeles area.

To protect themselves against a $5,000 fine or a five-year jail sentence, the peddlers must purchase the list periodically for $5,000 from the U. S. Postal Service.

To protect those on the list, it is a criminal offense for anyone other than those dealing in sex-oriented mail to purchase the list.

John Daley, counsel for the midwestern postal region, said, "The new law puts the burden entirely on the shoulders of the peddlers, and leaves the individual recipient with a freedom of choice."

HE FELT THE NEW law is "sounder" than its predecessors. Basically, three laws protected the public against smut mail prior to Feb. 1. Two of those statutes, which allowed postal officials to determine what was obscene, were overturned by the U. S. Supreme Court on Jan. 14 of this year.

The third, however, is still binding. It allows people to make a complaint against a specific peddler and instruct the post office to take their names off of the peddlers mailing list.

"The new law is different. It's more far-reaching," Daley said. "Instead of banning one peddler, the new law lets people put out a blanket order to stop all smut mail from reaching their homes."

To help postal officials with their job of intercepting this type of mail, peddlers are now required to stamp "sexually oriented ad" on the outside of each envelope, if they consider the contents to be questionable.

And reactions from the public have been as varied as this new law is thorough.

Robert J. Probstle is the assistant postmaster for Arlington Heights, which also covers Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows.

HE SAID HIS department has ordered at least 4,000 forms since Monday and will soon place another order for 3,000 more.

"People seem fully aware of this law, which is good — considering the amount of garbage going through the mail today," he said.

Since last Monday, a number of church groups have even requested to take forms back to their congregations, he said.

"But this can't be done. People have to fill the forms out at the post office. Another thing people don't know is that a wife, for example, can't fill a form out for her husband. Each person does it individually or not at all," he said.

The only exception to this rule is that parents can include children under 19 years of age on their forms.

Norman Nesser, assistant postmaster for Palatine, however, disagreed as to what the public's reaction has been to the new law.

"MY WINDOW CLERKS tell me that these forms are hardly moving at all," he said. "People aren't aware of the law."

Another factor which is overlooked is that this law is only for domestic mail, said a U. S. Customs official.

A good deal of the pornographic or obscene mail reaching suburban areas stems from foreign countries, mainly Scandinavia, he said.

Much of this mail enters ports in New York or Miami, where district courts have allowed the legal entry of such material.

But U. S. Customs does have an "illegal mailing list" which they use to spot certain materials from certain sources and intercept them before they reach the recipient.

As for domestic mail, most of the local postmasters agreed that the postmarks they see most often are those of Hollywood and Los Angeles.

MRS. CAROLYN Mullins, 506 Plymouth Ln., Schaumburg, is one of many housewives who have intercepted smut mail addressed to their children.

"My son subscribes to a couple of sporting magazines and I presume these publications sell their mailing list" to the smut peddlers, she said.

She said she will fill out a form at her post office, adding, "I'll do anything I can to help put these people out of business."

Mrs. Andrew Stutak, 206 Willow, Prospect Heights, said she too will fill out a form to prohibit obscene mail from reaching her home.

"I have two little girls who are just learning to read and if they ever ran across this sort of smut in our mail box, I don't know how I'd ever explain it," she said.

Paul Schreivogel, 928 Greenfield Ct., Mount Prospect, said he would not put his name on the new list, but thought highly of the new law.

"It's a good law, because it leaves it up to the individual, and not government censors telling me what the community morals are supposed to be," he said.

Asked why he will not put his name on the list, he explained, "I want the right to tear up and throw away what offends me. I don't want the federal government doing this for me."

And as to the seriousness of the threat posed by obscene mail, Schreivogel said: "Who knows? Today's sin seems to be tomorrow's joy. So what are morals anyway?"

Attend Workshop

Larry Johnson, inhalation therapy supervisor at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, and Geraldine Mao, inhalation therapist at St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village, attended a workshop in breathing physiology at the University of Chicago Center for Continuing Education last month.

The workshop was sponsored by the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County (the Christmas Seal agency).

Faculty for the three-day session were physicians and instructors from the University of Chicago Hospitals and Clinics School of Inhalation Therapy.

An inhalation therapist deals with therapeutic assistance of patients with respiratory disorders under the direction of physician.

Approximately 50 scholarships, which Johnson and Mrs. Mao received, to this workshop for Chicago area inhalation therapy technicians were provided through Christmas Seal funds as a part of The Tuberculosis Institute's continuing program of professional health education in respiratory diseases.

Mental Center Plans Told

by TOM WELLMAN

Plans for the second stage of a Palatine center to train and educate children with severe mental and physical handicaps were unveiled at Saturday morning's meeting of the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC).

John Wightman, executive director of the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO), which is responsible for the project, said bids for the addition would be opened March 31.

He also reported that the first stage of the project, costing taxpayers about $1.27 million, is 60 per cent completed and should be open for classes on about June 1.

Robert Chaney, of the architectural firm of Nichol and Nichol, reported projected costs for the second stage of the project have been trimmed to exclude such items as air conditioning. An alternate bid, however, will be accepted for air conditioning the new wing.

The first phase of the project, for primary and intermediate age children, was financed through a two-year levy. A third year levy of two cents per $100 of assessed valuation funded the planned addition, designed for high school students and young adults.

CHANEY REPORTED the addition will have to be built on caissons, because the ground under the project is extremely soft.

The addition includes vocational classrooms, a therapy pool, dining and office space, and a small model home in the rear to simulate household conditions in working with some of the children.

A three-man building committee will review the bids, then send them to the High School Dist. 214 board for action, as the Dist. 214 board is the administering board for the NEC.

The NEC governing board also reviewed an estimated 1971-72 operating budget of $41,500, up $4,000 over the present budget.

Gloria Kinney, executive director of the NEC, explained that the cost per student could climb from 39 to 41 cents. The projection includes a "conservative" total of 1,000 added students in the ten districts in NEC.

DISTRICT BOARD members were reminded that each member board must pass a resolution reaffirming NEC membership before April 1.

The governing board members also reviewed a report critical of a recently-received study on busing children to school.

John Barger, assistant supt. in Dist. 21, reported the study committee had reviewed the report, which was criticized for lacking adequate cost data on bus transportation.

The NEC was formed in 1969 to provide cooperative services to ten area school districts, which include elementary districts 15, 21, 23, 25, 26, 54, 57 and 59 and high school districts 211 and 214.

'South Pacific' Ends On Sunday

St. Viator High School's production of "South Pacific," which has been playing to capacity crowds, will be presented in three final performances Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium, 1213 E. Oakton St., Arlington Heights.

The cost includes nearly 50 St. Viator youth and girls from the area, most of the girls being students at Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows.

Another 150 students from both schools were involved in backstage work for the show.

When the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical has its final curtain call Sunday, it will mean the end of four months "of extra work" for adults directing the production.

This year's program was dedicated to one of them, Mrs. Kathy Koehl of Palatine. This is her fifth year of handling detail work from ticket numbering to bandaging cut fingers for students in the St. Viator musical casts.

For director James Stamm of Palatine and technical director William Rankin, Inverness, the show's end will mean one less place to go every night.

Stamm holds a full-time position as director of music at Taft High School, Chicago. Rankin is a Chicago grade school principal.

CHOREOGRAPHY for the "South Pacific" production was provided by Mrs. June Rold and Al Mueller, both of Des Plaines. Mueller danced in the Broadway show.

A Prospect Heights student, Tom Barclay, has the lead part in the Viator show. He plays Emile, the French planter who falls in love with Nellie, the navy nurse. Nellie is played on alternate nights by Sue Tardy and Sandy Stavropoulos, both of Mount Prospect.

Barclay's understudy is Mark Francis of Arlington Heights.

Other roles in the show are held by Greg Zlomek of Arlington Heights, as Lt. Cable; Eileen Gorman of Arlington Heights and Mari Miller of Mount Prospect as Bloody Mary; Tom Hoeg, Mount Prospect, and Frank Del Guidice, Rolling Meadows, as Navy sailor Luther Bilis; Cindy Spiros and Annette Kubajak, Mount Prospect, as Liat; Kathy Hume, Arlington Heights, and Pam Zonder, Palatine, as Ngana; Tim Sullivan, Palatine, and Clyde Mundt, Mount Prospect, as Jerome.

Other parts are played by Carl Forberg, Arlington Heights, as Henry; Kevin Bohr, Arlington Heights, as Capt. Brackett; Henry Rogers, Mount Prospect, as the commander and Ramona DeMio, Palatine, as Bloody Mary's assistant.

Tickets for the show can be reserved by calling the St. Viator school office, 392-4050, weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. They also will be on sale at the box office.

Senior citizens may obtain reduced-price tickets for the Friday performance.

Duels Tonight, Conference Meet Saturday

Final Week Of Mid-Suburban Gym Season

by KEITH REINHARD

Quick... yes.
Painless... maybe not.
This is the way Mid-Suburban league gymnastics winds to a conclusion this week. The 1970 dual campaign ends tonight with a quartet of matches on tap and quicker than you can say Joe Guastadisegni and Robert Siemianowski backwards the conference get together will be over as well.

Guastadisegni and Siemianowski are a couple of probable Elk Grove entries in that conference gathering, which gets underway at 7 p.m. Saturday evening at Arlington following frosh-soph competition in the afternoon.

The tourney limelight runs quickly for each individual too. The ten MSL squads will enter three performers in each of the six regular events. The performers go before the judges just once, to offer one routine, with their own fortunes and possibly those of their team lying in the balance.

The painful aspect of a conference gym meet is usually not in throwing that routine however. In most cases the youngsters and their coaches have had a whole season to hone these performances as close to perfection as possible and the drama of the situation often provides still further incentive.

Rather, the pain can be in the waiting, the anticipation prior to performing and the anxiety afterwards awaiting a score and its placement among as many as 29 other competitors.

And then there can be that long wait, until the entire meet is completed, to see where a team ranks among the other nine.

Gymnastics takes some of the guesswork out of predicting meet outcomes. Going by averages compiled over a long campaign it is possible to safely predict, for instance, that Prospect (129.56) will not be threatened by Forest View (66.52) or that Glenbard North (68.81) could not possibly upset Wheeling (109.93.)

This doesn't detract from those other cases though, where a numerical proximity allows plenty of room for conjecture.

In any event, Arlington will be sitting in the driver's seat Saturday night. They finish out their dual slate at Forest View this evening and expect to enter the MSL meet with a 9-0 loop mark and an overall average nearly ten points higher than their nearest threat — Hersey.

The Huskies in the meantime must fend off the highly respectable Knights at home tonight if they wish to go into the circuit tourney with only one blemish on their won-loss log. Since the Cardinals of Tom Walthouse have the home court advantage as well as the proven manpower, the Saturday affair looks to be more of a battle for the runner-up slot.

PROSPECT AND Elk Grove (which concluded their dual season Tuesday with Wheeling) will both be challenging Hersey for the number two position with the Wildcats and Conant offering remote outside threats.

Conant should enter the league fray with 4-5 record after being entertained by the Panther's tonight. Fremd and Palatine in the meantime can't look forward to Saturday until they settle their dispute for seventh place in the dual standings, by clashing in the Viking gym with equal 2-7 marks.

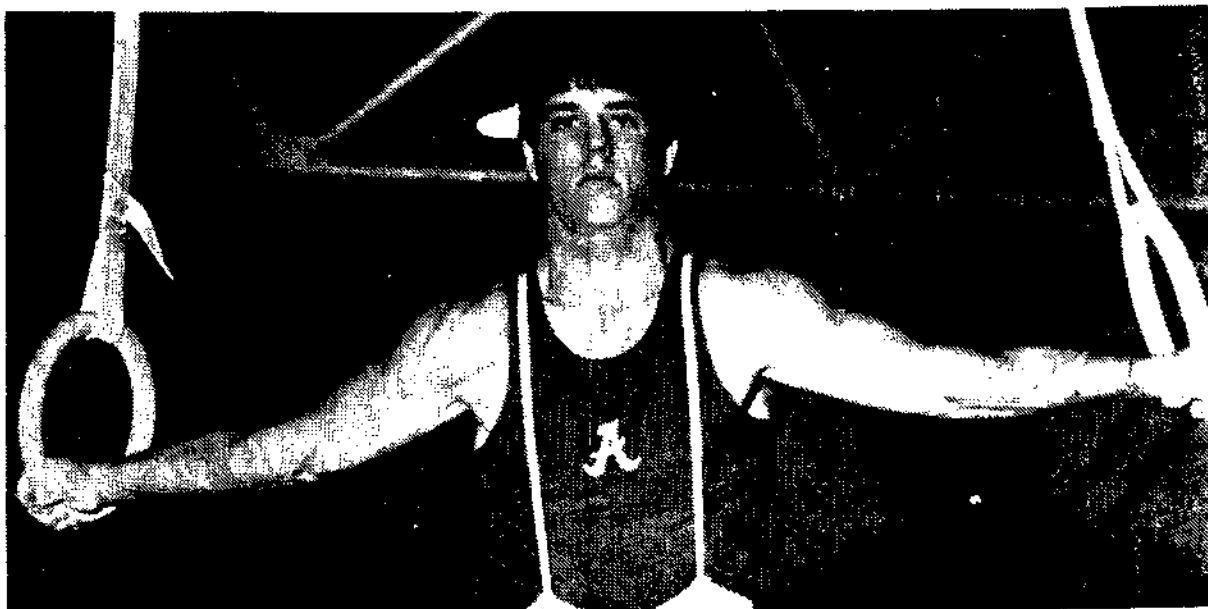

Hersey has come close to topping Arlington on a couple of occasions, and that's been painful for the defending league champions. They lost to the Cards early in the season in a dual meet and just this past weekend found their quest of a new area high coming up short, and in both instances it was by fractions of a point.

Last year Don Von Ebers' outfit also lost to the Cardinals during dual competition and came back to win the title in the league meet. It could be interesting to see them attempt to make history repeat itself.

Here's how Saturday's clash stacks up individually:

cellent cracks at the title. Prospect's Guy Courtney has maintained an eight point average the entire season but Grenadier Duke Brennan and Card Craig Combs have been ranging in the high sevens all along and can come up with the eight point routine. Others hot in the running are Hersey's Jeff Farris and Steve Schwabe along with Bob Mellin of Fremd, Doug Law of Arlington, Huskie Mark Boyett, Falcon Dan Boni and

Wrestling Sectional Begins At Wheeling

Two Wheeling wrestlers will square off on their own mats tonight (Thursday) when the first area sectional meet gets underway at 7 p.m.

The big attraction at Wheeling will continue Saturday, with the second session beginning at 1 p.m. and the finals at 7:00.

The two Wildcats in this meet, 119-pounder Ken Wright and 98-pounder Mike Beard, are the only Herald area wrestlers involved at Wheeling. Wright finished first and Beard second in their respective classes in the Mundelein district last weekend.

The other three districts feeding first and second-place finishers from last Saturday into the Wheeling sectional are those from Deerfield, North Chicago and Rockford Guilford.

Wright's three victories on his way to the 119 title at Mundelein included a pin in 3:50 in his opening bout, a 6-4 win and a 5-1 whipping in the championship tussle. Beard racked up a quick pin in 1:19 of his first match and leveled his next foe 8-0 before losing a tough 4-3 decision for the title.

All of the other 36 wrestlers from the Herald area who advanced to a sectional berth via a first or second-place finish in the district are competing in the West Leyden sectional in Northlake, which begins Friday. Details previewing this meet will appear in tomorrow's Herald.

COACHING HAS BEEN John Gelch's life for the past 14 years. In a few weeks, it will end.

When Gelch took the Harper College's athletic director's job, he knew that there would be a time when his coaching career would end. He had accepted the head basketball coaching duties on a part-time basis.

The addition of football — Harper's fourth sport — has put added pressures on him and has made it impossible to give as much time as he would like to both positions. So his first love affair must end. However, he still experienced some mixed emotions, as he explains:

"I came into this field to coach. When I started college, this was what I prepared myself for. To me, I think, coaching is the greatest thing in the world and I have thoroughly enjoyed it.

"Yet, I hope to be able to help my coaches even more so now by concentrating solely on my athletic director responsibilities. I'm going to try to make things better for my coaches so that they can do a better job. It's going to be a more indirect approach to coaching, but it's still going to be working toward my first love — coaching a team."

Some cynics might view Gelch's three decades' .500 seasons and think that his leaving will be the best thing that has happened to the basketball program. However, a closer look will show that Gelch, who had a winning record before he came to Harper, probably won as many games as he could with the talent and the circumstances he's had to coach under.

Each Hawk team has lacked a solid nucleus of players with high school experience. This forced Gelch to devote more time to the fundamentals, a facet of the game that college coaches usually don't have to worry about.

What few "prep veterans" Gelch did have were not all-conference material. Meanwhile, the opposition seemed to always be getting not only the all-league players but also the special mention all-stars. Many times, both in the past and this season, such stars on the opposition made the difference in the final score, especially in the close contests.

Then there were those odd hour practice times the first two years, playing games in several high school gyms and practicing in one gym five months while playing all their home games in another arena. Any advantage of a home court was lost.

Besides this, the caliber of basketball players hasn't been too good in the districts. What good players there were went to other colleges. However, this is changing for this year's graduating class promises to be the best since Harper began athletics.

The 1970-71 team was a good example of what Gelch has had to deal with. Only one player returned from last season's team with plenty of experience. And there was only one freshman who had plenty of high school playing time.

The outcome of the Hawks' first half of the season was almost predictable — they lost some close ones and also were thumped a couple of times as their record dropped to 0-9 before their first win. It took nearly half the season for this team to jell.

Since then, the Hawks have been looking pretty impressive. They've lost some games along the way but they've been in just about every game and their losses have usually been to teams that have more talented personnel.

Gelch will be leaving a fine nucleus for the new coach to work with in the 1971-72 season. But that's not the only thing he is optimistic about as he explains:

"Each year we're going to see better and better athletics out here. I think this is going to come along because the fact that Harper has such an outstanding college academic program. I think that the students in all the districts will find that it's to their advantage to come here and get a good start in their education."

"With the growth of these communities the way it is and the fine athletic programs that they have, the Harper program has to improve."

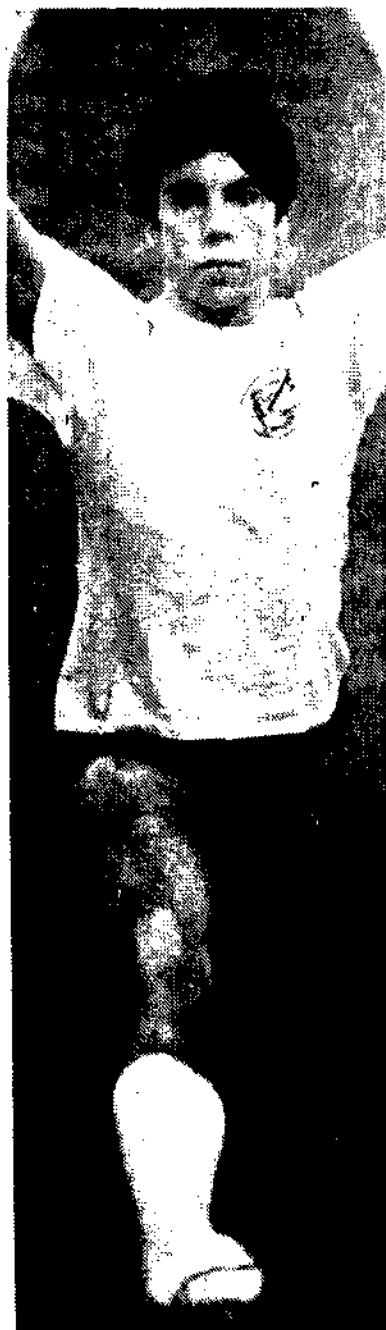

This spring the all-weather track and tennis courts will be completed. The baseball and football fields only need a little work before they'll be ready for Harper teams. And, sometime in the future, there will be a need for an even larger physical education facility to handle the constantly expanding Harper enrollment. When that is built, the Hawks will have a home court of their own.

But that new facility won't bring a winner to Harper. What will make Harper No. 1 in athletics is bringing the message of what the school has to offer — both academically and athletically — to local high school seniors.

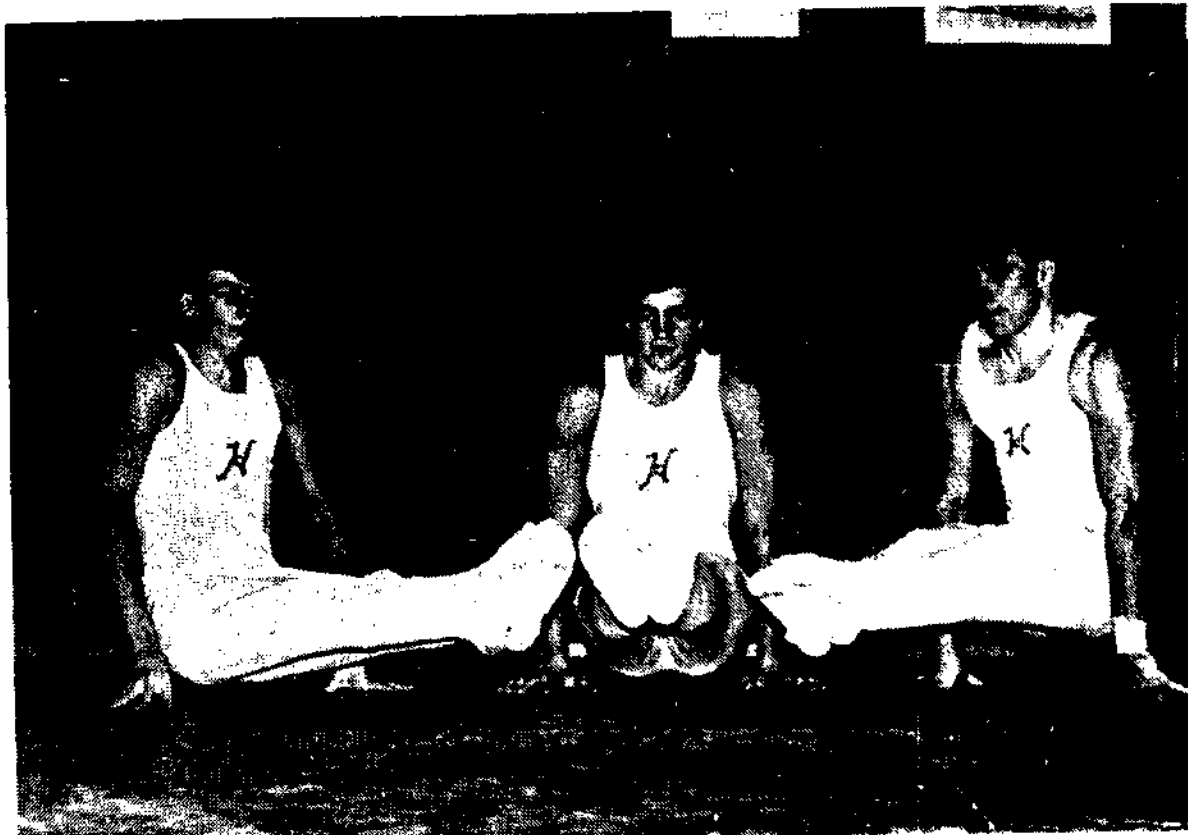

"We haven't done a very good job of this yet," says Gelch. "I'm sure that many seniors have questions about what we have to offer them. I know I'll be getting out to see more athletes and their coaches in the future. We must start making ourselves more available to the players and get to know the coaches better."

During the next month or two the new positions on the athletic staff will be filled. If the two new men are qualified as Ron Bessemer (wrestling-golf), Bob Nolan (track-cross country), Cleve Hinton (baseball) and Roy Kearns (tennis), area athletes will find success at Harper.

John Gelch may not have enjoyed a winning record the past three seasons, but he's certainly helped to organize Harper's overall athletic program into a very successful one.

SIDE HORSE

Again most likely a three-horse race for top honors with Hersey's Ed Hembd leading the way with Card Larry Bosing and Knight Howard Beck in close pursuit. Hembd finished fifth last year and like Courtney in free ex has been maintaining an eight-point tempo all season. Others in contention for those top ten coveted positions include Jeff McGuire and Fran Golbeck of the host school, Prospect's Ken Baker and Jim Wilcox, Grove's Andy Bowdles, 'Cats Jim Poteracki and Rick Hoffman and Farris again.

HIGH BAR

Arlington's standout junior Joe Temko is likely pretender to the throne here. He averages in the 8.20 range and has performed as high as 8.75. Farris and Knight Jim Lutz, who were sixth and eighth respectively in the conference meet last winter could give Temko a run for it. Others capable of high finishes are Law and Steve Brogdon of the Cards as well as Conant's Bill Anderson. All six have gone above eight in the scoring at one time or another during conference action.

TRAMPOLINE

Huskie John Weaver and Grenadier Al Mitsos could stage a battle for the top rung on this fickle device. Mitsos won it last year and had the top single score in the league this season going into the last final week at 8.90. Weaver has fashioned the highest average this season after placing third in the conference last time around. Others with the tools to hang right in there include Card Tom Sayre and Neal Dorsey of Elk Grove — both among the top ten in 1970 — along with Hersey junior Pat Treacy, Combs, Viking Bill Osborne, Cougar Paul Sinner, Courtney and Wildcat John Fisher can not be ruled out either.

PARALLEL BARS

That man Farris is in contention once more, only in this event, he has to be touted as the strong favorite, with an 8.25 average and a league high nearly a point better than just about everyone else. Elk Grove's Landy Fernandez might be entertaining contrasting ideas after taking a fourth in conference last year and Prospect's Rich Valentino and Elk Grove's Dan Stenolen were also in the top ten in '70. A whole flock of others jockeying for the top tenth berths includes Law, Brogdon and Bob Wilson of the hosts, Wheeling's Rene Mathis, Fremd's John Williams, Mike Moran and Valentino of Prospect, Bill Fergus of Hersey, Charlie Hadley of Elk Grove and Conant's Anderson. From a depth standpoint, this should be the best spectator event.

STILL RINGS

The finish should look like this: Jim Malmehdahl of Elk Grove first, Jim Yaeger of Palatine second, and either Wilson of Arlington, Knight Don Liston or Fernandez third, trailed very possibly by Cards Brogdon and Gary Braunsreuter or 'Cat Rick Bieg. Malmehdahl, fourth in conference last year at 8.30, hasn't gone nearly that low once this dual season and grips an awfully impressive 8.93 tempo. Yaeger trails respectfully but also leads everyone else respectfully with an 8.30 average. He was fifth last time out. Wilson also carries an eight point average but will have to work hard to maintain that number three rating. A darkhorse is Gvstadiscgnl.

ALL AROUND

Jeff Farris should have little difficulty nailing down this honor. His average is more than a point better than any other all around performer. The struggle for the number two position pits Fernandez, Brogdon, Law, Mathis, Anderson, Moran, Fergus, Valentino and Pirate Tom Schergan against one another.

Grove's Gymnasts Tip 'Cats

To vie for recognition in the Mid-Suburban League gymnastics race, you had better be consistently above average in every event.

Wheeling, who has proved a stout contender this season, hit for a potent 120.40 Tuesday, but missed connections on the tramp. The one mistake, against highly touted Elk Grove, was enough to boost the Grenadiers to a 128.78 to 120.4 triumph.

The 'Cats combined for only 11.7 on the bed while Elk Grove was replying with a 20.55. Otherwise, the meet was a stand-off.

Wheeling outscored its visitors in each of the first three events — free exercise, side horse and high bar. But after the Wildcats' downfall on the trampoline, Elk Grove went on to register separate wins on the parallel bars and rings to assure the victory.

The Grenadiers' strong suit was again the rings where the trio of Jim Malmehdahl (8.9), Landy Fernandez (8.25) and Joe Guastadisegni (7.4) combined for another amazing 24.55 total.

Wheeling, however, also came up with 20-plus scores on the parallel bars, free exercise and rings.

The Grenadier sophomores, whose only loss this season has come at the hands of Hersey, rapped the 'Cats, 81.42 to 71.28.

Law Can't Curb Campus Violence

The last thing Illinois needs to combat violent campus dissent is more laws on the books. Nevertheless, there's a chance we just might get some new laws from Springfield.

Last week, Sen. G. William Horsley, R-Springfield, once again launched his personal drive to clamp down on the violence and law-breaking which he sees on the state's college campuses.

Horsley, who chaired the House and Senate Joint Committee on Student Disorders, is known as a hard-liner on campus dissent. His legislative recommendations prove it.

His legislative package includes a bill to prohibit publication and distribution of violence-provoking or obscene literature without the permission of college administrators. Another bill permits administrators to suspend a student who breaks any university rule.

The legislation, at first glance, seems to threaten basic civil liberties. For example, what is "violence-provoking" or "obscene" literature? Some persons may view a morning newspaper as "violence-provoking" or "obscene." In other words, Horsley's bill could well represent a serious threat to freedom of speech.

Likewise, a student could be instantly suspended under Horsley's legislation for dropping a pack of cigarettes, if the college has a law against littering. Again, the legislation, if mis-applied, could threaten some basic American civil liberties.

Horsley's package is not only unacceptable because it is super-punitive and possibly unconstitutional. It also negates the role of individual colleges and universities responding in their own ways to students.

College and universities individually must have leeway to combat potential disorder, as sociological conditions differ sharply from one campus to another.

For example, Harper College is located 22 miles from Northwestern University in Evanston, but both are light-years apart in terms of student activism. Each administration, in working to control conditions which encourage violence, must work with and understand local conditions.

Besides, there's already a stockpile of college, city, state and national laws covering violent dissent. What's needed by college officials is more effort to get at the reasons behind the violence.

One means is communication. Both Oakton and Harper College have made commendable steps in past months to encourage communications.

Oakton, which opened in Morton Grove for the first time last fall, has agreed to allow a student and faculty member to sit as ex-officio members of the college's board of trustees.

At Harper, a committee of students, teachers, administrators and board members are studying revisions in the college's Conduct Code. Included in the far-reaching discussion on unrest has been a suggestion that Harper do what Oakton has done; i.e. appoint ex-officio, non-voting board members.

The suggestion, which has not been made, as a recommendation yet, has been criticized as a faculty-student power grab. The proposal will get a long look from unrest committee and the Harper board in coming months.

It must be stressed there is little public dissension among students at Harper and Oakton. The grievances which do arise can now be handled in existing channels.

In the future, though, communications might not be as easy and the presence of ex-officio board members might help calm a crisis. There's even a good chance that some of Mr. Horsley's nightmares about student violence might never occur.

Salesmen With Slimy Touch . . .

Typical Trauma For Suburbanites

by BRAD BREKKE

Behold the door-to-door soft water salesman.

A pushy, nose, gutty fellow with an enormous ego, a wagging tongue and an inability to take NO for an answer.

He takes you for a jerk, an easy mark, a pushover because often he's selling something you know nothing about. And he has the edge because he does.

He smiles, and when he greets you at the door, great big fangs light his eyes and his teeth shine like newly-minted silver dollars.

He has quite a pitch, too.

He'll tell you that you can't afford to be without his product for another second.

Or he'll try to win your trust by being cleverly honest. "Certainly it's expensive, but think it over. It's nice to own and you're probably the only guy on your block who doesn't have one."

At guessing your intelligence, he insults you and fails miserably. But at playing the confidence game, he is crafty, cunning and if he has been on the road for many years, supremely competent.

HIGH PRESSURE. Reverse psychology. This is the door-to-door sales man. A very shrewd fellow. A con-man of the highest order.

He comes to you in either of two uniforms.

In one, he is dressed to kill. He comes in a business suit. He appears clean, polished and ready to talk turkey and he'll have you think he's doing you a favor even by talking with you and your money.

In the other, he appears informal. He comes to your door and first puts his foot inside. Next he takes off his shoes and walks to your sofa in his socks. You know he's for real. You can tell by the smell of his feet; they stink so bad not even the dog will nap next to him.

He has long-dirty fingernails, an untucked shirt, an open fly and laughs out of the side of his mouth, as if he's just told you a helluva dirty story and doesn't want the neighbors to hear, even though he thinks it's kind of cute.

He's quite a fellow.

He even goes so far as to tell you if he sells nothing, he makes no money and plays on your sympathy by mentioning that he works 14 hours a day, six days a week.

He'd like you to think, "Poor fellow . . . maybe I can give him some business."

But the one you really feel sorry for is his wife. Living with a pushy character like this would be almost impossible, unless you have the patience of a saint.

This is the door-to-door salesman.

NOT ALL soft water salesmen are like this, mind you. But some are.

I know. I met two of them last week.

Soft water salesmen with a slimy touch.

They greeted me at the door, cordially.

"Buddy, you got problems. Your water's bad. Iron, sulphur and it's incredibly hard. You can't go on like this."

Suburban Scene

Something has to be done. Tonight. May I come in?"

"Sure," I said.

I have a well. I knew my water was hard, but . . .

Inside of two hours they told me some bone-chilling facts about my water.

First, they told me more than a pound of crud passed through my plumbing daily and in a few years I'd be having severe problems with it.

They demonstrated what they were talking about by taking samples of the water and performing some tests on it in my kitchen. It looked like the unsoftened water was 75 per cent sediment.

Not only was the water dirty. They said I was dirty, my hair was dirty, my freshly-done laundry was dirty, my coffee was lousy, my bathroom tub and toilet a mess, my washing machine in mechanical danger, my linoleum floors scummy . . . all because of the hard water.

And then they had the nerve to smile. And say it's okay now because the problem was spotted and they had just the thing to fix it. A water softener.

YOU'D THINK my well had raw sewage in it.

I felt polluted.

Then they explained that water gets that way when it falls from the sky and that such water was intolerable because we no longer live in the age of rain barrels.

They told me I'd save on soap, cleaning creams, shampoo, laundry detergents, coffee grounds and other items by having soft water.

And they added that not only did my water taste like rotten eggs, but it smelled terrible, and we smelled terrible when we bathed in it, and we couldn't get clean — really CLEAN — unless we had soft water.

They even implied subtly that I was a cruel person if I didn't do something about it. Cruel to my wife, my kids, myself and my dogs.

Can you imagine that?

I said I had used soft water before in motels and didn't like the slimy feeling I got when I shaved and showered.

They said I'd get used to that.

Then they said if I didn't act now, the water would stain all my white shirts and ruin my bourbon because of the iron.

IT ALL climaxed when they stuck a bill of sale in my face and told me to sign on the dotted line. Monthly installments for five years, plus interest.

"Just what I need," I thought to myself.

"Pal, if there was a better water softener made, I'd be selling it," one said.

"And, if my company didn't back me up, I'd be the first to go. And I've been selling these little gems now for more than 10 years."

"Sign here, buddy, right on the dotted line," he said again.

I nodded my head no. "Not tonight," I said.

"I don't believe it. You look like a smart man. What's the matter?"

"I wanna sleep on it," I replied.

"Pal, you can't afford to sleep on it, lemme tell you. You can't delay another minute. Com'on now, buddy, right here," he said, pointing to the paper.

"I'd sleep on it if you were giving them away," I said.

"Hey pal, you don't like me or something? Something I said to you? Something I didn't say? Whatsamatter, huh?" he said, now getting huffy.

"Nothing. Just my way, that's all. And besides, I'm getting confused, tired and a bit irritated. And it's getting late. Maybe I can't afford to be without one, but I'm gonna be dumb and try. I can't miss what I never had. And I'm gonna sleep on it and that's FINAL," I repeated.

They gave me a look of pity, as if I was incurably nuts.

"Sorry we bothered you," they said.

"Ah, forget it," I told them.

Finally, they left. Forever, I hoped.

Who said Willy Loman is dead? He lives. I can assure you.

Only the next time he comes around. I'm going to bolt my door.

"Shoo Willy. Go away, please . . ."

Russia Seeks To Close MIRV Gap

No Arms Race Letup Seen

by BRUCE BLOSSAT
(Second of Two Articles)

Arms experts say flatly the Soviet Union does not yet have any nuclear missiles with multiple warheads capable of being fired to a variety of targets to confuse and flood the defenses.

Herbert Scoville Jr., director of the arms control program for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, writes in the January issue of Scientific American that the Russians at this stage do not have "any MIRV systems tested." MIRV is the technical shorthand for independently targeted multiple warheads.

He says the Kremlin's powerful, land-based SS-9 missile has been tested for two years with three MIRVs, which means three nuclear warheads bunched to go to the same rather than different targets.

But Scoville adds that the Soviets have done no testing of either MIRVs or MIRVs for their Polaris-type submarines bearing nuclear missiles fired from beneath the ocean surface.

In this critical weapons area, therefore, the United States is far ahead of Russia, since we soon will deploy the first two of an eventual total of 31 submarines equipped with Poseidon MIRV missiles. These can have up to 10 warheads and cover distances up to 3,500 miles.

RANGE IS NOT an unimportant part of our margin of sophistication over the Soviet Union in the underwater missile field. That is why experiments are going forward for a still newer U.S. missile with a range that conceivably might get beyond 4,000 miles. Says one expert:

"When you add substantially to range, you don't make the problem of detection (of our submarines) just twice as hard for the enemy. You make it a million times as hard."

Notwithstanding our strong advantage with Poseidon and 50 already-deployed, land-based MIRVs (Minuteman IIIs near Minot, N.D.), U.S. military men worry a lot about the Russians installing MIRV.

The guessing here in arms and arms control circles is that the Russians might, as a counterstroke to our advances, try in time to fit the potent SS-9 with MIRV. Considering the unmatched "payload" capacity of this weapon, the experts think the Soviets might want to put at least 10 independently targeted warheads on each SS-9. The total destructive power of such a missile would dwarf anything we have in sight.

Even though we are plunging along the MIRV course, our representatives at the arms limitation talks (SALT) offered last April to include a MIRV ban in an overall package. But we attached the condition that on-site inspection within both nations be allowed.

Insight

No surprise, the Kremlin quickly said "no" to that. Recently, President Nixon reasserted the condition, thrusting aside the recommendation of his advisory committee on arms control that the requirement be discarded.

THE ADVISORY PANEL argued that the Soviets could not make headway with MIRV without open testing which our spy satellites can observe. At least a few military men contend, however, that the Russians' rocket skills, though presently not equal to ours, are sufficient to permit them to develop MIRV for the SS-9 or other missiles without open tests.

If the argument that the Russians must do visible testing has holes in it, so does the case for on-site inspection. Even if they permitted it, they could always switch to single warheads in advance of inspectors' visits. There is no foolproof check.

For this reason, and because Kremlin leaders surely must wish to narrow if not close the MIRV gap, a halt to this race seems unlikely.

Aged Face 'Pressing Local Needs'

Your editorial, "Plight of the Elderly" (Feb. 2), obviously is directed to the ears of the officials of the Big Government in Washington, who, as everybody knows, are continually expressing interest in the problems confronting older Americans, but when it comes to doing something practical their silence is deafening.

So, telling them, as you did in the editorial, that "rising consumer prices, growing unemployment, larger medical costs, inadequate pensions and the sheer increase in the number of elderly people" is just like bombarding a cement wall with peanuts.

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

We all know that because of these economic problems more and more, every year, elderly people are sinking down below the poverty line, and the Big Government has done very little to stop the trend. Even the Senate Committee, which was created to study the problems of the aged, nonchalantly admits that, as you quote it saying: "The economic problems of old age are not only unsolved for today's elderly, but they will not be solved for the elderly of the future . . . unless . . ." and here the committee passes the buck to the nation as a whole.

Now, since these problems are impossible of solution, why talk and write about them? There is a number of local problems and needs which vitally affect the lives of our senior citizens. Why not direct a few editorials to the ears of the village governments, urging them to take constructive steps toward solving some of them?

I can point out at least two most pressing needs of the elderly in this area — a need for Senior Citizens center and a need of some sort of public transportation. Establishing a Senior Citizens center and providing public transportation in our expanding suburbs had been a part of the political football during election campaigns. But after the election was over and the winners installed in their offices, those two needs of the elderly have been buried under a shroud of silence. As I remember, at the meetings of senior citizens signatures were collected endorsing the need of public transportation, but up to now nothing has come out of it.

So, Mr. Herald, we welcome your interest in the problems of the elderly. You, as the leading newspaper in this area, can do us senior citizens a great service by bringing our problems and needs to the attention of our village governments. I feel quite sure that one good

'Blob' Eating Up Tax Money

We have had it! And it is about time the taxpayer awakes and tell the park district that we are a small community and not a city like Chicago or Milwaukee.

A TV fiction movie depicts a monster blob arriving on earth and the more it ate the bigger it became. Somehow this story reminded me of our park district eating away our tax money.

Gentlemen of the park district: do you know how many men and women are out of work in YOUR village? Times are rough right now for a lot of people. I wonder how many of these people are worried about the "poor skaters" who have to depend on nature for their sport.

Also, how many teens are active members of our "must have, need NOW" teen center? Another case in point of the BLOB???

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Glass blowing, an art believed to have originated in Syria 21 centuries ago, helps today's man walk on the moon, get information on command out of a computer and carry the world of radio around in his pocket.

It's a specialized but vital part of our economy.

Thirteen glass blowers at a Motorola division in Phoenix, Ariz., annually produce more than $1 million worth of the microminiature electronic miracles called semiconductors.

THAT IS THE generic name for the solid-state transistor, resistor, diode and integrated circuit — the tiny, fast-acting components used in pocket radios, computers, cars, toys, appliances, electric switches, television sets and space vehicles. Glass blowers who turn out thousands of diffusion tubes, epitubes, quartz "boats" and crucibles have revolutionized man's life style and space achievements.

Quartz glass is used exclusively because it can withstand the high temperatures — 1,400 degrees centigrade or more — necessary to melt silicon.

"You have to feel your way through," said William Schwartz, senior glass blower in Phoenix. "You tell how well you are doing by the color of the glass and the way it acts."

Once the silicon is in a molten state, impurities are added to give it a positive or negative base. A single crystalline bar of silicon then is "grown" within the furnace from the "doped" silicon, and paper-thin wafers are sliced from the cooled bar.

A wafer, two inches in diameter, can be processed photographically to produce, for example, up to 20,000 transistors.

GLASS BLOWERS make good pay, and they earn it. They have to know how to use a gas-fed torch, to handle turning wheels and glass lathes, to heat glass without breaking it and to join tubing.

Lung power is important. If the worker blows too hard he blows out the sides of the tube. If he doesn't blow hard enough, the sides will collapse. It's all determined by the heat on the glass.

Patience is another important job requirement, according to Carl Goetz, a glass blower at Phoenix. "You work around a lot of heat," he explained. "That, plus the need for intense concentration makes you become a little irritable."

Chrysler Initiates Pre-Delivery Program

Chrysler Corporation has initiated an innovative program in Chicago for pre-delivery conditioning of 1971 models.

Last month, Mak-Redi, Inc. was opened at 10101 Stony Island Ave. to prepare passenger cars, light duty trucks and motor home chassis for customer delivery before they even reach the dealer's lot.

In 1967, Chrysler opened their first experimental plant for this purpose in California. Chicago's new plant is the second of its kind.

Mak-Redi is expected to employ up to 250 people and will process an annual load of some 50,000 to 60,000 vehicles when it reaches full operation.

ARTHUR J. SCHULTZ, a manager of the new car delivery system for Chrysler, said the purpose of the program is "to help free participating dealer's storage and service facilities to better handle customer maintenance and repair work."

Chicago area dealers can participate in the program on a voluntary basis. Instead of cars being shipped directly to the dealer, they will be brought to Mak-Redi where the pre-delivery conditioning will be done.

Dealers will also be able to store new shipment of cars on the 47-acre Mak-Redi site for up to 30 days free of charge and thereafter for a nominal fee.

At the new center, cars will be put through a series of checks and roadtests, involving over 100 pre-delivery checking procedures.

Schultz said when the program is in full swing it will be able to handle up to 300 cars per day.

After the car has completed its pre-delivery inspection it will be taken to the dealer where it will be ready for the customer to drive home.

MORE THAN 100 individual inspections are made on cars at the Chrysler pre-delivery center on Chicago's South side. The cars are brought to the center before being shipped to dealers in the Chicago area. Chrysler claims the new system allows local dealers to free service stalls for regular maintenance use for customers.

Ask The IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—CAN I DEDUCT the contribution I made to one of the candidates running for office here?

A—No. Contributions to political candidates and campaigns are not deductible.

Q—AS PART OF my job I work at home a lot and have a little office for myself. How do I handle my deduction for this?

A—To qualify for a deduction, you must show you are required to provide your own space and facilities as a condition of your employment and you use it regularly for business purposes.

You must also show the portion of your home used for this purpose and the time it is so used.

For example, if the office space accounts for 10% of the space in your home, you may take 10% of such items as rent, depreciation, heat, light, insurance, real estate taxes and mortgage interest. If you use the office portion only half the time for business purposes, then you may deduct only 5% of the expenses as a business deduction.

Unisexual Fashion: Vests And Ponchos

SLEEVELESS U-NECK sweaters. Sleeveless vests, some button down and others that are pullovers, will continue to be popular right into spring. The tank tops can either be worn belted or unbelted.

UNISEXUAL STYLING. This knit tunic features an updated argyle pattern accentuated by a solid belt.

by GENIE CAMPBELL

In between gusty cold winds and pleasant spring temperatures is vest weather.

But because vests have become an important fashion accessory for men as well as women this year, their season has been "loosely stretched." They were very evident under heavy top coats all winter, and they will remain popular throughout cool spring and summer evenings.

Vests are perfect examples of unisexual fashion. Ladies, as well as men, are buying the same models, the most popular being the plain U-necked one with or without a pattern.

And just as fashion has emphasized the body hugging items for women, men, too, have been affected by the close fit. Tank tops, vests and sweaters require a fit form. The days when excess pounds could be hidden beneath a loose turtle-neck sweater are over.

EVERYTHING IS being belted and that goes for vests too. If it doesn't come with its own belt, men are creating their own ensembles by embellishing their vests and sweaters with wide leather or metal belts.

But mini sweaters which end right at the waist are too short for belts to be added.

PONCHOS FOR MEN TOO. This one is of wool and features a bold Indian-inspired pattern accentuated by a solid crewneck and fringed border. Ponchos will be very prominent this spring.

In addition to vests, many men will be taking the poncho route this spring. First appearing last fall, ponchos will be out in great numbers as a most important accessory item for spring.

AND REGARDLESS if it's a vest or a poncho under discussion, odds have it that either one will be a knit. In addition to wools, knits will be available this spring in denim and cotton combined with polyester fibers.

Food Stores Hiring More Women

by GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — It makes sense that the hands which push the cart at the supermarket also should help to pull down some of the jobs connected with the store operation.

Which is one way of saying that food stores are hiring more women. Many for jobs once considered man's work.

One of the reasons is woman's natural talent as a housekeeper, which carries over into store operation. Another is the fact that even at a time when unemployment is high, there may not be a man available for the job.

"With the male labor pool tight in many areas... a good man these days may be hard to find," says Progressive Grocer in its current issue. "To fill the gap, many retailers are giving more thought to hiring women on a part-time or full-time basis for jobs usually filled by men."

THE PUBLICATION. In a review of the growing numbers of women in food retailing, cites as one example Bob Young, operator of four IGA supermarkets in Ohio. Young found part-time women workers successful in increasing sales and reducing out-of-stocks in his frozen foods departments. His stores, he added, are in small towns and are not high-volume businesses.

Fireco Sales, Ltd., Canada's largest service merchandiser with some 1,800 food stores spread throughout the dominion, started hiring women part-time three years ago. They worked primarily in rural and small town areas.

Fireco's President Michael Firestone said the project started as a way of having personnel on the scene when store shipments arrived. If shipments were delayed, it would save the company traveling salesman costs if someone in the neighborhood could check arrivals. No juggling of schedules, no costly long distance trips.

Sorority To Crown A Valentine Queen

Mrs. Robert Neal of Buffalo Grove will be crowned valentine queen of Lambda Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the couple's Monte Carlo Party Saturday in the Tim Parker home, Buffalo Grove. The evening will be spent playing games which will be followed by a lasagne dinner.

Toys for the emergency ward of Northwest Community Hospital were stuffed during last night's meeting in the Palatine home of Mrs. William Smead. During the evening Mrs. Neal Benson of Hoffman Estates gave a program on "Absolute Music" and Mrs. Richard Hillier of Wheeling and Mrs. Robert Gillis of Rolling Meadows, transferees, gave the welcoming ceremony.

WOMEN, HE SAID, found the part-time jobs a good way of "getting out of the house," earning extra money, and still keeping up with the housework and children.

Firestone said women in the main were the non-breadwinner, non-career types, often meaning less job turnover than with men who "tend to be more ambitious... impatient if growth opportunities are not immediately apparent."

Firestone said his company's experience with both the part-timer and the full-timer worker indicated the full-timer is more likely to produce better results.

He cited two reasons. The full-timer is more serious about her work. And working full-time maintains a pace that leads to more productivity through job knowledge and a "feel for the business."

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

by DOROTHY RITZ

Dear Dorothy: After using our fireplace for eight years, the stone has become sooty for the first time. Is there a do-it-yourself way we can restore the stone to its natural color? — Mrs. Shirley Krugel.

Once upon a time, home owners spent days on this kind of job, using all kinds of fancy solutions. Now, many readers report perfect results using simple trisodium phosphate solutions or commercial preparations containing trisodium phosphate. Some even use the new spray detergents. You have to work rapidly, from the bottom up, wiping up the washed area immediately. It's still work, but it's a picnic compared to the old methods.

Dear Dorothy: To make booster seats for the children, cover old telephone books or catalogues with contact paper. I now have about eight of these to use for the grandchildren when they eat at the table with us. I sometimes use two for a small child and one for a 3 or 4-year-old. — Mrs. J.J.S.

Dear Dorothy: I'd like to know what makes moisture appear between the inside of storm windows? — Lola Abbott.

It can happen when there's a lot of washing, cooking, bathing and so forth, in a home so tight the moisture can't escape. It just condenses on the cold windows. An engineer suggests it might help if the house is aired periodically.

Inasmuch as mushrooms always seem to add a touch of elegance to a meal — especially leftovers — I always try to have frozen, sauteed mushrooms on hand in the freezer. The fact that they taste good and have so few calories are good reasons for keeping mushrooms around.

Dear Dorothy: I clipped out a column of yours in which you were writing about advice for baby sitters. Meant to write for it, but lost the clip. Can you help a fan who is a clip-loser? — Fay S.

I'm glad you wrote. The "Baby Sitter's Handbook" (which ought to be in every home where there are youngsters) is just one of several excellent services of the National Fire Protection Assn. I've been meaning to mention two that are important during these winter months. One is called "Home Fire Escape," the other "Fire Escape from Apartments." For the one that suits readers' needs, enclose a self-addressed stamped No. 10 envelope to the association, Dept. DR, 60 Battery-march St., Boston, Mass., 02110, specifying which one you want. For those who want the "Baby Sitter's Handbook," follow the same procedure.

Dear Dorothy: I have a different way of preparing mashed potatoes ahead of time. I fold in two well-beaten egg whites per family-size bowl of mashed potatoes, which seems to keep them fluffy for a few hours. I use a stainless mixing bowl, cover the potatoes with foil and keep the dish on the warm stove while the meat is finishing cooking. — Mrs. W. E. Hunt.

Dear Dorothy: This might be the answer for the reader who wanted to know how to keep the baby's white garments white while in storage. Put them in a brown paper bag. I keep my white blouses, sweaters, gloves in the heavy brown bag that my groceries come in — they stay white. — Mrs. Grace C.

Dear Dorothy: Don't know if this has been in your column or not, but to get onion odor off your hands, just dampen them, sprinkle on table salt, rub a little and rinse with cold water. — Mrs. Roy Van Meter.

Dear Dorothy: For delicious fried chicken, I soak the chicken in salt water 30 minutes or longer. Then roll each piece in self-rising flour. Place in an iron skillet in which you put 4 tablespoons shortening or 1 cup cooking oil. Put in oven on the top rack for 30 minutes at 425 degrees; then turn each piece and let cook 15 minutes longer or until brown. Don't crowd the chicken in the pan and don't put a lid on it. — Mrs. W. C.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living Box 280, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Teach Consumer Course In Hawaii High Schools

by RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HONOLULU (UPI) — All public high school seniors in Hawaii will be learning how to hang onto the money they earn when the first compulsory statewide consumer protection course gets underway here this spring. And the girls will get training that should stand them in good stead when they begin running their own households.

Inception of the program, the result of three years of work by two dedicated women, places Hawaii in the vanguard of the few states which have formally incorporated consumer education into their school curricula.

Jane C. Smith, educational specialist for the State Office of Consumer Protection, explained that such courses are offered as electives in some states, including New York, California and Illinois.

"THIS IS THE FIRST time that a nitty-gritty practical consumer education course will be required for graduation from any public high school in a state," she said.

"What young people learn in this course will be valuable in every area of their lives," Mrs. Smith said. "Hopefully other states will recognize the need and develop similar programs."

Mrs. Smith and Miss Elaine Taniguchi, program specialist in social studies for the State Department of Education, have been instrumental in developing the course which is being instituted by the department in cooperation with the Office of Consumer Protection.

It will acquaint students with Quackery, deceptive advertising, the dangers of credit buying, high pressure sales techniques and consumer's rights under state and national laws.

"THE YOUNG PEOPLE know all about flower power but nothing about signature power," Mrs. Smith said.

"We see their agony in the consumer protection office every day," she said. "Their naivete makes them perfect victims for high pressure salesman or credit buying and soon they are floundering in debt."

Mrs. Smith said the "mini-course" will be a straight forward attempt to teach boys and girls to recognize the "tell-tale signs of fraud."

"We have to reach the students before they leave school," she said. "Some of them get a little consumer protection information in home economics or business classes, but the rest are lost."

"We've taught young people how to get a job but not how to hold onto the money they're earning," Mrs. Smith said. MISS TANIGUCHI SAID it will be up to the principals and teachers of the individual high schools to decide the length of the course and how best to fit it into the school's program.

"We've been working on a lesson plan that stretches anywhere from two weeks to nine weeks this year," Miss Taniguchi said. "We hope in the future to make consumer protection a full semester course."

The course will be taught by social studies teachers who have been instructed by Mrs. Smith and Miss Taniguchi on ways to teach it and availability of teaching aids, including an "adult" comic book designed by Mrs. Smith, and several films.

"The Office of Consumer Protection receives 16,000 complaints a year from consumers," Mrs. Smith said.

"By having a course like this we hope to prevent some of the costly heartbreaks."

Hollywood Scene

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "I don't think the Greeks ever envisioned a grand 18-hour-a-day entertainment medium when they introduced theater as we know it," said Arthur Hill.

Hill won the Tony Award for his role in the Broadway version of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and has been starring in movies and television ever since.

A tall spare Canadian, Hill is agast at statistics which demonstrate that fewer people are watching television, going to movies and the theater. "The theater is almost dead," he said with regret.

He fixes blame for the failing, citing lively arts on the glut of available distractions on tube and screen.

He suggested that overpopulation, especially in crowded cities has wearied the populace of seeing other people — in person, on screen or treading the boards.

"Perhaps that's why it's so difficult to distinguish one new face from another on the new television series," he said.

"Individualism is easier to determine when there is less quantity. It makes you wonder if a Jimmy Cagney or Bogart would have an opportunity to stand out in the enormous surge of new faces today.

"All actors would like to wait around for writers to provide new material or a fresh approach to an old plot. But it isn't realistic to do so."

Hill currently is working in a Universal World Premiere movie for television titled "Owen Marshall." Like most others of its genre, the show might be a spin-off for a television series. "I have no objections to a series," Hill said, "depending on the quality of material. The writer comes first."

Hill clearly would prefer to stick with movies. He soon will be seen in "The Andromeda Strain," a science fiction thriller in which he plays a Nobel laureate.

The Lighter Side

Is Nixon A Keynesian?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At a party the other evening an erudite group clustered around a bowl of bean dip was discussing President Nixon's new budget.

"Do you think Nixon is a Keynesian?" someone asked. "Of course not," I replied. "Nixon is a Californian."

Subsequent discussion revealed a misunderstanding. I thought the other bean dipper was asking whether Nixon was born in Kansas. It turned out, however, that he was asked whether Nixon had become a disciple of John Maynard Keynes, the late English economist.

The name is pronounced "Kanz" with a long "A." And when you say "Keynesian" with a mouthful of bean dip, it sounds more geographic than economic.

Most Americans, I'm sure, are aware that Keynes, the first Baron of Tilton, who died in 1944, was an advocate of big government spending as a means of promoting employment.

His theory became popular in England after World War II, but by that time the British government was too broke to try it out. So America became the chief testing ground.

If a U.S. president deliberately creates a deficit in the federal budget to stimulate the economy, he is then called a "Keynesian" but should the deficit arise through miscalculation, he is called a "Dummkopf."

THEREFORE, WHEN Nixon brought forth a budget with a built-in deficit, there was immediate speculation that he had become a convert to the Keynesian doctrine. I knew all of this, of course.

The other bean dippers, however, took my assertion that "Nixon is a Californian" as a lack of economic sophistication. So I was obliged to defend the statement.

I said, "Do you guys mean to tell me you never heard of Don Ernesto Valdez California, the Spanish economist?"

There was a general shaking of heads, plus some expressions of skepticism.

"It was California," I continued, "who devised the basic course of action the government should take when the economy is both inflationary and recessionary at the same time."

"He held that the sensible only thing a President could do in that situation would be to appoint a member of the opposition party as secretary of the treasury."

"Nixon's deficit budget may show Keynesian tendencies," I added, "but his appointment of Democrat John Connally to the treasury post was pure Californian." The bean dippers never recovered.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What would cause one to have a craving for charcoal, chalk, soft stones? Would consuming such be harmful?

DEAR READER — It depends on the age of the person. A child will eat almost anything. ONCE Some children even pick old paint off the walls and eat it. If the paint has lead in it, this can cause lead poisoning.

An adult eating the items you mention may have some deficiency in the body. More often it is a psychological problem and should be reviewed in person with a physician.

Some people develop the habit of eating clay. It has no nutritive value. If carried to extremes, these people will develop anemia and signs of dietary deficiency.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it true that certain foods such as milk and bread, eaten together, are injurious to a person's health? Are refined cereals, spaghetti, polished rice, white sugar, bread and mashed potatoes disease builders? I was always under the impression that the stomach could safely stand any combination of food. Can mixing foods cause slow poisoning?

DEAR READER — There are a lot of mistaken ideas on this subject, like not eating fish and milk together. That is poppycock. You are right. Any food you eat alone you can also eat safely with other foods. If you can't eat onions, then you can't eat them in combination with other foods as a rule. Now you can build up too high a level of certain things. For example, if you eat one food enriched with iron, then a couple more enriched with iron and finally take vitamins with iron added you can be getting too much iron (more often people don't get enough). But note that these are additives to normal food, not combinations of what nature intended man to eat.

The problem with polished rice and other grains that have had the husk removed is that they have lost a large amount of natural vitamins, particularly the B complex group, including thiamine. A diet exclusively of these products can result in diseases caused by vitamin deficiencies. This is why white flour is enriched — to restore the natural vitamins. The same thing applies to most vegetables to some degree. They have a lot of their vitamins under the surface and peeling them removes part of their food value. Potatoes are good food and have a lot of vitamins. They also contain lots of calories.

The problem with white sugar and foods consisting almost solely of carbohydrates is that they provide lots of calories but (as in white sugar) there are no other essential nutrients (vitamins and minerals). This is why they are sometimes called "empty calories." They are not poisonous. They just provide too many calories without providing essential nutrients for the body.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Z is back. Our older readers will remember that he used to sit South and play all the hands in the auction bridge columns. His regular partner was Y, while the defense was handled by A and B.

Y and Z weren't very good bidders. They didn't have to be.

If Z held the North hand he would probably have opened one no-trump in spite of having only 14 highcard points but Y only bid no-trump when his hand cried for that bid. Y just wanted to be dummy so that Z could operate.

Actually, the Y-Z bidding was perfect today. Y's club opening was correct in either JACOBY MODERN or standard American, as were the subsequent bids.

West continued hearts after his ace held the first trick. Z was careful to play low from dummy. He ruffed in his own hand, cashed the ace of trumps and led a second trump to dummy's queen.

Then he remarked, "If West holds the king of diamonds and queen of clubs, I can make an overtrick with a club finesse and a diamond lead to dummy's queen. However, it looks as if East will hold both those cards for his overcall and rebid. When I played this hand for R.F. Foster around 1923, it seems to me that the proper line of play was to make sure of 10 tricks."

After that remark, Z called for dum-

Trade Commission To Eye 'Consumer Protection'

New and tighter federal controls might be in store for door-to-door salesmen.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) will hold public hearings in Chicago next month on proposals designed to protect consumer interests.

Hearings will be held at 10 a.m. on March 22, 23 and 24 in Room 204-A of the Federal Building, 219 S. Dearborn.

This is the first time FTC hearings will be held outside of the nation's capitol. Jerome Lamet, FTC attorney, said the Midwest move is an effort to give more people who cannot afford a trip to Washington, D.C. a chance to testify.

Still, hearings on the same proposals will be held in Washington, D.C. on March 8, 9 and 10.

A large turnout is expected during the three-day long session in Chicago. Among those testifying will be various consumer advocates, Atty. Gen. William Scott, local officials such as Wheeling Atty. Paul Hamer and representatives from various sales groups.

Hamer recently served as chairman of an Illinois Municipal League committee which drew up model anti-solicitation ordinances for member communities.

The attorney has been fighting for local control over door-to-door sales since 1964 when Wheeling enacted an ordinance prohibiting solicitation. The law, which applied indiscriminately to charitable organizations as well as merchandise salesmen, was nullified in a series of court decisions which led the village to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Hamer has also worked with state legislators to encourage enactment of new statutes giving municipalities increased power over solicitors. A new statute passed in the last legislative session based on preventing trespass such as sit-ins on public property is being used by Hamer now as a basis for new municipal laws to regulate solicitors.

The proposals before the FTC are centered around one major revision in the federal regulations. It would allow the buyer a three-day cancellation period following any purchase of $10 or more from a door-to-door salesman.

Currently, state law gives the buyer this right. But the proposed federal regulation would make it mandatory for the salesman to notify his customer of this right in writing.

If the proposal is adopted, it would be unlawful for any salesman to use a contract which did not contain the following message in bold face print:

"You, the buyer, may cancel this sale or contract for any reason at any time up until three days after you signed the contract or purchased the merchandise or services. See attached notice of cancellation form for details of your cancellation rights and for methods of canceling."

"The proposal is called the 'cooling off regulation' and should be a benefit to many buyers in Illinois, for example, who are not aware of this right which the state now gives them," Lamet said.

Several other provisions related to this regulation will be presented. One demands that the seller return any payments, evidence of indebtedness or goods traded within 10 days of receiving a cancellation notice.

The new regulation would also enable the buyer to cancel his order orally.

Persons desiring to present their views at the Chicago hearings should inform Lamet of the intentions no later than March 15. Those wishing to deliver a prepared statement at the hearings should file one in advance with Lamet also by March 15.

Tuberculosis On Rise In The Suburban Areas

Tuberculosis is on the rise in Northwest Suburban Cook County, according to Edward A. Piszczek, M.D. of the county tuberculosis sanitarium district.

During 1970, there were 213 new cases of tuberculosis reported in the county, which compares to the 1969 total of 206.

Piszczek said nearly one out of every 10,000 people in Cook County was found to have the disease.

Of these 213 cases reported last year, 31 of them represented patients in Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Wheeling and Elk Grove Village.

In these same communities only 23 cases were reported to health officials in 1969, and 21 cases in 1968.

PISZCZEK GAVE no definitive explanation for the slight increase, but said the new cases in 1970 represented two different kinds of infection.

The cases are either typical or atypical, he said. The typical cases are usually contagious and can generally be treated with a combination of medicinal drugs. Atypical tuberculosis, however, are, on the average, not contagious and often resist present day medication.

"The suburban Cook County area appears to have a higher rate of atypical infections than any other similar area in the world," Piszczek said.

He did say one reason for the increase could stem from a concentrated outbreak of 23 cases of tuberculosis in Chicago Heights last year.

TUBERCULOSIS IS classified by its severity. There are four stages of the disease which are classified as minimal, moderately advanced, far advanced and primary, he said.

In 1970, 42 per cent of the cases reported were of the moderate advanced tuberculosis. Only four per cent fell into the primary, or serious, category.

Piszczek said one misconception people have about tuberculosis is that it is strictly a lung disease. But of the 213 cases reported last year, the disease was centered in other parts of the body, including ears, knees and the blood stream.

Piszczek added that the Suburban Cook County Sanitarium District operates clinics in Forest Park, Park Ridge and Harvey.

Scout-O-Rama Tickets On Sale

More than 300 Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops and Explorer Units launched their ticket sales yesterday for the Scout-O-Rama to be held March 27 and 28.

Reese Davies, 891 Sterling Rd., Palatine, is the chairman for the Scout-O-Rama and said this year's goal is to sell 100,000 tickets throughout the Northwest suburbs and greater Chicago area.

The all scout show, one of the largest indoor scouting shows, will be held at Arlington Park Exhibition Hall, Arlington Heights. The show will include more than 300 displays, exhibits and demonstrations, ranging from camping techniques to authentic Indian dancing.

Thirty per cent of the proceeds from the Scout-O-Rama will go directly to the participating units. Other funds will be used to provide program and camping facilities for scouts in the Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Builders Mark Milestone

Home builders may be able to postpone hanging a higher price tag on their houses as a result of a successful petition filed before the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) more than a year and a half ago.

Robert K. Widdicombe Jr., executive vice president of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland (HBAC), estimated that builders will save approximately $1 million this year in new housing costs for the area served by the Commonwealth Edison Co. The ICC recently ruled that there will be no future charges for underground wiring.

"This is a real milestone in helping to reduce the costs to make better housing available for all of the people at a lower cost and is a part of the continuing campaign of HBAC to arrest the distressing upward trend in housing costs," said Widdicombe. The petition was filed by the Sustaining Builders Council of HBAC.

Widdicombe said association attorneys advised that this marks the first time the underground wiring charges have been dropped, even though similar cases have been tried in several other states. The ICC denied the builders' request of reparations for past charges for underground wiring.

HBAC also sought relief from the requirement for underground meter socket fittings. This was not granted, and the fitting will be required within the next 120 days. Builder officials have met with Commonwealth Edison to develop a program for a lower cost of installation of the device.

NORTHWEST SUBURBAN builders, asked to comment on the estimated savings of $70 to $100 per house resulting from the ICC ruling, said the decision would delay a hike in new home prices rather than lowering the present prices. Neal Hunter, president of Lancer Corp. Schaumburg, said "We won't feel this effect now. It will offset additional increases in homes later in the year, however. The next increase in prices will probably come after new labor contracts go into effect in June, but there is no estimate yet of the amount."

Len Burnbaum, advertising vice president of Hoffman Rosner Corp. in Hoffman Estates, said the dropping of underground wiring charges means "a lot over all, but not much on the individual basis. We're not changing any new home prices," he said. "This will help to alleviate price increases later, at least until June when the carpenters get higher wages."

"The price is affected by volume, not, of," said Burnbaum. "We sell a higher volume of houses, so the cost per unit is less."

Hoffman Rosner is introducing smaller models at its new project in Frankfort, south of Chicago, to keep housing costs down. Burnbaum said the firm is also contemplating four-plex homes to reduce costs.

Bob Craig of Levitt & Sons, Inc., a subsidiary of JIT, said the company uses underground wiring in all its housing projects. "We will save money on our houses as a result of the ruling," said Craig. This is an ameliorating situation, which will help us to offset increased labor costs in June.

"A state code could help alleviate the cost situation," Craig said. "New codes could specify performance rather than the specific products that have to be used in construction. We'll see more pressure from the public in this direction."

Bank Appoints Executive VP

William E. Braun of Prospect Heights, has been promoted to executive vice president, Northwest National Bank of Chicago, 3985 Milwaukee Ave., it was announced by Fred W. Heitmann, Jr., president and chief executive officer of the Bank.

A veteran banker, Braun joined the $245 million north side financial institution as a teller in 1948. He advanced through the various departments of the Bank, becoming assistant auditor, assistant cashier, cashier, and in 1967 a vice president. Two years later, he was elected a director of the Bank, and will continue as cashier and a board member in addition to his new executive vice president duties.

Braun currently serves as a Director of Martha Washington Hospital, and is an active member of the Portage Park

William E. Braun

Chamber of Commerce and the Higgins-Norwood Lions Club, serving the latter as first vice president. In 1969, he received a diploma from the Graduate School of Banking, University of Wisconsin.

Branigar Stages Winter Carnival

A Winter Carnival with an international cheese and sausage theme is being staged for homesite purchasers and guests on three weekends at Apple Canyon Lake.

Seventeen miles east of Galena, the Branigar Organization lake will be the scene of snowmobile rides and racing, snow-man contests, sleigh rides, ice skating and tobogganing on Feb. 20 and 27 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The carnival is intended to expose Branigar customers and others to the winter recreation possibilities of lake home living.

The man-made Apple Canyon Lake, has 15 miles of shoreline. More than half-sold with 1,400 of its 2,600 sites already acquired by second-home seekers. Scheduled to reach its maximum depth of 70 feet later this year, the lake's waters are now 50 feet deep.

Last summer, the 4,000 square foot Canyon Club was completed along with a 42-foot observation tower. Completed last fall were the swimming pool and teen center. Work is nearing completion on a nine-hole golf course.

Neptune Moving Co. Names Central VP

Michael F. Barnett

From its world headquarters in New Rochelle, N. Y., Neptune World Wide Moving has announced the promotion of Michael F. Barnett to vice president of the corporation's Central Region.

Barnett, a former resident of New Rochelle, joined Neptune in 1946 after four years' service in the Navy during World War II. His outstanding performance and special aptitude for the moving business earned him a succession of advancements through the organization. His broad knowledge was acquired through actual on-the-job experience as driver, dispatcher, warehouse superintendent, salesman, branch manager, supervisor and planner of every type of move from the small to the very large.

Prior to his present post, Barnett served in a dual capacity: manager of the firm's Chicagoland branch and division manager of the Central Region. As vice president he will continue to be based at the Chicagoland Branch from where he will head up Neptune's ever-expanding operations in the important Central Region.

Through its nationwide system of 27 wholly owned and operated branch facilities in principal metropolitan areas, Neptune operates a fleet of more than 700 vehicles to serve corporate, industrial, commercial, institutional and residential clients.

Barnett lives with his wife and family in Hoffman Estates, Illinois.

Carlson Promoted At Bell and Howell Co.

William A. Carlson has been appointed director of sales, consumer products, by the Bell & Howell Co., according to an announcement by George R. Simkowski, vice president, sales and distribution, for the company's consumer products group.

In his new position, Carlson will schedule, direct, coordinate and be responsible for implementing all field sales activities and programs.

Carlson joined Bell & Howell as assistant manager, retail sales, in 1968. Prior to his new appointment, he served as manager, customer relations; manager, sales administration; regional sales manager in the Atlantic region; manager, market development; and director of consumer photo sales.

Carlson attended Northwestern University's Evening Division. He lives with his wife, Shelley, and five children in Arlington Heights.

New Gas Supply Released

by LEA TONKIN

If security means having a warm house in the wintertime, then residential users of natural gas should be feeling pretty good.

The two major utilities supplying natural gas to northern Illinois report that despite severe winter weather conditions, the gas rationing plans they implemented last year will not generally affect the small residential user. An unprecedented use of the fuel as a curb on pollution, coupled with slowdown in the development of new natural gas sources, were the primary reasons for the rationing plans.

North Shore Gas Co., a subsidiary of the Peoples Gas Co., announced last week that it will begin to provide service to the approximately 1,500 applicants on a waiting list for service. The company went on a rationing, or "controlled attachment plan," last June.

Edwin M. Taber, president of North Shore, said that the new volume of gas recently released is equivalent to that required to heat 2,000 six-room homes. It will accommodate high-priority applicants who filed for service up to the middle of last November.

Most of the applicants affected by this action, Taber said, intend to make use of their gas service in new construction, primarily single-family homes. About 10 of the applications involve existing building, which will convert from coal to gas for heating purposes when gas service is provided.

The restriction on new attachments was put into effect by North Shore Gas last summer because of the nationwide shortage of gas and the inability of pipeline suppliers to obtain sufficient quantities of new gas. The company said restrictions have protected its present customers — particularly those who heat homes or apartments with gas — from possible interruption of service this winter.

The current release of gas is the second such release by North Shore; a small volume of gas was released to the first 75-high priority names on the waiting list in August.

This announcement, coupled with the August action means that North Shore has now made gas available to more than 30 per cent of the 4100 applications for service in its area received by the company since last June 26. The company serves 46 communities from Winnetka to the Wisconsin state line and west to the towns of Grayslake and Round Lake Beach.

North Shore is able to make the release because the controlled attachment plan has enabled the company to more accurately define the impact of new load attachments upon available gas patterns, Taber said in addition three other favorable developments in recent weeks have helped: incremental gas was received through a pipeline supplier from newly-enlarged storage reservoir capacity in Michigan; most of the burden of severe winter weather has now been met, to judge from records of previous years; and increased uses of gas planned by several large industrial and governmental customers have not materialized as early as they had been scheduled.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS GAS Co., serving the northern third of Illinois with the exception of the area covered by North Shore Gas Co., reported setting several records this year in the amount of natural gas supplied. "The most recent record was set Feb. 1, when we exceeded 3 billion cubic feet per day of natural gas sent out," said a spokesman for the company. "Although our present situation regarding gas reserves has not greatly improved over the last few months, we do not expect to curtail the use of service for small or residential users." The company has some 1,150,000 customers in the area.

NIGas does have limitations for large commercial and industrial users of natural gas, however. "The only limit is on customers using over 200 cubic feet per day," said the company spokesman.

"These customers would have an annual bill of over $25,000. Presently there are only about 80 customers on this list."

"In addition we are also seeking permission to curtail some off-peak users," the spokesman said. "These are again the large users who buy gas at off-peak times at a cheaper rate. Only about 200 customers would be affected."

Chamber Meeting Is In Arlington

More than 200 Chicago area personnel and labor relations managers and business executives will attend an industrial relations seminar sponsored by the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, Feb. 18. It will be held at Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Heights.

The day-long program will feature as principal speaker Virgil B. Day, vice president of business environment for the General Electric Co., New York City. Day will address the luncheon session on The Role of Business in Meeting Societal Goals in the Seventies.

The regional seminar is designed to help businessmen keep pace with current personnel and labor problems. A faculty of eight experts will discuss day-to-day labor problems to help industrial relations specialists update their skills.

The seminar topics include new trends and developments in employee benefits; federal and state contract compliance requirements; workmen's compensation in Illinois; new aspects in the wage-hour law; union organizing techniques for blue collar and white collar employees; and what to do if a strike occurs.

John R. Clarke, vice president, industrial relations, Outboard Marine Corp., Waukegan, a State Chamber director, is chairman of the meeting.

Tower Evens Up Apartment Mix

CONTEMPORARY CHANDELIER and contrasting tones of wood paneling are featured in foyer at Lamp-lighter Towers, 1134 apartment complex of Di-Com Corp., at 5461 N. East River Road, Chicago. Spring occupancy is scheduled for the development's third 15-story structure.

Scheduled for spring occupancy, Lamp-lighter Towers' third 15-story structure will more than double the number of efficiency and one-bedroom apartments provided in either of the first two buildings at 5461 N. East River Road, Chicago.

Sig Lefkowitz, president of Di-Com Corp., project developer, said the changed emphasis is to even up the apartment mix of the three initial buildings.

The three buildings, arranged in a Y, share indoor and outdoor swimming pools as well as social and recreational facilities. Occupancy of the lower floors of Building No. 3 will start in May, Lefkowitz said.

The more than 100 efficiency units will rent starting at $130. One-bedroom apartments will start at $240 and two bedrooms at $325. The towers will contain 1,134 apartments when the second phase is completed.

The development is one block south of the Kennedy expressway and two blocks west of Cumberland Ave. The buildings feature a facade with columns of half-round balconies and flanking panels of red face brick. When the project is finished there will be two Y-arrangements of three 15-story buildings each.

Amenities include a solarium with sun-lamps, a whirlpool, workout room, two saunas and a billiard room. A social room can be reserved for large scale family entertaining. It has its own kitchen. During 1971, tennis courts and a pitch and putt golf course are scheduled for installation.

Hobart Radewagen, national Di-Com vice president of sales and marketing, said optional features available are underground parking and daily maid service. Radewagen noted that several corporations have leased apartments to accommodate transferred employees as the need occurs.

Di-Com Corp., the project developer and operator, is involved in a variety of national ventures including educational, manufacturing, commercial and apartment buildings as well as nursing homes. It is headed by Jay Felner, board chairman.

GRAND OPENING was held recently at the Hillbrook development in Streamwood, by the Lancer Corp. The three-bedroom homes are traditionally styled. The houses feature an attached garage and are fully carpeted. A basement or a finished recreation room is also included in each of the houses.

Lancer Opening Development

A new development by the Lancer Corp. in Streamwood is now offering three-bedroom homes priced from $27,350.

The homes are of traditional designs with classically-styled entrances and of masonry and frame construction. All have one and a half baths and attached garages. The development consists of 50 homes.

According to Al Bercher, Lancer's vice president of sales, the houses at Hillbrook are designed and built to fit the needs of growing families and are priced in a range which a large segment of the market can afford.

"We know there are many people who want to move out of apartments into a home where they will build equity but who feel they cannot afford a three-bedroom house. In many developments this is true but at Hillbrook, we have priced the units within the range of a very large number of families," Bercher said.

All the houses have three bedrooms, 1½ baths and attached garages. All are fully carpeted and the kitchens are equipped with ranges, dishwashers and disposals. Each home has either a basement or a finished recreation room.

Million Dollar Salesman Named

The million dollar sales goal was achieved last year by Al Langos, salesman for Robert L. Nelson Real Estate.

Al Langos

Langos, based in the Nelson office in Mount Prospect, also sold $1 million in real estate in 1969. Langos is the tenth Nelson sales person to reach this sales mark in 1970.

Housing Prices Bound To Climb

Postponing the decision to buy a house with the hope that interest rates will continue to drop could cost a buyer extra money, according to a local builder.

"If he waits, he may find that he'll be paying even more, because land, labor, and material costs are bound to drive up the price of housing," according to Jack Hoffman, board chairman of the Hoffman Rosner Corp. of Hoffman Estates.

He cites statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor indicating that in 1965, the median price of a new home was $22,700; in 1970, the median price was $33,700, a 50 per cent increase. There is good chance another hefty rise will take place in the years ahead, Hoffman said.

Hoffman said, "First, desirable land is becoming more scarce, and this trend will continue as the population climbs. By desirable land, I mean land close to transportation, jobs, and existing community facilities."

A recent study of land on a national basis revealed that the cost of raw land increased 15 per cent per year for the first five years of the 1960 decade, then rose 30 per cent per year for the last five years, he said.

Finished or developed lots increased in cost by 12 per cent yearly from 1961 through 1965, then went up by 15 per cent a year from 1966 through 1970. In Illinois, the average price of a finished lot was $7,569 at the end of this period, several times what it was in 1960.

"The second important factor in rising home prices is the cost of labor, which accounts for 25 per cent of the total cost," Hoffman noted. "Between 1965 and 1970, construction labor costs jumped 47 per cent, far more than the increase of any other employee group."

There is little likelihood the construction workers will abstain from further wage-benefit demands in coming years, he said. In Chicago, existing contracts provide for yearly 16 per cent wage-benefit hikes for construction trades through 1972.

"Because of these factors, we had to raise prices on our homes several times during 1970, and we started off 1971 with a $1,000 increase in the price of our Westlake townhomes," Hoffman said.

While home building in the Chicago area has picked up in recent weeks in response to the greater availability of mortgage funds, there is no possibility of an oversupply of homes leading to price reductions, he said.

He concluded, "If you can afford to buy, buy now. If you can't afford a single-family home — and this is true of many prospective buyers who are now priced out of the house market — then consider a townhouse," he said. "Multi-family ownership units, such as townhouses, will become increasingly numerous in years ahead as builders seek ways to squeeze more reasonably-priced housing out of available land."

Hoffman Rosner is currently developing two communities: Westlake in Bloomingdale, where single-family homes and townhomes are available, and Indian Oaks in southwest suburban Bolingbrook, where single family homes are being sold; townhomes will be available at Indian Oaks later in the year.

Opening Condos In Ranch Design

Ladd Enterprises of Crystal Lake has condominiums at its Whispering Oaks development in McHenry. The buildings, now under construction, resemble ranch style homes. Each is made up of four separate but connected two-bedroom ranch homes selling for between $20,000 and $21,000, with garage.

The new homes represent a departure from standard multi-level condominium construction, according to sales vice president Robert Robinson. Each ranch unit has two outside walls providing excellent cross ventilation. The two inside walls are shared with other units. The four homes are structured in a T-shape, two placed end-to-end with two back-to-back models abutting them.

The owner of a new ranch condominium is responsible only for the maintenance of the interior of his home. Such exterior care as painting, mowing, raking and snow removal will be handled through homeowner associations.

The homes feature two bedrooms, with a dressing area and entry to the single bath from the master bedroom. The kitchen in each is equipped with range, refrigerator, and disposal, and each has a pantry. Adjacent is a family-dining room with sliding glass doors providing a second exit. Each unit has a laundry and utility room.

In two models, living rooms are completely separate from roomy entry foyers. All models have storage space. Separate basements are optional features in each home.

A total of 152 units is currently planned for the site. Furnished models of the new ranch condominiums are scheduled to be opened for inspection about April 1.

Group Sets Record Has Sales Meeting

Albert J. Mayer III will address a special sales seminar for MAP Multiple Listing Service members and sales personnel on Monday, Feb. 22. The meeting will be held at Arlington Park Towers in Arlington Heights.

Albert J.
Mayer III

Mayer, a residential manager for Theodore Mayer & Bros., of Cincinnati, Ohio, will conduct a seminar entitled, "Do you have a communicable disease? The presentation is intended to acquaint sales personnel with the general economy and problems of competition."

Approximately 450 MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service members are expected to attend the session. The meeting will start at 8:30 a.m. and will continue through 4 p.m.

Mayer has presented the seminar to audiences throughout the country. He is a graduate of Trinity College in Hartford, Conn. He has completed courses in real estate appraising. He was a director of the Cincinnati Real Estate Board from 1965 to 1971. He serves as the president of that board, and serves on civic and educational committees.

MAP MULTIPLE LISTING Service reported a record sales volume in January. The record of 300 residential sales was set last month. This also reflected a record sales volume for one month of $10,537,075. The average sales price on the homes sold was $35,123.

The MAP January sales showed an improvement over the January, 1970, period. Sales in the comparable period last year totaled 209, with a sales volume of $5,776,215. The average selling price for homes in that period was $31,944.

Edward Busse, president, said, "The nearly 50 per cent increase in MAP Multiple Listing Service sales confirms our predictions of a more active sales market in 1971." He said it also indicates the influence of the multiple listing concept.

Of the 300 MAP sales recorded in January, 180 were cooperative sales involving transactions between the MAP offices. The multiple listing service has member offices in Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling, Schaumburg and Buffalo Grove.

Gains Posted By Baird & Warner

Two Northwest Suburban offices of Baird & Warner, Inc., reported an increase in both gross dollar volume and unit sales in 1970.

Robert G. Walters, district sales manager and vice president of the Arlington Heights/Mount Prospect offices, and Michael J. Del Re, sales manager of the Mount Prospect office gave the report. They said the two offices produced a 1970 gross dollar volume of $12,105,480, an increase of 07 per cent over 1969 dollar volume of $12,096,225.

The increase was achieved on the strength of a 159 per cent increase in unit sales, the local sales staffs generating 318 sales compared with 313 in 1969.

John L. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager for the 116-year-old real estate organization which has 27 offices serving Chicago and 50 suburbs, cited the local office's efforts as an important factor in the firm's overall performance.

Hall recently reported that Baird & Warner gross sales volume for 1970 was $129,492,313, a decrease of 1.68 per cent from the firm's record volume of $131,711,235 in 1969. Sales production, however, topped year-ago figures with 2,668 sales in 1970 against 2,660.

Company sales were paced by single family home transactions. The firm reported the sale of 2,275 single family homes in 1970.

James Brettner, of Chalet Ford, Inc., 801 W. Dundee, Arlington Heights, and Ted Dilday, of Schermer Ford, Inc., 1200 Busse Road, Elk Grove Village, have completed an advanced retail selling course conducted at Ford's Chicago Marketing Institute.

The course is one of a number offered by Ford Marketing Institutes to benefit Ford and Lincoln-Mercury customers by emphasizing after-purchase service and customer relations.

Subjects range from management and merchandising courses for dealers and their department managers to selling courses for salesmen. In addition, there are courses for selected Ford Motor Company personnel. Courses are developed from methods used by successful dealerships. Full-time, professional instructors conduct the classes.

Drive-Up Teller At Illinois Bell

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Feb. 10 for Illinois Bell's new Willow Crest electronic central office at 1325 N. Jones Road in Hoffman Estates.

The new building will be first in the area built exclusively for a large electronic switching equipment installation — a No. 1 ESS office in telephone language.

It will also contain space for a business office — with the first drive-up teller's window in Illinois Bell — and a plant department service center.

The electronic office will supplement present central offices in Palatine, Roselle and Bartlett, and will help meet the service need in Roselle, Palatine, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Barrington — the fastest growing area in Illinois Bell territory.

Construction of the building, which will be 20,400 square feet, actually started late last year. The building is scheduled for completion in the first quarter of 1972 and the equipment is scheduled to go into service in mid 1973. The contractor is Pora and Morley Co. of Northbrook, and the architect is Holabird and Root of Chicago.

The new office will have an initial capacity of 16,000 main telephone stations, and will be able to provide Touch-Tone service and Dial Tone First Call service, which allows pay phone users to dial emergency numbers without a coin.

Kunkel Firm Set a Record

Ralph H. Martin, vice president and sales manager of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, headquartered in Des Plaines, announced that Kunkel's sales for the past year were the highest in history.

with volume of $7,700,000.

The 44-year-old firm is a full service real estate office transacting residential, commercial and industrial sales and leasing. Property management volume, which has grown with the investment department of the business, is not included in the figures.

The firm attributed its continued growth to a consistent marketing program and professional sales personnel. The firm distributes a brochure called, Homes For Living, part of a National Multi List Service. This nationwide marketing program has affiliate Realtors throughout the country.

Rolling Meadows Site Financed

Mortgage financing of a $110,000 one-story building at 2535 S. Clearbrook Drive in Arlington Heights has been arranged.

The announcement was made by Edwin A. Salk, president of Salk Ward & Salk Inc. The term of the loan is 22 years.

The building is occupied by Right-Mold Division of Micro Plastics Inc. It is located in the Clearbrook Industrial Park.

The air conditioned building with a total of 9,991 square feet, including 938 square feet of office space, was developed by J. R. Gottlieb and Co. It is one of 10 industrial buildings in the industrial park, which also includes a multi-story office building. The building occupied by Right Mold has 117 feet of frontage on Clearbrook Drive and is 197 feet deep. It has a loading dock and asphalt parking area for 10 cars.

"AWARDED PROMOTION"

Mr. Don Heidorn, an associate of Annen & Busse Real Estate for the past 16 years, was recently designated as Vice President in the Sales Department of the firm, which has been serving the Northwest Suburban area since 1949.

Mr. Heidorn is shown receiving congratulations from Mr. Bill Annen, one of the founders of the firm.

Kurland Promoted

John R. Conrad, president of S&C Electric Co., recently announced the promotion of Murray J. Kurland, 418 Stuart

Murray J. Kurland

Ln., Palatine, to the post of director — International Sales.

S&C, located at 6601 Ridge Blvd. in Chicago, is a leading manufacturer of fuses, switches and related apparatus used for high-voltage switching and protection. Its international operations include sales representatives and licensees in 29 countries.

Kurland is a six-year veteran of the firm; prior to his promotion, he was manager — International Sales.

Donstad Writes Air Rights Article

Arlington Heights resident Curtis J. Donstad was the author of a four-page lead article on Chicago's pioneering air rights developments which appeared in the (Oct.-Nov.) issue of The Mirror, a magazine published by the Prudential Insurance Co. for its real estate investment offices.

Donstad, who lives at 410 Hackberry Dr., is a supervising appraiser in Prudential's Illinois-Indiana Real Estate Investment Office located in the Prudential Building, Chicago.

In the article, he explores the complex legal reasons for the century-long dormancy of the Illinois Central Railroad's famous 80-acre lakefront air rights tract and traces its development since 1961, when Prudential bought fee and air rights over the railroad's tracks for its Mid-America Home Office and "set off a chain reaction that has developed into Chicago's $1 billion boom." The Prudential Building — the first major downtown structure begun since the early 1930s — was dedicated in December, 1965.

One of the interesting facts cited by Donstad is the early resistance of Chicago to the advent of railroad. It seems that the city originally expected to benefit more from the Illinois-Michigan Canal, opened in 1848.

Donstad notes the "stiff opposition" that met the Galena & Chicago Union Railroad, the first to come to Chicago in 1848. "For two years, any rail terminal within the city limits was prohibited."

Offering homes of distinction for over 100 years.

PRIVATE BALCONY or patio is provided in each of the units planned at the Willow Creek Condominium Apartments in Palatine. Developed by the Centex-Winston Corp., the project will feature one, two and three bedroom units. The first phase of the development, a four-story building with 100 units, is slated for spring occupancy.

Condos Open In Palatine

Centex-Winston Corp. recently opened major developments in Palatine and Country Club Hills.

The Willow Creek Condominium Apartments are located in the firm's Willow Creek complex at Rohlfing and Northwest Hwy. in Palatine. One, two and three-bedroom units are available, ranging in price from $20,200 to $30,400. The first phase of the community will be a four-story building with 100 condominium units. Occupancy is slated for this spring.

Owners of Willow Creek Apartment Homes may use facilities of the adjoining club house and swimming pool, included in the price of the condominiums. The club house will feature a party room with kitchen, billiard room, card rooms and children's play areas.

The Willow Creek commercial complex includes the Willow Creek Theatre, Suburban National Bank, service station Howard Johnson's restaurant and motel and shopping facilities. Upon completion, 30 acres of the 90-acre site will be devoted to a park and a 10-acre lake.

Model condominiums located at 415 Creekside Drive are open for inspection daily from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m.

WINSTON PARK SOUTH, located on a

180-acre site at Crawford and 175th Street in the city of Country Club Hills, is a new community which will include 680 single-family homes. Five 2, 3 and 4-bedroom models which range in price from $22,900 to $27,000 will be offered for summer occupancy.

The model homes offered are: the Aberdeen, a three-bedroom, one-bath ranch priced at $22,900; the Brighton, a three-bedroom, one-bath split level priced at $25,500 which is also available with the lower level finished (family room and powder room) for $26,500; and the Coventry expandable Cape Cod. This home is available with two bedrooms and one bath and unfinished upper level for expansion later as family needs change at $28,500 or, completely finished as a four-bedroom, two-bath home priced at $28,000.

The Devon mid-level features three options: a two-bedroom, one-bath home with lower level unfinished priced at $24,500; a four-bedroom, two-bath home with lower level partially finished priced at $26,500; or completely finished with family room. Four bedrooms and two baths, priced at $27,000. The Edinburgh is a four-bedroom, one bath ranch priced at $23,500. Optional attached one-car garages are available with all homes except the Brighton which provides a one-car garage as a standard feature.

Carpeting, ceramic wall tile in the baths, and vinyl asbestos floor tile are standard features in all homes in Winston Park South. Also included in the price of each home are: washer, dryer, free-standing electric range and over with power exhaust hood and refrigerator. Homebuyers may substitute a dishwasher and disposal for the refrigerator.

Model homes located at 17621 S. Winston Drive will be open for inspection daily from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. The new community will have underground power lines, city sewers and water and paved streets and sidewalks.

Winston Park South and Willow Creek Condominiums are the fourth and fifth new developments the Centex-Winston Corp. opened since Jan. 16.

Winston Towers Five, the final high-rise to be built at Winston Towers Condominium Complex at Touhy and Kedzie Avenues in Chicago will be opened soon. Other recent openings include townhouses of Winston Village a new community of two-three and four-bedroom townhouses in the village of Bolingbrook; the opening of five new models at Winston Knolls, the firm's single-family home community in Hoffman Estates; and three new models at Hunting Ridge in Palatine.

Centex-Winston's current projects also include: Winston Woods, a community which will eventually provide 1,250 single-family homes in Bolingbrook; a 56-story apartment building now under construction at 111 East Chestnut behind the former site of the Bonwit Teller store on N. Michigan Ave. in Chicago; Winston Hills Apartment Homes Unit II, a community of 136 two-bedroom condominiums located in Woodridge; Winston Towers condominium complex in Miami Beach, Fla.; and Winston Park Condominium Apartment Homes in St. Petersburg, Fla.

1-acre Inverness homesites from $12,000—20% down, 7% annual percentage rate

Here is an unusual opportunity to purchase a choice homesite in the northwest suburban's most prestigious, picturesque village for as little as $2400 down. The homesites are a minimum of one acre with boundaries determined by the natural contour of the land to provide a perfect setting for your future home. The protective restrictions which have made this unique community the model of good taste assure that, whatever the future may bring to Inverness, the basic residential character, excellence of architecture and way of living in the village will never change. Architectural approval is required and no two home designs may be alike. Sites vary from $12,000 to $30,000.

Drive out to Inverness today. Our picturesque 4-silo office is open daily on Baldwin Road just west of Northwest Highway (Route 14) between Palatine and Barrington. Also convenient to Northwest Tollway (north from Route 53 exit). Or Call for an appointment, if you prefer.

*Example: $12,000 purchase—$2400 down, 120 monthly payments of $111.48

Pfaff Promoted At Bell And Howell Co.

Irving G. Pfaff of Arlington Heights, has been appointed director of product service by the Bell & Howell Co., according to an announcement by George R. Simkowski, vice president, sales and distribution, for the company's consumer products group.

Irving G. Pfaff

The announcement is part of a nationwide realignment of responsibilities for the sales and distribution of Bell & Howell consumer photo, electronic and audio tape products and also Canon photographic equipment which is exclusively sold, serviced and guaranteed by the Bell & Howell Company in the United States and Canada.

The realignment is designed by the company to maximize sales and provide more effective dealer service.

In his new position, Pfaff will supervise and operate repair and maintenance depots, perform engineering liaison, recommend product improvements to meet service needs and administer service warranty policies.

A graduate of the Illinois Institute of Technology with a B.S. in industrial engineering, Pfaff joined Bell & Howell in 1960. He was manager of purchasing and general service manager prior to his new appointment.

Nelson Will Head Professional Group

John E. Nelson, 125 E. Bentley Ln., Schaumburg, fabrication manager in the production control department at GTE

John E. Nelson

Automatic Electric Incorporated, was elected president of the Chicago Chapter of the American Production and Inventory Control Society (APICS) for the year 1971.

APICS is a professional group of men and women who practice the art and sciences of production and inventory control management. The society has grown from a handful of practitioners to over 6,600 members in 112 chapters throughout the United States, one territory and 10 international affiliates.

Allen Appointed

George W. Allen of 526 S. Roosevelt, Arlington Heights, has been appointed manager of the independent plans division of CNA, a large insurance group.

In his new position he is responsible for the processing of CNA's over-65 insurance, and administrative duties in the division.

Allen is a 1960 graduate of Illinois Wesleyan University. He joined CNA/insurance in 1961. Most recently he served as assistant Medicare supervisor.

up to age 22. Your last student benefit will be paid in March for February.

Q — MY SISTER has been seriously ill for several months. She worked part-time for the past 6 years. It's doubtful that she will ever be able to work again.
I've tried to get her to file for disability benefits. Would her 3 minor children get any benefits if she qualifies?

A — Yes. Monthly benefits are provide for children whose mother or father retires, dies or becomes disabled. Urge your sister to phone her Social Security
Office for more complete information.
They will explain and encourage her to file immediately. Sometimes a delay in filing can cause a loss of benefits.

Q — I'LL BE 65 in May, 1971. In my job I'm not required to retire at age 65. I plan to keep working for at least 3 more years. Should I notify the Social Security Administration that I plan to continue working?

A — Sometime between Feb. 1 and April 30, 1971 you should contact your Social Security office to get enrolled for Medicare even though you do not intend to retire. For full Medicare protection you should file before 5/1/71. This can be done through Teleservice. his means your claim can be taken by telephone.
You won't lose any time off from work.
Just call the 4415 N. Milwaukee Ave.
teleservice number — 282-8207.

Q — I'VE BEEN offered a job as custodian of an apartment building. The pay includes cash wages and an apartment for myself. Would my employer in this situation report Social Security taxes only on the cash wages?

A — No. Your employer must include the value of the apartment he furnished you as this is really part of your salary.
The apartment given to you is "wages in kind" and Social Security taxes must be paid on this as well as your cash wages.

FRENCH COOKING

Warms Winter Days

Here's a perfect winter meal with an international flare designed to satisfy the most demanding epicures: French Onion Soup is followed by roast duckling with nutritious vegetables. Crusty French bread, a leafy green salad and a fresh fruit cup complete our piece de resistance.

What more enticing start than a hearty potage? While the French have long been known for their classic cookery, you don't have to be an alumnus of Cordon Bleu to master the art of a gourmet soupe a l'oignon, s'il vous plait. This great brew is thickly laced with thin slices of pungent onions, seasoned with mellow sage, a fragrant bay leaf and full-bodied, dry red wine. Generous slices of homemade French bread, spread with margarine and a sprinkle of parmesan cheese top each serving.

If you're timid about baking your own bread, relax. Homemade bread is surprisingly simple to make these days, thanks to the new Rapidmix Method developed by the test kitchens of Fleischmann's Yeast. It's a great innovation for homemakers who have yearned to do their own baking but were concerned with complex techniques.

Thin slices of roast duck complemented with fresh carrots and potatoes pan roasted right alongside the bird make an elegant entree.

A tossed crisp, green salad offers a nice, light touch along with lots of French bread as you go petit parisien. Fresh fruit cups say fini in a most refreshing way.

Pretty fancy fare even if you are on a limited budget! And you'll rate four stars for cuisine par excellence.

Double Loaf French Bread

- 4½ to 5½ cups unsifted flour
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 2½ teaspoons salt
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 1 tablespoon softened margarine
- 1¾ cups very hot tap water, 120-130 degrees
- Cornmeal
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- 1 tablespoon cold water

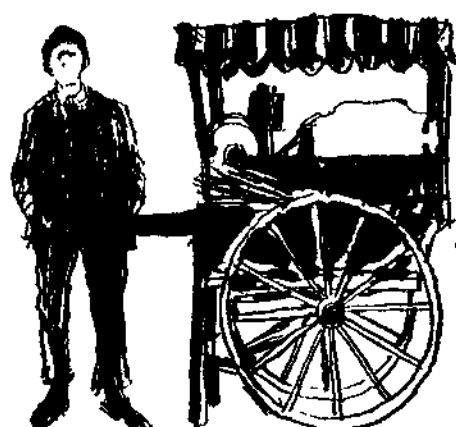

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1½ cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved active dry yeast. Add softened margarine.

Gradually add very hot tap water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add ¼ cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed two minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board, knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide dough in half. Roll ½ the dough into an 18x7-inch rectangle. Roll up from long side; pinch bottom seam and ends to seal. Repeat with remaining dough.

Place loaves seam side down, on a large baking sheet or two small sheets that have been greased and lightly dusted with cornmeal. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes.

With a sharp knife, make 4 diagonal cuts on top of each loaf. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, 30 minutes. Combine egg white and 1 tablespoon cold water. Remove loaves from oven and brush with egg white mixture. Return to oven; bake 10 minutes longer or until done. Remove from baking sheet and place on wire rack to cool. Makes 2 loaves.

French Onion Soup

- ¼ cup margarine
- 1½ pounds onions, thinly sliced (about 5 cups)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cans (10½ ounces each) condensed beef broth
- 5 cups water
- 1 cup dry red wine or beef bouillon
- 1 bay leaf
- ½ teaspoon powdered sage

Melt margarine in large saucepan. Add onions. Cover and cook over low heat 15 minutes. Remove cover; add salt and sugar. Cook over medium heat, stirring often, until onions are a deep golden brown. Sprinkle flour over onions; mix well. Slowly stir in beef broth. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches boiling point. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer, uncovered, 30 minutes. To serve: spread margarine over thick slices of homemade French bread. Sprinkle grated parmesan cheese over bread. Ladle soup into ovenproof crocks. Top each serving with a bread slice. Broil until bread is lightly browned. Makes 2 quarts.

Roast Duck with Vegetables

- 1 duck (about 5 pounds)
- 1 medium-sized onion, peeled
- 2 whole cloves
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 4 medium-sized potatoes
- 8 medium-sized fresh carrots
- ¼ cup chopped fresh onion

Wash duck thoroughly; truss, if desired. Stud whole onion with cloves; place in body cavity of duck. Combine salt, thyme and pepper; sprinkle over surface of duck. Place on rack in baking pan. Roast in 350 degree oven 2 hours.

Pare and cut potatoes in half. Scrape surface of carrots, if necessary. Cook potatoes and carrots in covered saucepan in small amount of boiling salted water 10 minutes. Drain.

Forty-five minutes before duck is done, pour all drippings from roasting pan. Add chopped onion and a little boiling water to roasting pan; return to oven. Thirty minutes before duck is done, arrange potatoes and carrots around duck. Continue roasting, turning vegetables once and adding boiling water, if necessary so that vegetables do not stick to pan.

To serve arrange duck, potatoes and carrots on serving platter. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Frozen Foods Aid Busy Homemakers

Convenience Is The Answer For A Tasty Lazy Day Brunch

Brunch is for Sunday. Or Saturday. For the days you sleep later and wake up hungrier. Bless the unsung hero — or her — who invented the brunch! Bet it was a gal with weekend guests who wanted to telescope two meals in one, but still make the meal something special. Brunch is a fun way to entertain and enjoy the yummy breakfast dishes you're too rushed to fix during the week.

Here's an easy and delicious brunch menu — Hash Brown Potato Bake, teamed with roasted Canadian bacon. It's really a snap to make — you just pop the skillet and the roasting pan into the oven. The thawed, frozen hash browns will bake into a golden-brown meshwork of buttery, crunchy potato shreds. The piece of Canadian style bacon will acquire either a smooth glossy appearance or a lustrous fruity one, depending upon the glaze you choose to apply.

For a guest-y touch, serve juicy fresh orange halves, which can be warmed in the oven with the potatoes and meat the last ten minutes of the baking time. The night before, you'll probably want to cut around each citrus section with a sharp knife to loosen the fruit for easier eating. Wrap the halves, of course, and set them aside until morning.

HASH BROWN POTATO BAKE

5 tablespoons butter
1 pound (carton or plastic bag) frozen shredded hash brown potatoes, thawed
Salt and pepper
Melt 1 tablespoon of the butter in a heavy 9-inch skillet with heat-resistant handle. pat half of potatoes into skillet. Season potatoes with salt and pepper. dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Add rest of potatoes; season and dot with remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours.

To serve: Run a knife around edge of skillet to loosen potatoes. Place warmed plate over skillet and invert; shake to release potatoes. Cut in wedges. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

ROASTED CANADIAN BACON

1 piece (2 pounds)
Canadian style bacon
Red current jelly or apricot preserves
Place meat on rack in open shallow roasting pan. Roast at 350 degrees for 1 hour, or until meat thermometer registers 160 degrees. Spoon jelly or preserves over meat last 10 minutes to glaze. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Since brunch is a late breakfast, or an early lunch, you can be slugged and still play the role of unhurried hostess. Just don't forget all the help these handy, frozen shredded hash brown potatoes can give you though! There's no getting up at the crack of dawn to scrub, boil, chill, peel and shred potatoes. And, while this delightful meal bakes, straighten up around the house before your guests appear... read the funnies... check your horoscope. Enjoy yourself!

A bright, light brunch is a refreshing change of pace from evening parties. A combination of breakfast and lunch, it may be served any time between ten-thirty and one o'clock — quickly, with a minimum of fuss.

Entertaining at brunch might call for more elaborate bill of fare, but let informality be the keynote. Deep-toned linens, bright ceramic ware and a cheerful bouquet of garden flowers set the mood. Thanks to the ease and elegance of frozen prepared foods and the helping hand of chafing dishes and electric serving trays, the hostess is unharried and relaxed. Want some help with the menu? Here are some bright brunch ideas with frozen foods:

KING CRABMEAT QUICHE

9-inch frozen pie shell
3 eggs
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 packages Alaska King Crab Newburg
1/4 cup grated Cheddar cheese
2 teaspoons frozen chopped parsley
1/4 cup chopped green onions
Bake frozen pie shell according to package directions. Remove from oven and lower temperature to 350 degrees. In medium size bowl, beat eggs, flour and salt until well combined. Add defrosted Alaska King Crab Newburg, Cheddar cheese, parsley and onion. Stir to combine. Pour crab mixture into pie shell and bake for 60-70 minutes, or until set and lightly browned.

Note: Frozen products may be defrosted in the refrigerator over night, or by placing in a preheated 300-degree oven for 10-15 minutes.

CHICKEN CHEESE STACK UPS

1 package frozen creamed chicken, defrosted
2 ounces sliced mushrooms, defrosted (about 1/2 cup)
1/4 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon Cheddar cheese, grated
2 tablespoons frozen chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon frozen chopped onion
10 Frozen pancakes

Place defrosted creamed chicken in a large mixing bowl and add mushrooms, sour cream, Cheddar cheese, green pepper and onion. Stir to combine. Arrange 5 cooked pancakes on a large baking tray. Top each with 1/3 cup chicken mixture. Stack 5 more pancakes on the rounds and cover tray with aluminum foil. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 15-20 minutes. Heat a 1-pound can of whole-berry cranberry sauce in a double boiler. Spoon sauce over filled pancakes when ready to serve.

HASH ROUNDS

1 package frozen Welsh rarebit
1 package frozen roast beef hash
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons frozen chopped green pepper

2 tablespoons frozen chopped onion
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour

Heat package of Welsh rarebit according to package directions. Combine defrosted package of roast beef hash with egg, green pepper, onion and flour, and form into patties. Fry in 2-3 tablespoons shortening until brown on both sides. Spoon Welsh rarebit over browned patties and serve.

Add Spice To Your Life

Just as variety is the spice of life, so can spice be the variety of life... your cooking life, that is. A sprinkling of cloves on fish before baking or a pinch of ginger to the bean soup can conjure up the same aura of adventurous cooking that must have invaded the ancient European kitchens when the first cargo of exotic and costly spices arrived from the Orient. Of course, for modern cooks, spices and herbs and other seasonings are neither mysterious nor costly. Yet they are just as important today as they were centuries ago to the preparation of dishes that are taste-tempting and deliciously different.

Dilly Pork Chops and French fries is one recipe that adds this "spice" to your menu in two very scrumptious ways. First of all, it features dill weed, a bright aromatic herb which adds a delightful tang to the creamy pork gravy you'll want to stir up. Secondly, it teams the pork chops with golden French fried potatoes, the all-time favorite spuds with everyone from toddler to grandparent. Try pouring dilled gravy, which is enriched with sour cream and sparked with onion, over the fries as well as the chops. The mild potato flavor blends delightfully with the gravy!

DILLY PORK CHOPS AND FRENCH FRIES

4 to 6 rib pork chops
1 inch thick
1 package (1 pound) frozen French Fried potatoes

DILL GRAVY

2 tablespoons flour
1/3 cup milk
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon dried dill weed
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup dairy sour cream

In hot fat in heavy fry pan, brown chops on both sides; place in roasting pan. Bake, covered, at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Increase oven temperature to 450 degrees, remove cover from chops. Spread as many frozen French fries as desired in a single layer on a cookie sheet and place in oven. Bake 10 minutes. Remove chops to heated serving platter. Heat French fries 5-10 minutes longer, or until crisp and brown; season and transfer to platter; keep warm. Make gravy: Pour off meat juices and fat from roasting pan. Skim off fat and measure 2 tablespoons into pan. Stir in flour until smooth; cook, stirring, over low heat about 1 minute. Remove from heat. Pour meat juices into a 1-cup measure; add water to make 1 cup. Gradually stir water, milk and seasonings into flour mixture; return to heat and bring to boiling, stirring. Add sour cream. Serve Dill Gravy hot over pork chops and French fries. Makes 4 servings.

Accompany your platter of chops and fries with "home-baked" frozen rolls and a colorful relish dish of crisp carrot curls, stuffed olives and spiced apples.

Now For A Hair Pin!

NEW YORK (UPI) —From the kitchen to the patent office — it's the route many a woman's idea is taking.

One New York patent development firm says more and more women, housewives among them, are becoming inventors these days. The firm told The National Enquirer that about 15 per cent of patents applied for in the United States today are from women, and the number grows steadily. Many of the ideas come straight from the kitchen or cleaning closet and include everything from time-savers to recipe improvements.

Elegance With Ease

Are you planning a very special dinner for a special someone? Perhaps you're celebrating your engagement and can't resist demonstrating your culinary prowess for your fiancée. Or, it may be your first wedding anniversary and you want to surprise your husband with an elegant candlelight dinner for two. Whatever the happy occasion, you will want your dinner to be elegant and festive, but not requiring tedious hours of preparation.

This Pilaf'n Kabob Special is sure to please your sweetheart. The kabobs boast tender cubes of beef tenderloin, large succulent shrimps, frozen pineapple chunks. (For extra convenience, buy frozen kabobs — beef, lamb or pork.)

At serving time nestle the two kabobs on a bed of fluffy rice pilaf. The rice is a breeze to prepare while you broil the kabobs. Chopped macadamia nuts, added to the rice at serving time, give it a nutty flavor he'll love. Golden orange frozen carrot nuggets are a bright vegetable accompaniment, and frozen chives a clever garnish.

One package frozen rice pilaf (rice)

PILAF'N KABOB SPECIAL

One package frozen rice pilaf (rice with mushrooms and onions)
1/3 pound beef tenderloin or sirloin, cut into 1-inch cubes
4 large frozen cooked shrimps, peeled and deveined
Frozen pineapple chunks
Frozen mushrooms
2 tablespoons chopped macadamia nuts

Prepare rice according to package directions. Alternate pieces of meat, shrimp, pineapple, and mushrooms on skewers. Broil to desired doneness, turning occasionally.

Turn rice into a bowl. Add macadamia nuts; fluff with a fork. Spoon into center of serving platter. Top with kabobs. Garnish platter with cherry tomatoes and parsley sprigs. Yield: 2 servings.

New Looks For Meats With Pineapple

Old favorites — veal, lamb and beef — take on new flair with the accents of canned pineapple. This trio of pineapple entrees offers a choice of fare for simple family dining or dinner parties.

A stylish combination of pineapple chunks and cubes of veal has a French accent. It is intriguingly seasoned with a variety of herbs in a white wine sauce. Serve it piping hot for family members or guests to spoon their own into baked tart shells you make from scratch or prepare from the freezer.

Lamb chops have a new look and exciting flavor too! A regal crown of canned pineapple slice per chop makes each serving a real "fashion plate." The ingredients are basic — but no one could tell by tasting. Once again, herbs accent the pan juices for a flavorful accompanying sauce that rates raves.

Ground beef makes a colorful entree when formed into meat balls and accented with the brilliant golden touch of pineapple chunks. Bright green pepper and a sweet sour sauce are added, too, for a quick and easy dish that the family will love!

The flavor of canned pineapple makes bright menu planning every time.

PINEAPPLE VEAL PARISIENNE

- 1 (13½-ounce) can pineapple chunks
- 1½ pounds boneless veal steak, 1-inch thick
- 4 tablespoons butter
- ¼ cup sauterne
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon tarragon
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 3 green onions, chopped
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 1 cup fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons water
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
- 6 (3 to 4-inch) baked tart shells

Drain pineapple, reserving ¼ cup syrup. Cut meat into small cubes. Saute quickly in 2 tablespoons butter to rich brown color, stirring occasionally. Add reserved pineapple syrup and wine to browned meat.

Stir to loosen pan drippings. Add salt, tarragon, pepper, onion and ½ cup chicken broth. Cover tightly and simmer over low heat about 45 minutes, until veal is tender. Saute mushrooms in remaining 2 tablespoons butter; add to meat. Add remaining ½ cup broth. Mix cornstarch with water and stir into meat mixture. Cook, stirring, until thickened. Add pineapple chunks; heat slowly 5 minutes. Add chopped parsley. Serve in baked tart shells. Makes 6 servings.

GOURMET PINEAPPLE LAMB CHOPS

- 4 shoulder lamb chops, ½-inch
- 4 thick onion slices
- 4 thin lemon slices
- 4 tomato slices
- Garlic salt
- Dill weed
- Seasoned pepper
- 1 (8¼-ounce) can pineapple slices

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Trim all fat from chops. Arrange meat in shallow baking dish. Top each chop with a slice of onion, lemon and tomato. Sprinkle generously with garlic salt, dill weed and pepper. Cover tightly and bake 45 minutes. Drain pineapple. Top each chop with pineapple slice. Spoon pan juices over top. Bake 15 minutes longer. Serve with pan juices. Makes 4 servings.

Pineapple Veal Parisienne

PINEAPPLE BAKED MEAT BALLS

- 1 (13½-ounce) can pineapple chunks
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 pound ground lean beef
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 slice bread
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- ¼ cup catsup
- 2 tablespoons vinegar

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Drain pineapple, reserving 2 tablespoons syrup. Soak bread in water; combine with beef, salt, pepper and onion. Mix lightly but well. Shape into 8 balls. Place ½ inch apart in shallow baking pan. Bake 20 minutes. Add pineapple chunks and green pepper. Blend catsup, vinegar and reserved pineapple syrup. Mix lightly with meat balls and pineapple. Continue baking about 15 minutes longer until glazed. Makes 4 servings.

Pheasant Run Mardi Gras Features Creole Cuisine

A wide variety of Creole cuisine will be served at Pheasant Run during Mardi Gras weekend, February 19, 20 and 21. The recipes for the famous dishes come from New Orleans where preparation and serving of food is a fine art and haute cuisine is a tradition. According to Pheasant Run's chef, Alois Baumgartner, typical Creole food is a blend of culinary art from France, Spain and the West Indies.

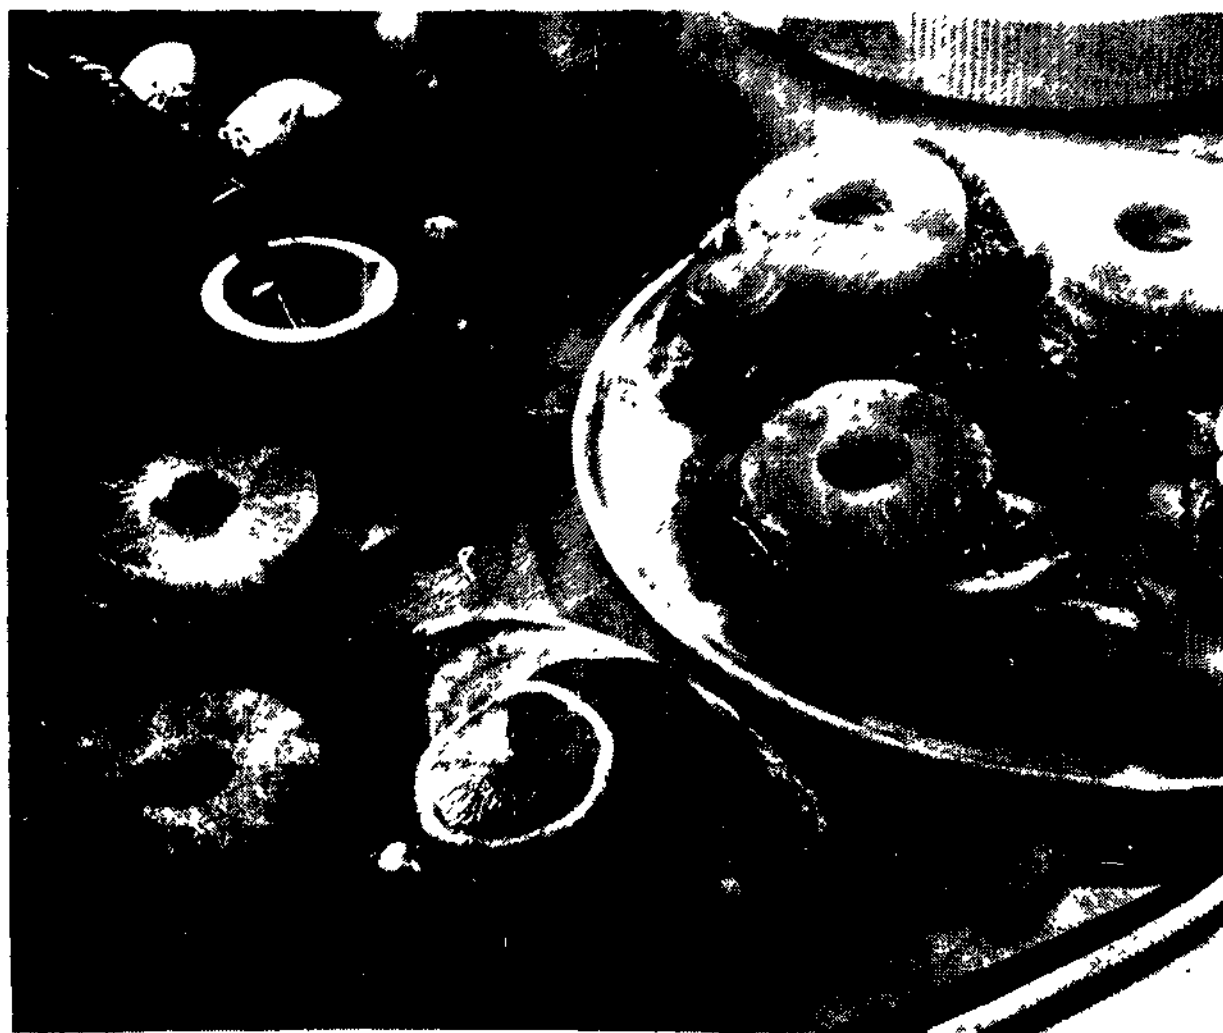

The main courses which will be served from gaily decorated carts in the New Orleans Ballroom are Shrimp Jambalaya, Chicken Orleans and Beef Tip a la Eugene. Oysters Rockefeller will be one of the items featured at the appetizer cart. The dessert cart will offer apple pie with brandy sauce and other southern favorites. Special New Orleans foods and beverages will also be featured in the dining rooms during Mardi Gras.

The Mardi Gras weekend will be highlighted by a carnival in the New Orleans Ballroom where community organizations are sponsoring booths to raise funds. Dixieland music, dancing, clowns and costume parades will bring excitement to the event.

SHRIMP JAMBALAYA

- 2 pounds raw shrimp, peeled
- 1 pound boiled ham, diced
- 2 onions, chopped
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 4 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1 green pepper, diced
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 pinch saffron
- 1 can 303 stewed tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons tomato paste
- 1½ cups uncooked rice
- 1 cup chicken broth
- salt and pepper to taste

Saute ham, onions, garlic, celery, green pepper in butter and oil until tender. Add raw shrimp and cook a few minutes until firm. Then add the cup of rice with tomatoes, tomato paste, chicken broth and all the seasonings. Bring to boil and bake in the oven for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Add touch of tabasco if desired and garnish with pimento and parsley. Makes 8 servings.

She Loves To Give Dinner Parties

Chicken Parmesan Is The Key

by LOIS SEILER

Giving a dinner party is Mrs. Donald F. Snell's favorite way to entertain friends. And if the preparations are made in advance, it is every bit as easy as fixing a midnight snack.

"One of my favorites is a chicken dish that can be made a day ahead," Susan Snell explained.

Called Chicken Parmesan, it basically consists of Pepperidge Farms Stuffing Mix covered with a rich cheese sauce containing a generous quantity of chicken and mushrooms. The casserole can be stored in the refrigerator until baking time, and then need only be heated long enough to become bubbly and hot.

"The recipe can easily be doubled and is ideal for a large crowd," Susan said. "It is rich and hearty and needs only a tossed salad and rolls as accompaniments."

Her Lemon Cream recipe is the perfect finale for this appealing dinner, and it, too, can be made in advance.

There is no cooking involved; this is a refrigerator dessert made from eggs, sugar and unflavored gelatin flavored with lemon and orange. Whipped cream is folded in.

For festive occasions it can be made in a tiered mold, or it may simply be chilled in a serving dish. Although rich, this dessert is very light and creamy with a refreshing tang.

Another of this good cook's specialties is an elegant hors d'oeuvre called Stuffed Mushrooms. Susan likes to make these when serving a plain meat for dinner, such as a barbecued pot roast or steak.

She purchases large, fresh mushrooms from a mushroom farm not too far from her home in Elk Grove Village. The caps are partially cooked and filled with a savory, well-seasoned crabmeat mixture. They are baked until lightly-browned, making a very tempting appetizer, indeed!

Susan readily admits that she really enjoys being a homemaker and cooking is one of her favorite activities. She likes to try new recipes, enjoys sewing, and particularly likes to read for relaxation.

A former teacher and the mother of two small children, Tim, 5, and Molly, 2½, she now limits her teaching activities to two mornings a week at Grove Nursery School.

The Snell family lives at 515 Briarwood in Elk Grove Village.

CHICKEN PARMESAN

2 whole chickens
¾ stick butter
5 tablespoons flour
1 cup consommé
1 cup Half and Half
1 cup reserved stock
1 cup cheddar cheese, grated
½ cup parmesan cheese
1 pound mushrooms, sautéed in butter
About 2 packages Pepperidge Farms Stuffing Mix

Simmer the chickens in water with salt. Reserve one cup of the stock. Remove bones and skin from chicken and cut into pieces.

In a large pot, melt butter and stir in flour. Gradually add consommé, Half and Half, stock and cheese. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Add cut-up chicken and mushrooms. This is a thick mixture.

Line a 9 by 13-inch pyrex dish or oven-proof casserole with Stuffing Mix. Pour chicken mixture over all and top with a thin layer of the stuffing. Heat at 350 degrees until bubbly, about 30 to 45 minutes. Serves 6 generously.

LEMON CREAM

3 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
Juice of 3 lemons
Juice of 1 orange
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon grated orange rind

1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Beat egg yolks; add sugar and beat until thick and lemon-colored.

Soften gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Dissolve over hot water. Stir into egg mixture. Add lemon and orange juice and rinds; mix well. Chill until partially thickened.

Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into lemon mixture. Beat cream until stiff and fold in. Pour into serving dish or mold and chill until set, about 3 to 4 hours. Serves 6.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS

2 dozen large, fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons margarine
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
2 tablespoons minced green onion
1 can crabmeat, flaked
1 tablespoon English mustard
1½ teaspoons Bon Appetit
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
¾ cup sherry
2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup cream

Soak mushrooms in salted water for 20 minutes. Rinse and remove stems. Cook caps in boiling salted water 2 to 3 minutes and drain.

Slice stems and sauté with minced onion in butter, but do not brown. Add remaining ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Cook over low heat, about 5 minutes.

Pile caps high with crabmeat mixture. Place in buttered baking dish and bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes or until tops are lightly-browned. Serve as hors d'oeuvres.

Cold-Weather Dish That's Easy To Make

When the temperature drops during the winter months, a hot and hearty main dish is appreciated by the entire family.

This dish gets its unusual flavor from a sweet-sour sauce made with orange juice, currant jelly and mustard that's poured over the bologna rolls after baking.

Bologna Rice Rolls is the perfect busy-day recipe because it can be prepared and on the table in less than 30 minutes.

BOLOGNA-RICE ROLLS

1 can condensed celery soup
1 cup cooked rice
Butter
½ green pepper, chopped

½ onion, minced
12 slices bologna
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice
¾ cup currant jelly
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Mix soup and rice. Sauté pepper and onion in butter until soft, combine with soup mixture. Spoon a portion of mixture onto each bologna slice, and roll up. Place rolls, seam side down, in buttered pan. Bake at 325 degrees until heated through (about 12 minutes). Meanwhile, make sauce by slowly melting jelly and orange juice together; add mustard; mix well. Serve sauce hot over bologna rolls. Makes 12 rolls.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

This will be a main course to impress your most discriminating guests, tournedos petite auberge. Tournedos are made with slices cut from the heart of beef tenderloin.

To serve 4 you'll need that number of tournedos an inch in thickness, 8 to 10 ounces in weight. Place the beef slices on a wooden board and sprinkle generously with coarse fresh ground black pepper.

With your hand press pepper into the steaks on both sides flattening the beef to about ½-inch in thickness. Turn on the oven to warm. In a skillet which will hold the four steaks, heat 2 tablespoons each of butter and salad oil.

Over medium heat cook the steaks 3 minutes on each side, then remove to a heat-proof pan and place in the oven to keep warm.

Blend ¼ cup of dry vermouth with the pan drippings. Add 2 tablespoons chopped white onion and a dozen large mushrooms washed and sliced. Stir until well mixed continuing heat at medium.

Dissolve a beef bouillon cube in ½ cup boiling water and add. Cream 1 teaspoon flour in a teaspoon soft butter and stir in. Season to taste with salt.

Add 2 tablespoons sour cream and stir mixture well, then push mushrooms and onions to one side and return tournedos to the skillet. Heat quickly and serve on heated plates pouring sauce over the beef.

An extra touch, although adding considerably to the caloric count is to serve the tournedos on fried bread.

Cut the crusts from 4 slices of white bread. In a skillet heat equal parts of butter and oil (about 1 tablespoon of each) and brown the bread slices lightly on each side.

Dress up serving of the tournedos by garnishing with watercress and pear halves poached in water and lemon juice then chilled after adding a touch of brandy.

Do you have a favorite steak recipe, or a question about food? Write Chuck Flynn, care of Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006. For personal reply, please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

What's Thawing For Dinner?

Pancakes For Shrove Tuesday

Pancakes for Shrove Tuesday dates back hundreds of years in the town of Olney, England. There, housewives bake pancakes the day before Lent begins. At noon they meet in the village square and race to the church door. Each woman carries a griddle with a hot pancake on it and must flip the pancake at least three times during the race. Afterwards all the contestants go to the church service and the winner receives "a kiss of peace from the parish caretaker." Leftover pancakes are given to the bell ringers.

For change, try serving pancakes for dinner. There are literally hundreds of different types of pancakes from around the world.

The following recipes are sure to please — you'll probably want to save them for future breakfast, brunch and supper meals.

SPICY APPLE PANCAKES

For a really different treat try Spicy Apple Pancakes for breakfast, brunch or as a dessert.

Single recipe, yields 6 servings.

2 quarts apple slices, fresh or frozen, preferably about ¼-inch to 3/8-inch thick
¾ cup pancake syrup
2 tablespoons butter
1½ cups Bisquick or biscuit mix
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1 tablespoon melted or liquid shortening
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Peel, core and slice apples ¼ to 3/8-inch thick. Combine apples in a skillet with syrup and butter and cook until apples are tender, but still firm (approximately 5 minutes).

Meanwhile, mix Bisquick, milk, eggs, shortening and spices until batter is smooth. Remove apples from skillet with a slotted spoon and add to pancake batter. Fold very gently so that all the apples are covered. Lift batter covered apples onto a lightly greased and hot griddle and grill until edges are cooked turning pancakes once. Serve with remaining syrup (in which apples were cooked) and/or sour half and half and powdered sugar.

DUTCH BABY

This Dutch Baby recipe has been popular on the West Coast for many years and is gaining praise in the Midwest.

This dish can be served as a dessert, brunch or breakfast menu.

Single recipe, yields 6 servings.

3 eggs
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 pint fresh strawberries
1 package frozen sliced peaches, well drained
1 cup frozen blueberries, thawed confectioners sugar dairy sour half and half or sour cream

GERMAN EGG PANCAKES

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. In blender or mixing bowl, combine eggs, flour, salt, milk and butter. Pour into a very well greased 9-inch skillet with oven proof handle. Bake for 20 minutes. Prick shell and reduce heat to 350 degrees. Continue baking for an additional 10 minutes. Remove from oven and drizzle with lemon juice. Sprinkle generously with confectioners sugar, fill with fruit, add dollops of sour half and half or sour cream. Then add a little more confectioners sugar garnished with cinnamon. Cut in wedges, and serve.

Eier Pfannkuchen

A German Egg Pancake is almost like a crepe. It is 9-inches across and filled with fruit, jam or preserves, rolled up and then eaten. This is a good meal when served with a variety of fillings, letting guests serve themselves.

Single recipe, yields 10 pancakes.
1 cup milk

Prize Mushroom Recipe Leaflet

The American Mushroom Institute has issued a new recipe leaflet titled "Prize Winning Mushroom Recipes" which is now available upon request.

All 20 recipes in the leaflet were prize winners in a contest which the Mushroom Institute sponsored recently. Included are ones for a mushroom lasagne, toasted mushroom sandwiches, beef and mushrooms with port, mushroom chowder, mushroom and shrimp delight and pickled fish filets with mushrooms. Grand prize winner was a Mushroom Health Salad, stressing the low caloricness of mushrooms. Tips on buying, preparing and preserving (freezing) are also included.

To obtain a copy, readers may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the American Mushroom Institute, Dept. FE, P.O. Box 373, Kennett Square, Pa. 19348.

All items on sale Thursday, February 18, thru Wednesday February 24, 1971, unless otherwise indicated.

Elk Grove Nears 25,000, Says Census Tally

The population of Elk Grove Village has grown to 24,516.

That's an increase of almost 3,000 from the figure released last August by the U.S. Census Bureau when it was reported there were 21,541 persons living here.

John Lewis, Illinois secretary of state, notified the village of the new population figure this week.

The figure took several village officials by surprise, including Jack Pahl, village president, who double checked with the secretary of state's office to make sure the figure was accurate.

"We are pleased to have met this plateau sooner than we thought," said Pahl.

No explanation was given for the revised census figure though in recent weeks population figures for several Illinois communities have been increased since the original census figures were announced last summer.

Pahl said the current population of the village is more than 21,541 because of new residential developments west of Ill. Rte. 53 in Schaumburg Township and in the townhouse section of the village north of Biesterfeld Road.

The figure released by the secretary of state's office is "as of April 1, 1970," said Pahl.

The new figure is significant in that when the population of Elk Grove Village reaches 25,000 the village will receive the newly granted home rule provisions included in the new Illinois Constitution approved by voters last December.

Home rule grants municipalities over 25,000 "greater flexibility in dealing with the affairs of the community," said Pahl. "We can be more responsive."

HOME RULE ENABLES municipalities to have more control over local affairs by giving them more powers under local ordinances unless prohibited by the constitution or pre-empted by the state legislature.

Powers currently granted municipalities are specifically granted by state statute.

Long a backer of the home rule provision, Pahl said the new constitution becomes effective July 1.

Whether Elk Grove Village will have reached the 25,000 mark by then is not yet known.

Prior to learning of the new population figure, Pahl said he did not believe Elk Grove Village would reach the 25,000 mark until December of 1972.

Now it appears that the village is moving right along close to past projections. According to the 1967 village comprehensive plan by Tec-Search Inc., Wilmette, the projected population for 1970 was 28,700.

The population of the village is expected to increase again this year, with the opening of apartment complexes along with single-family homes.

Apartments are currently under construction at three locations: Tonne and Landmeier roads, Biesterfeld Road, and Kennedy and Elk Grove Boulevard.

Final Census Figures Out: Most Higher

The U. S. Census Bureau has compiled its final 1970 population report for Illinois, with final figures higher in most cases than the preliminary figures released last year.

The final figures, compared with 1970 preliminary figures and the 1960 census figures, plus the approximate percent of increase from 1960 to 1970 for each of the 11 towns in Paddock Publications' coverage area, are as follows:

Town	1970 (final)	1970 (preliminary)	1960	Percent change
Arlington	61,884	62,778	27,878	+125
Mc. Prospect	34,905	35,286	18,906	+86
Des Plaines	57,230	59,238	34,886	+63
Palatine	25,904	26,104	11,504	+126
Wheeling	14,746	14,799	7,169	+106
Elk Grove	24,516	21,541	6,608	+226
Buffalo Grove	11,799	11,549	1,492	+674
Udell Estates	22,238	21,935	8,246	+165
Schaumburg	18,739	18,212	988	+1,757
Hanover Park	11,916	10,985	451	+2,335
Rolling Meadows	19,178	18,907	10,879	+74

THE NEW CENSUS figures are important to local governments for several reasons.

Under the new Illinois Constitution, which takes effect on July 1, municipalities with a population of 25,000 or above are considered "home rule units" and are entitled to exercise broad powers which the old Constitution prohibited.

Also, redistricting of congressional and state legislative districts must be based on the new census figures.

Because of the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling, no district within a state may be more than one per cent larger or smaller than another district.

That ruling is going to provide a major headache to legislators who must draw up new district lines by June 30.

Previously, political boundaries, such as county lines or township lines, were a major factor in drawing up districts.

The 13th Congressional District, for example, contains eight North and Northwest Cook County townships in a neat, almost perfectly rectangular package.

The 10th Congressional District is made up of West and Northwest Cook County townships.

THE NEW DISTRICT lines are not likely to be anywhere near as neat because of the one per cent ruling and it is likely that congressional and state legislative district lines may divide townships and villages.

The average size of Illinois' 24 Congressional Districts will be somewhere in the area of 470,000 residents. Both the 13th District, which is the second largest in Illinois with more than 620,000 residents, and the 10th which has more than 50,000, will be reduced substantially.

The net effect of the population increases in the suburbs will be more representation in both Springfield and Washington, but a much more difficult time for legislators to determine how that representation will be distributed.

rahan. The play, written by comedian Woody Allen, opens today at 7:30 p.m. in Elk Grove High School. Performances will also be staged Friday and Saturday in the school theater at 8 p.m.

To Serve Elk Grove Area

Service Bureau Branch Office Set

A branch office to serve the Elk Grove area was approved yesterday by the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County.

The office will begin operation immediately, according to coordinator Dixie Foster.

The bureau office will be located at High Ridge Knolls School, 588 S. Dara James, Des Plaines, in an office presently occupied by the School Dist. 59 Volunteer Resource Pool.

The resource pool will be dissolved and will become a part of the larger pool, according to Mrs. Foster.

Ethel Brodl, director of the Dist. 59 bureau, has been trained to take over as director of the branch office, she said.

"We're ready to roll. The committee is very enthusiastic," Mrs. Foster said.

She said that since the Dist. 59 pool has been functioning on a regular basis there will be no need to discontinue services until the new office is set up. She said the persons have been trained and all that is needed is a change in name.

THE VOLUNTEER Service Bureau accepts requests for volunteers by local schools, hospitals, and other agencies and matches them with volunteers' requests for jobs.

The only paid position in the Northwest Cook County Bureau is the head director. The branch director, school coordinators, and other assistants work on a volunteer basis.

A committee of school, church and hospital representatives organized the Elk Grove branch office, and collected the funds.

A minimum of $300 is required to establish a branch office, according to Mrs. Foster. The Elk Grove branch received its funds through a $100 private donation and the remaining money in the Dist. 59 Volunteer Resource Pool fund, she said.

The Des Plaines office is expected to be a temporary one. Mrs. Foster said that once the project is launched she hopes to move the branch office closer to the center of the area served.

Although the office will mainly serve Elk Grove Village it also will be serving the surrounding area which is covered by Dist. 59 in Elk Grove Township. The district has schools in Elk Grove Village and parts of Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U.S. Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday, however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon. No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

Four In Salon Week

Four Elk Grove High School students, part of the vocational cosmetology program of School Dist. 214, are participating in the 21st anniversary of National Beauty Salon Week.

They are Denise Dimitroff, Debra Hess, Sue Kramer and Michele Martucci, students of the American School of Beauty Culture.

In line with this, the girls spent Monday doing hair styling at the Lutheran Old Peoples Home in Arlington Heights and Tuesday at St. Joseph's Home for the Aged in Palatine.

Recital Is Today

More than 110 students will participate in an instrumental music recital today at 6:30 p.m. in the Thomas Lively Junior High School, Elk Grove Village.

Next week, the school will host the Northern Division Dist. 7 Illinois Grade School Music Association solo and ensemble contest. More than 950 students are expected to compete.

Quotables

"If a person worked three days a week and made $10 a week he had a job," said Neil Conney, recalling the dark days of the Depression in the 1930s.

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, firebombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

Lt. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $900 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950 mile downstate freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported wholesale prices rose .7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 1.7 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gunnar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

The Northeast was the first part of the country to lose the relief of the February balmy spell. A pocket of Arctic air spread over the region, producing some subzero readings. The rest of the country had mild weather, including thunder-showers in the Great Lakes region.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	66	47
Houston	77	62
Los Angeles	57	50
Miami Beach	74	67
Minneapolis	38	27
New York	39	27
Phoenix	80	58
Seattle	51	42

The Market

The gradual afternoon recovery averted a big drop on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow-Jones Industrial average, down six points by mid-morning, finished down 2.19. Volume was 18,720,000 shares. Prices also declined on the American board, in heavy turnover.

Elk Horn

Low Inome Housing Here?

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Last year Elk Grove Village was the focal point of the controversy over low and moderate income housing. This year it's Arlington Heights.

More than 60 sign-carrying demonstrators marched in front of the Arlington Heights Village Hall Monday in support of housing. One of the signs said: "You can't have industry without labor." Some of the demonstrators wore buttons with the letters ZFAP, meaning "Zoning For All People."

Later in the evening, Newman Cryer of the Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee, submitted a proposal to the village board asking that it adopt a new zoning classification for low and moderate income housing. It was referred to a committee.

John Sheehan and Louis Archbold, of the Elk Grove Village organization known as Neighbors at Work, were there. Sheehan recalled for the village board the situation in Elk Grove after the tragic death of three children in an old farmhouse just outside the village limits Nov. 29, 1969.

Sheehan and Archbold will also be there March 3 when the Arlington Heights Plan Commission holds a public hearing on Lincoln Green, a moderate-income housing development proposed near St. Victor Catholic High School.

The Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. of Chicago is seeking village approval of the $4 million 190-unit project for moderate income senior citizens and family housing.

The hearing is expected to draw a large crowd and has been shifted from the Arlington Heights Village Hall to Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebert Rd., Arlington Heights.

I mention these two cases because the issue of low and moderate cost housing is due to flare up again in Elk Grove Village in the future.

The village currently has a housing commission which is surveying the working force in the community to learn if its members want to live here but cannot now afford to buy a home here.

It's an important survey and will go a long way toward determining what the village may do in the way of housing, according to the housing commission.

The $6.5 million expansion plans of St. Alexius Hospital have been greeted with much enthusiasm locally. However, a little known fact about St. Alexius is that it is only one of four hospitals the Alexian Brothers operate in the United States. It is also the only one that is not in the inner city. Others are located in San Jose, Calif., Elizabeth, N.J., and St. Louis, Mo. The religious order also has a clinic at Boys Town in Omaha, Neb.; a mobile health clinic at Waterboro, S.C.; and a rest home in Signal Mountain, Tenn.

The League of Women Voters has begun work on a know-your-town study. The women are obtaining background information on the community and hope to publish the study, making it available at the library.

Inquiries Made About Hospital Here

Persons interested in building a hospital in Hoffman Estates have made inquiries about sites available, Richard Regan plan commission chairman, said yesterday.

Groups of doctors and investors have made new inquiries about locating in Hoffman Estates because of talk that a hospital is being planned on a 10-acre Schaumburg Road site in Schaumburg, he added.

Regan said the inquiring parties are being checked out now. He believes, however, that only a not-for-profit hospital would be advantageous to the communities.

"I DON'T CARE where it is located, in Hoffman Estates or Schaumburg, as long as it is located on a proper site," he added.

"I'm only interested in a facility that will properly serve the area," Regan said.

The 10-acre site proposed in Schaumburg is too small according to experts, he added.

The Schaumburg Road site does not provide enough ease of access according to persons Regan consulted.

A 25-acre site near the Tollway at Barrington Road would be better suited for community needs, Regan said.

The Barrington Road-Tollway area is more distant from St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village (which recently announced a 200-bed expansion) and would better serve population coming with the development of areas to the north and west, he added.

A 25-ACRE SITE built away from existing homes would minimize hospital traffic in a residential area.

The site would also permit a possible heliport allowing helicopter landings which parties Regan spoke to said is the latest innovative patient transportation.

The need for helicopter service to hospitals has arisen because of the problems ambulances experience in moving accident victims during heavy traffic periods.

"A location where helicopters could land without disturbing residents sounds like a worthwhile idea," Regan said.

Regan added he'd pose no objections if a site in Schaumburg would become available offering the same features existing at Barrington Road and the Tollway.

Firemen's Practice Building Burns

The Schaumburg Fire Department had a chance Monday to extinguish a fire in a building they had used to practice fire-fighting tactics for about eight months.

A fire broke out in the attic of Barn-ey's Tap, Schaumburg Road, at 4:32 p.m. Monday. About eight men from Schaumburg responded to the alarm, along with three Hoffman Estates firemen. The fire was extinguished at about 6 p.m., after the attic was destroyed.

Schaumburg Chief Lloyd Abrahamson said the building had been vacant for some time, and during the past eight months his men had used it for drills in setting up equipment to extinguish fires. The building is on property proposed for a hospital and medical complex site.

School Cutbacks Promised

The defeat Saturday of a proposed hike in the School Dist. 26 education fund tax rate will mean cutbacks in the district's education program, according to Supt. Winston L. Harwood.

Harwood said the cuts are inevitable because of the district's worsening financial condition.

In Saturday's referendum voters turned down a proposal to raise the education fund tax rate from $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.60. (The education fund is the largest of several funds for which the school district levies taxes.)

Also defeated Saturday was a $525,000 bond issue. Funds from the issue would have been used to build an addition to the River Trails Junior High School.

The tax hike was defeated by four votes, the bond issue by 10 votes.

WHICH PROGRAMS ARE to be affected will be determined by the school board, Harwood said. He plans to present a report to the board at its next regular meeting listing programs in which cuts might be made.

At Tuesday's school board meeting Harwood named several programs that might be vulnerable to the cutback. These are the sixth grade instrumental classes; various school district consultants; summer school; certain extra-duty jobs for teachers such as intramural athletic programs; psychological counseling; and the typing, speech, home economics and industrial arts programs at the junior high school level.

Harwood said the financial plight of the district is serious enough that the cuts should be made, even if the board decides to hold a second referendum on the two proposals. He estimates the budget deficit at the end of this school year will be about $350,000, slightly more than twice the size of last year's deficit.

WHETHER THERE WILL be fact be a second referendum is another matter on which the school board is facing a decision. Two board members, Hubert Stubbs and Ray Johnston, indicated Tuesday they felt the referendum would have been successful had there been more publicity on it. Both favor another referendum.

However, Harwood, in attributing Saturday's defeat to voter apathy, said he wants "the impetus for resubmission" to come from the public. Similar opinions were voiced by board member Lee Hillman and Neil LeFebvre.

A second referendum could be held as soon as two months from now, according to state statutes.

ICC Hears Plea For Hike Of C&NW Commuter Fare

The Chicago & North Western Railway turned a profit of $1.9 million last year, but needs an increase in commuter rates to withstand rising wages and benefits paid to its employees, railroad officials told the Illinois Commerce Commission Tuesday.

Among officials testifying before the ICC in Chicago was Harold A. Lense, director of passenger and commuter services for C&NW. Under cross-examination by Jack Siegel, Arlington Heights Village attorney, he conceded the $1.9 million profit, but said the railroad lost $2 million on inter-city routes other than commuter lines.

The railroad has asked an average rate increase of 7 per cent in commuter fares, to be effective March 1, but Lense told ICC hearing officer Joseph McHugh, the C&NW could break even in 1971 with an increase of 2.4 per cent.

The ICC hearing ended yesterday following intensive questioning of railroad officials by Siegel.

Lense said the C&NW profit in 1970 represented a return on its base fare rate of 3.92 per cent. He said a 7 per cent increase would raise this return to 4.92 per cent.

He said the 7 per cent average increase would actually consist of increases of from 6.84 to 7.17 per cent from various stations.

Passenger traffic from the Arlington Heights station — busiest point on the commuter line — was up 5.6 per cent in 1970, Lense said. An over-all increase of 3.5 per cent is projected for 1971.

Siegel noted that the C&NW had received rate increases of 11 per cent in the past two years, and asked whether there had been any increases in frequency of service. Lense said there had not.

Wilson Wadsworth, 1407 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights, marketing research supervisor for a Chicago firm, also appeared before the ICC as a commuter. "I tend to be — frankly — sympathetic to the fare increase to curb higher costs," said Wadsworth. But he called on the railroad to make a vigorous effort to eliminate featherbedding and other high labor costs.

Parks Slate Meetings On Referendum

The Elk Grove Park District has scheduled more than 40 presentations at meetings and coffees in an effort to inform persons of the March 6 referendum.

The referendum will be for a sports complex to include an enclosed ice rink and recreational facilities; baseball fields, tennis courts and handball courts; and park improvements in almost all of the district's existing parks.

The presentations include a 1-minute slide showing and a question-and-answer period.

Anyone wishing to sponsor a neighborhood coffee, or any group wishing a presentation may still contact the park district administration offices, 437-6780.

Although 15 of the presentations have already been held the remainder of the schedule includes:

TODAY: 6 P.M., Joe Ponko, 619 Wil-low; 8 p.m., Mrs. Jane Moore, 113 Braemar; Friday: 8 p.m., Mrs. Jan Phillips, 1236 Springdale; 8 p.m., Don Brennan, 97 Shelley Ct.

Next week's schedule is: Feb. 21; 2 p.m., Mrs. James Davidson, 350 Birchwood; Feb. 22: 8 p.m., Mrs. Joanne Fay, 506 Briarwood; 8 p.m., Mrs. Rosalie Olief, 225 Redwood; Feb. 23: 7:30 p.m., Ridge School PTO, school lounge, 650 Ridge Ave.; 8 p.m., Tony Kees, 1016 Brantwood; Feb. 24: 8:30 p.m., Elk Grove B'nai B'rith, no location as yet; 9 p.m. Elk Grove Sundowners, Elk Grove Village Public Library, 101 Kennedy Blvd.; Feb. 25: 8 a.m., Elk Grove Village Association of Industry and Commerce, Delaine's Restaurant, Grove Mall; 2 p.m., Mrs. Nancy Bickford, 361 Birchwood; 8 p.m., Mrs. Mary Kay Frazier, 77 Eden; 8 p.m., Mrs. Fran Hansen, 202 Willow Lane; Feb. 26: 8 p.m., Kenneth Kerwin, 320 Yarmouth; 8 p.m., Mrs. Darlene Greaves, 10 Evergreen.

THE LAST WEEK before the referendum coffees are scheduled for: March 1: 8 p.m., Lew Smith, 171 Shadywood; 8:15 p.m., Elk Grove Jayceettes, Mrs. Richard Dorn, 542 Northampton; March 2: 8 p.m., John Budde, 247 Redwood; 8 p.m., parents of the park district swim team, Lively Junior High School, 999 Leicester; March 3: 8 p.m., Lions Club, Public Library, 101 Kennedy; 8 p.m., Admiral Richard E. Byrd PTO executive board, school lounge, 265 Wellington; 8:15 p.m., Newcomers Club, Salt Creek Country Club; March 4: 8 p.m., parents of the Elk Grove Village Amateur Hockey Association team, Teen Center, 180 Kennedy Blvd.; 8 p.m., Ed Cavello, 117 Tangewood; March 5: 8 p.m., parents of Elk Grove Boys Football, Grantwood School, 225 E. Elk Grove Blvd.

Set Education Program In U46

An in-service education program for secondary teachers in Elgin School District U46 will be held today from 1 - 4 p.m.

Students will attend school in the morning, but will be dismissed after attending a minimum of three clock hours.

Elementary schools will be in session all day.

According to Sam Nicholas, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, over 20 different subject meetings are being planned and are scheduled to meet in several central locations throughout the district.

These subjects include art, English, foreign languages (French, German, Latin, Spanish), guidance, health education, library, mathematics, music, physical education, reading, science, social studies, speech, vocational-technical education, educable mentally handicapped and speech therapy.

Most of the discussions will be led by district staff although several subject groups have invited outside resource persons.

Among the guest speakers to the district will be Dr. Leland H. Roloff from the department of interpretation at Northwestern University. Dr. Roloff will present the topic "Thinking with Bodies" to secondary English teachers.

Speaking to the district's health services staff on the food stamp policy will be John Hall, regional director, Aid to Dependent Children.

Other secondary in-service programs scheduled for the 1970-71 school year are on March 23 and April 28.

Kurt's No Longer Non-Verbal Child

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

"I just wanted other mothers who have deaf children to know how much they can learn," explained Mrs. LaMont Polcyn of Des Plaines.

"Kurt, who is 6 years old, is talking now and he's aware of things around him — he's just doing great," the young mother said with bubbling enthusiasm as she talked about her young son who at an early age was found to be deaf.

By her glowing face one could never know just how hard things have been for Joyce Polcyn the last six years.

She was stricken with Rubella when she was several months pregnant with Kurt. As an infant she noticed that Kurt slept very deeply and could only be awakened when someone touched him. Then when her son was seven months old she realized he really had a hearing problem.

"WE WERE AT my mother's house," she said, "and her dog was barking its head off. But Kurt was standing right next to the dog and he wasn't even aware of what was going on — he didn't move."

Mrs. Polcyn said she and her husband took Kurt to their family physician who said they couldn't tell whether the boy had trouble hearing until he was two years old.

"When he was two we took him to a hearing specialist who ran tests on Kurt and then he was tested by an audiologist. He was found to be profoundly deaf and when he was three he was fitted with a hearing aid."

Mrs. Polcyn also started to take the John Tracy home correspondence courses which included monthly lessons for her to give Kurt. She also enrolled in the Parent-Infant Program given by the West Suburban Association for the Hearing Impaired.

"This teaches mothers how to teach their child to talk and to use and develop his other senses," she found her work at home with Kurt did help him progress.

"WE MOVED TO Denver just after he was three," Mrs. Polcyn continued, "but we found that the school in that area taught deaf children with manual methods and that the school was only for handicapped children."

"Well we don't like the manual method because the child becomes dependent on it and then can't learn to talk, also, we didn't want him to go to school only with handicapped children so we enrolled him in a private speech therapy class."

Mrs. Polcyn said that while Kurt was taking these private lessons he "started to talk." Then the family moved to their present home at 725 Dempster St., in Des Plaines.

Kurt went to the Maple School special education class for deaf children last year. He learned to lip read and learned to work with numbers and read the alphabet.

"He went to Maple School for one year and then last summer I called the Division of Services for Crippled Children and asked them to arrange lessons for Kurt with Lori Frank, who is a speech pathologist in Mount Prospect."

KURT STARTED lessons with Frank last June.

"That's when the unbelievable happened," Mrs. Polcyn said, "Kurt really started talking. It was hard for both of them and took a lot of work but Kurt is getting better all the time."

Frank, whose offices are at 201 W. Prospect Ave., is a speech and hearing pathologist and the administrative director for the Central Reading and Speech Clinic.

Lori Frank, Mount Prospect speech pathologist, has been a key figure in Kurt Polcyn's efforts to speak.

Frank does not believe in teaching deaf children to speak manually but to speak verbally. "If a child learns manual language who else will this child communicate with?" Frank said. "At least with verbal language he can talk with others."

Frank has worked with Kurt on his verbal communication since Kurt started coming to him last June. "When he first came here he was non-verbal. He made some noises but they weren't associated with any kind of verbal communication. Kurt is now using five to seven word sentences."

Everyone is excited about Kurt's progress.

ress, says Frank: "I get excited, Kurt gets excited, his parents get excited. Kurt lights up when he talks."

Kurt spends one-half hour a week with Frank and he also gets home assignments from the pathologist. The work done with Kurt is based on a behavior modification theory. When he makes a sound his behavior is reinforced with a piece of candy but when he doesn't speak the candy is taken away.

"THIS WAY HE finds speaking pleasurable," Frank explained. "He learns, too, that he must make himself understood. He must be independent among normal hearing people."

Frank has been operating the Central

Reading and Speech clinic since 1965. He has a master's degree in speech and hearing pathology from Northern Illinois University.

He has worked for School Dist. 59 and spent 10 years with Little City in Palatine. He is a consultant to several area hospitals including Northwest Community in Arlington Heights and St. Alexius in Elk Grove Village.

Frank thinks the Polcyns have shared the responsibility for Kurt's success. "They're very unusual parents," he said, "they're terrific. They follow through with whatever I set up for Kurt. They care about their son. They really care."

Kurt is also attending a special education class at Roosevelt elementary School in Park Ridge. Along with seven other deaf youngsters he is learning reading, writing, arithmetic and science.

HE IS TAKEN by cab from his home to the school every day. "He used to ride the bus for two hours a day," Mrs. Polcyn said, "and it was quite a strain on him. But the school district and the state arranged for a special cab to take him each day and he's really happy."

Kurt and his three-year-old brother Todd also spend a lot of time together. "Todd is very good," Mrs. Polcyn said. "He understands it when I spend time with Kurt on his lessons and he and Kurt communicate beautifully."

Frank's techniques are sometimes forceful.

Frank: "Kurt's parents really care."

After several years of effort, Kurt is now using five- to seven-word sentences.

As Apartment Complexes Grow, So Do Thefts

by NANCY COWGER
With the advent of apartment complexes in Schaumburg Township, the number of reported burglaries has increased.

Local police departments have recorded leaping statistics on burglaries, and their chiefs say most incidents involve apartments.

In Hoffman Estates, reported burglaries jumped from 41 in 1969 to 349 in 1970. Police Chief John O'Connell, in making his annual report to village trustees last month, said the rise reflected an increased number of apartments, and poor security by tenants. O'Connell said the residents frequently did not lock their doors, or locked them improperly.

In Schaumburg Village, 1969 showed 32 burglaries, while 1970 reflected a 125 percent increase to 72 burglary reports. Chief Martin Conroy agreed the increase reflects a greater number of apartment buildings.

Since the opening of 1971, neither village has experienced a large or alarming number of apartment burglaries, say their police chiefs. But each village experienced some.

ACCORDING TO THE police, there is not a great deal a tenant can do to protect himself from an apartment break-in. Police do, however, list a few suggested procedures to discourage burglary attacks.

Locks are important, agree officials in both departments. In most apartment complexes, the tenant is not the only person with a key to his unit. The manager or rental agent likely will have a master key, or a spare key for each unit. Maintenance men either may have keys of their own, or have access to a manager's key. Police recommend avoiding units where master keys are common, or easy to obtain.

Frequently, said William Freund, Hoffman Estates police lieutenant the locks on apartment doors are "not designed for maximum security." Many of them can be opened with a plastic credit card slid through the gap between door and frame, he said.

Both Freund and Conroy recommend checking with apartment management to see if it will allow installation of a second lock.

Both men recommend use of a dead bolt lock, one with a good tumbler design, with a bolt that slides through the door frame and one which must be locked using a key.

A DEAD BOLT lock cannot be opened with a screwdriver or knife, as can many other kinds of locks, said Conroy. But, he said, many apartment complex owners do not allow tenants to install dead bolt locks.

Other possible devices, for use while the tenant is at home, are sliding bolts and chain locks. Freund said these are ineffective in preventing entries, because a strong jolt will pull the nails or screws holding them in place out of the wall.

But, said Conroy, either of these would delay an intruder slightly, and might leave enough time for the tenant to complete a phone call to an operator or police. Also, he said, the delay could give the tenant enough time to vacate the apartment.

Both men said the tenant, or any homeowner, should immediately call their telephone operator if he suspects a burglar may be trying to enter his home. The operator can notify police while the tenant vacates the apartment. The tenant, however, could be delayed by a busy signal in trying to call police himself, said Conroy.

APARTMENTS OR HOMES with patios and sliding glass doors are especially tempting to burglars, said police, and persons living in them should take extra precautions.

One suggestion is to insert some object in the slide track, so the door cannot be forced open. The same measure can help protect sliding windows from entry.

Locks and chains to prevent entries are good, but not always enough, police said. More subtle measures can also be employed to discourage burglary attempts. Frequently recommended to homeowners, police said these measures make just as much sense for apartment dwellers.

Keeping a light in the window is not always a beacon for a traveler. It also is a signal to potential burglars that an apartment is not empty. Said Conroy, "electricity is the cheapest insurance you can buy." The expense of leaving a light switched on in an empty apartment could be a savings if it discourages a burglar, he added.

WHEN AN apartment is to be empty more than a day, the tenant can save himself potential grief by arranging with a friend for regular pick-up of mail or newspapers. Stacked delivery items signal an empty residence, a likely spot for burglaries.

Both police and apartment building managers say tenants are ignoring one responsibility they should take for their own protection.

Tenants should be aware of their neighbors, at least well enough to notice strangers. Persons acting suspiciously, or unfamiliar persons, should be reported to management or maintenance personnel, or to the police, said Freund and Conroy. Persons on legitimate business should have no objections to explaining their presence.

Mrs. Barbara Terry, rental agent for International Village apartments, also emphasized tenant responsibility.

"The responsibility residents take for each other is not what it could be," she said. She urges apartment residents to "get to know their neighbors," and become familiar with maintenance employees. Tenants can "work together to look out for their neighbors," and thereby improve protection for themselves, he said.

INTERNATIONAL VILLAGE has dead bolt locks on all apartment doors, and allows tenants to install chain locks as well, said Mrs. Terry, although it does not allow them to change the main door lock. The complex has regular police patrols, and maintenance men watch for strange persons or cars, she said. Tenants may notify her when they are leaving their apartments vacant for extended lengths of time, and maintenance men will check the apartment regularly, she said.

Never the less, International Village has experienced burglaries in recent months, as have other apartment complexes. Mrs. Terry said these burglaries were not accomplished with master or pass keys, or by slipping a lock open, but by actually breaking into units.

International Village also allows tenants to purchase and install fire alarms in their apartments. Police recommend these as well, and say they are relatively inexpensive.

EARL WADE of Burns Electronics, Chicago, explained small units can be attached to a door lock. Once the door is closed, the alarm will sound a buzzer or bell if it is reopened without a key. The noise is loud enough to alert persons in neighboring apartments, he said, who can call police. Also, he said, the alarm generally will frighten off would-be burglars.

Candidate's Petitions May Be Challenged

The nominating petitions filed for one candidate in the Wheeling Village election may be officially challenged this week.

Officials of both village parties say they have heard such a challenge would be filed, but neither know who will file the objections.

The candidate expected to be challenged is Norbert Bigalke who is running for election to trustee on the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) slate. The challenge is expected to center around the residency requirement for running for village office.

In the midst of rumors of the possible challenge, a copying firm was hired to make copies of all of the petitions filed by both parties last week. The Chicago firm, Kee Lox Manufacturing Co., made the copies last Friday.

Village clerk Evelyn Diens said the petitions are available on public display in her office. She verified that the copies had been made, but said she did not know who had hired the copying firm.

BOTH JOHN KOEPPEN of the Wheeling Active Citizens Ticket (ACT) and officials of the WHIP party said yesterday they have heard from friends that such a challenge was planned.

Both declined to name their sources, saying that the callers had been friends relaying rumors.

WHIP officials said that among those who received calls saying the party should withdraw or that a challenge would be filed were WHIP candidates Otis Hedlund and Michael Moran.

Koeppen said yesterday neither he nor any officers of ACT would file any objections to the WHIP nominating petitions.

Koeppen said he heard a group of citizens planned to make the challenge but he had been unable to find out who was planning such a challenge.

Koeppen said he had learned a week ago about a state statute which says that "no person shall be eligible for any municipal office unless he is a qualified elector of the municipality and has resided therein at least one year preceding his election or appointment."

THAT REQUIREMENT in chapter 24, article 3, of the state statutes is expected to be used in challenging Bigalke. He has lived in the village seven months.

WHIP officials maintain that Bigalke was told that since he had lived in the village long enough to register to vote he was legally eligible to run for office. Bigalke was told he was eligible by both Village Clerk Evelyn Diens and the Cook County Board of Election Commissioners, WHIP officials said.

Mrs. Diens said yesterday she told Bigalke the requirements for a registered voter, but that he had not asked about the requirements for a candidate for village office.

Mrs. Diens explained if anyone files a challenge to any party's petitions she is required to notify the candidate involved by registered mail within 24 hours. A decision on the challenge is made by an electoral board made up of the village president, village clerk and trustee who has served longest on the village board.

Trustees Peter Egan and Ira Bird have each served eight years on the board.

The decision on the challenge made by the electoral board is final, but is subject to judicial review, she said.

CHALLENGES FILED against a party in an election can include a variety of allegations including how petitions were circulated or objections to individual signatures.

Mrs. Diens said objections to petitions may be filed through Friday in her office.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer said yesterday that even if signatures on petitions were challenged, a party would lose its place on the ballot only if the number of signatures was reduced below the 74 required to file.

Both parties filed several hundred signatures to be sure of having 74 proper signatures.

Hamer said any decision on whether a challenge to one candidate would affect an entire slate would be decided by the electoral board.

Candidates running for the village board along with Bigalke on the WHIP slate are Michael Moran, Skip Hedlund and Harold Fagan.

Running on the ACT slate with Koeppen are Ronald Bruhn, Albert Lang, and Edward Berger.

Residents' Battle 'Not Over'

Apartment Rezoning Request Denied

More than 100 Prospect Heights residents cheered their victory after Wheeling's zoning board refused to allow apartments on property south of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church.

But the battle is not yet over since final decision on the rezoning request is up to the Wheeling Village Board.

Recently the village board approved another apartment development near the church after the zoning board had voted against the rezoning.

The hearing was held Tuesday night under the watchful eye of a policeman who was assigned to prevent possible disturbances.

By a 6 to 1 vote zoning board members denied a petition to rezone the 40 acre site from single family home zoning to apartment zoning. The property automatically assumed single family home zoning when it was annexed to the village Feb. 8.

BOARD CHAIRMAN Douglas Cargill was the only member in favor of rezoning. Cargill said he had faith in village ordinances and procedures and was sure the village could control development of the property as an apartment complex.

Other board members said they opposed rezoning because of the proposed incorporation of Prospect Heights as a city, potential flooding problems, increased traffic near St. Alphonsus School, and the lack of detailed plans by the developer.

Many of the points had been raised earlier in the meeting by representatives of various Prospect Heights groups.

Roman Beltran, who said he represented the parishioners of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church, presented a petition opposing the rezoning signed by nearly 600 parishioners.

AN ATTORNEY FOR property owner Arthur Lieblich introduced evidence that Lieblich had paid for part of a village sewer and water system to serve his property.

Under questioning by William J. Moore, an attorney who lives in Prospect Heights, the developer's engineer said he did not know if the proposed development would affect drainage of the Hillcrest Slough east of the property.

He said however, that runoff from the property would be equal to or less than the runoff from the property in its undeveloped state. A retention basin lake with controlled outlets would assure that, he said.

IF THE PROPERTY were zoned for apartments approximately 500 units could be built. The developer proposed two story buildings to border the property near residential homes on the west and south.

The developers could not estimate the number of children in the development because they said the number of two and three bedroom units had not been finalized.

Residents cited the proximity of Pal-Waukee Airport, overloading of McDold Creek, and early morning traffic patterns as reasons to deny the rezoning.

One Prospect Heights resident, Mrs. William H. Spears, 304 E. Marion Ave., wrote to the zoning board saying that she was not opposed to apartment buildings on the site.

PETER DEVRIES OF 302 N. Wheeling Rd. charged that the developer had allowed fill to be dumped on his land without a Cook County permit earlier this year. DeVries said as a result mud covered the road, causing school buses and cars to slide into ditches.

Prospect Heights residents referred to the Swan Lake development north of the church which the village board approved recently despite zoning board recommendation that the property not be rezoned.

In response to residents' questions of how the development would benefit the village, Cargill talked of the village's need to control property development in the area and the lack of cooperation of Cook County.

Residents charged that rezoning the land would be spot zoning in a single family home area, while the developer said it would be a good buffer to Wheeling's industrial park.

MOORE CHARGED the developer gave the village no logical reasons for rezoning the property. He said that apartments or townhouses "would be a hostile development to the area."

He said he doubted the property owner would disannex if not granted the zoning because of problems in getting sewer and water service.

One Prospect Heights resident, Lloyd Demel of 13 Leon Ln. East, said that he expected the issue of incorporation to be submitted to Prospect Heights voters in a referendum before March 1.

Others said the Lieblich site had been included in the original land to be incorporated in the city of Prospect Heights, but had been removed when the village annexed it last week.

Plan commissioners noted that the property might be better developed as a planned development instead of with simple multiple family zoning.

Name Kelly To Library Board

Thomas J. Kelly, 470 Middlesex, Buffalo Grove, was appointed Tuesday to the library board of the Wheeling Public Library District. The appointment was made at a special meeting of the library district board of trustees.

Kelly was appointed to serve the unexpired term of Frederick Schubert, who died last year. He will serve until April, 1972. At that time a trustee must be elected to serve a six-year term on the board.

Kelly is married and the father of five children.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U.S. Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday, however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon. No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, firebombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

LA. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $900 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950 mile downstate freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported wholesale prices rose .7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 1.7 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gunnar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

The Northeast was the first part of the country to lose the relief of the February balmy spell. A pocket of Arctic air spread over the region, producing some subzero readings. The rest of the country had mild weather, including thunder-showers in the Great Lakes region.

Temperatures from around the nation:

Los Angeles	57	50
Miami Beach	74	67
Minneapolis	38	27
New York	39	27
Phoenix	80	58
Seattle	51	42

The Market

The gradual afternoon recovery averted a big drop on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow-Jones Industrial average, down six points by mid-morning, finished down 2.19. Volume was 18,720,000 shares. Prices also declined on the American board, in heavy turnover.

Bond Sale Approval Set Tonight

The Trustees of Schools of Wheeling Township will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the Dist. 214 administration building to approve a bond sale made last month by School Dist. 25.

But earlier in the week Dist. 25 Business Manager Dan Suffoletto admitted he wasn't sure why.

"I had to get their signatures for something once, but I don't remember what," he said when asked about the function of the trustees.

One reason for his confusion is that the trustees operate only in townships in Cook County. Suffoletto was business manager for a school district in Will County before coming to Arlington Heights.

In Cook County the trustees, by law, must appoint a school treasurer to handle funds for all school districts in the township. They legally hold title to all school real estate and are custodians of all money used by the schools, treasurer Donald Roth explained.

ROTH, AS TREASURER, keeps the official books for the school districts in Wheeling township — Elementary Districts 25, 23, 21 and 26 and High School Dist. 214.

"The school boards decide what money they want to spend and I make out the checks so they can pay their bills," he said.

The trustees must meet and act on any sale of building bonds and any transfers of land the school districts are involved in, he said.

The three trustees are elected for six year terms with one ordinarily coming up for election every two years.

This year, however, two trustees will be elected because one term is expiring and another was vacated when a trustee resigned. Raymond Demaertelaere of Arlington Heights was appointed to the vacancy until this election.

The other two trustees are Earl Richardson of Mount Prospect, whose term expires in April, and Joanne Shelk of Wheeling.

THE TRUSTEES must meet at least twice a year and hold special meetings whenever necessary to approve bond sales, Roth said. They receive no pay for the work.

The trustees and the office of treasurer are created by state law, he said, but they have been abolished in all counties except Cook. In other counties each school district appoints its own treasurer.

In Cook County, however, there are so many school districts that if each had its own treasurer the county superintendent would have to deal with almost 150 treasurers, Roth said.

When the township schools were first established, he said, the state donated one section of land to the board of trustees. The revenue from the land was to be used for the support of the office of treasurer.

ALMOST ALL TREASURERS sold their land long ago. Wheeling township now has a small investment fund of about $5,000 which earns about $100 in interest a year, Roth said.

The rest of the costs for the office, about $25,000 a year, are spread among the school districts in the township according to the amount of money from each the treasurer handles.

And that amount can be sizable. Roth said he receives tax money and invests it if the schools do not need it right away. Legally he can invest the money only in treasury bills, certificates of deposits from state and national banks and in Federal Mortgage Notes.

He said about $651,000 in total interest was handled by his office last year.

Girl's Basketball Team Ends Season

The seventh grade girls' basketball team at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High school ended its eight-game schedule with only one loss. That was to a team from James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School.

The eighth grade girls team at Holmes finished its season with five wins and three losses.

Village Election Filing Concludes

Filing for the April 20 village elections closed Monday afternoon with eight candidates on two tickets vying for four village trustee posts.

Candidates running on the Wheeling Active Citizens Ticket (ACT) are John Koeppen, Ronald Bruhn, Albert Lang, and Edward Berger.

Running on the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) slate are Norbert Bigalke, Otis Hedlund, Michael Moran and Harold Fagan.

The four seats up for election are now held by trustees Ira Bird, Peter Egan, Koeppen and Bruhn.

Neither Bird or Egan filed for reelection.

Registration for voters who want to vote in the village election will be open at the village clerk's office on March 1, 2, and 3.

In addition to daytime hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., registration will be open from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on March 3. Voters who are already registered need not register specially for village elections.

Petitions Available For School Bd. Posts

Prospective candidates for the Dist. 21 School Board may pick up nominating petitions at the district's administrative center, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

The center is open from 8:15 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Candidates must be registered voters and they must be residents of the district for at least one year. The petitions must be signed by 50 persons registered to vote in the district.

Two persons will be elected to three-year board terms in the April 10 district election.

To be eligible for the race candidates must return their petitions between Feb. 24 and March 19.

Zoning Panel Rejects Plan

A petition to allow a gas station on the southwest corner of Wolf Road and Strong Street was denied Tuesday evening by the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

A final decision on the rezoning request will be made by the village board.

The petitioner was J and L Oil Co., Inc. Company Pres. Lester L. Wright told the zoning board that he was contract purchaser for the property.

The request asked to change the zoning from general business district to service business district zoning.

He said his stations did not have service bays or do repair work.

He said the nearest competing stations were approximately 1 1/2 miles north and south of the property.

Board members cited the five closed stations in the village as reason for the denial. They also pointed out that the station would be next to a multiple family development.

Al Martin, a board member, said that he did not think the station could succeed on the transient trade it would serve.

Board chairman Douglas Cargill said that while he thought the proposal was a good one "I can't see how we can vindicate a gas station on that property."

Hear Disc Jockey

A disc jockey came to Mark Twain School in Wheeling to explain his work to members of a third grade class.

The visit of Dick Basten, of WEEF in Highland Park, was part of a program which brings "the world of work" to the classroom.

cil holders, plates and bowls were made by the art students in the ceramics lesson, the first ever taught at St. Mary's.

Vandalism At MacArthur, Sullivan Schools Being Probed

Vandalism totaling $1,000 at Douglas MacArthur Junior High School and the Anne Sullivan School at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Prospect Heights is being investigated by the Cook County Sheriff's Police. A county detective, said that police suspect the damage was done by juveniles. He said the vandalism occurred sometime after 11 p.m. Saturday or Sunday.

The school buildings are not guarded at that time.

A total of 22 windows were broken on the south side of the MacArthur and Sullivan schools, costing approximately $750.

According to Supt. Edward Grodsky the district's insurance does not cover glass damage. "We had to take money out of the building fund, already slated for other repairs and purchases, to pay for new glass."

In addition at MacArthur School the veneer on several doors was damaged, and locks were broken. In the science classroom, the vandals killed a snake. In the library a typewriter was dropped on the floor.

Several pieces of equipment were stolen from the audio visual room at MacArthur, along with students' art projects displayed in the lobby.

The damage was discovered by MacArthur Principal Gerald McGovern at 6 a.m. Monday. He notified the county police and Grodsky.

"I came to the schools immediately to survey the damage," said Grodsky. "I don't think it involved professional thieves. The damage was malicious and purely destructive. Very little was actually taken out of the building."

Earlier, in discussing new requirements set by the Insurance Company of North America, Grodsky said the district cannot afford a guard service and does not have a local police station to which to hook up an alarm system. Because the district cannot implement these safety measures, the school board may not be able to renew the district insurance policy in October.

Winning Jazz Festival Selections To Be On Radio

Selections played by the winning bands in the recent Chicagoland Festival of Jazz will be broadcast Saturday morning on radio station WGN.

More than 80 bands from Chicago area high schools and junior high schools competed in the jazz festival, held Feb. 6 at Oak Lawn High School.

The winning high school band was the Prospect High School stage band. Morgan Jones, Prospect High band director, won the Outstanding Band Director Award.

The School Dist. 21 jazz band won the junior high school competition. Musicians in that group come from all three of the district's junior high schools.

Jazz bands from Wheeling and Elk Grove high schools were both finalists in the festival competition. According to Richard Pettibone, chairman of Oak Lawn's music department and coordinator of the festival, this was the second time in as many years that the Wheeling band was a finalist.

SELECTIONS PLAYED by the winning bands will be broadcast from 9:30 a.m. through noon on station WGN's Roy Leonard Show. Leonard was master of ceremonies for the festival.

"I'm going to play tapes made during the evening performance," Leonard said. He said he planned to include selections by the Wheeling, Prospect, Elk Grove and Dist. 21 bands. "I'll play as many as I have time for. The band selections will be scattered among the other selections played on the show," said Leonard.

This year's festival was the 12th held by the high school. According to Pettibone, more than 10,000 attended the festival which began Saturday afternoon and ended that evening. According to Jones, the event is the "largest high school competition in the United States and generally considered to be the most stringent."

Drainage Suit To Be Resumed

The Cambridge drainage suit will resume today in the courtroom of Judge Daniel Covelli in Chicago.

The judge is expected to rule on a motion asking that Cook County be dismissed from the suit. The county was named in the suit, at the suggestion of Judge Covelli, when it refused to approve construction of a storm sewer.

The sewer is the final link in a drainage system designed to drain about 400 acres of Buffalo Creek watershed land.

The drainage system is the result of a negotiated settlement of the original suit, filed as a result of flooding which occurs in the area during heavy rains.

Jaycees Slate 1-Day Basketball Tourney

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees will host a one-day basketball tournament for 54 area Jaycee chapters Sunday at James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School in the village.

Bob Bogart of the Jaycees, said the 54 chapters compose the north region of the Illinois Jaycees. Bogart said he is not sure how many chapters will enter teams in the tournament, but so far has received replies from about 20 chapters.

The tournament will begin at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday. It is open to the public.

'Blowing Trash' Problem May Have A Solution

The annoying problem of trash from the Arlington Heights landfill blowing into Buffalo Grove may be solved by a proposal of Arlington's planning consultant.

Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner, has presented a model he built showing how the 56-acre landfill site on Nichols Road could be turned into a recreational complex.

Buffalo Grove residents have complained of trash from the landfill, located near the western edge of the village, blowing into their yards.

The complaints prompted the village of Buffalo Grove to file an official protest with the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, charging improper operating methods at the dump.

AFTER INSPECTING the site, the agency recommended that temporary portable fences be installed to confine the trash to the landfill site. However, a recent inspection by the Herald found no new fencing was visible.

At present the model is only an idea. Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said the idea was "exciting" and that the model will be discussed with the Arlington Heights Park District. However, no meeting with the park district has been set and the plan has not been placed on the village board's agenda yet.

Stressing his plan was merely a place to start, Kesler said he worked on the model in his spare time at home.

The basic concept of the design consists of a "U" shaped mountain with three peaks varying in height from 65 to 90 feet. The mountains would be shaped from the refuse.

THE SITE, as shown by Kesler's model, will include a natural amphitheater that will use the inner part of the mountain as an acoustical and wind-breaking screen. The total seating capacity including the mountain slope would be approximately 20,000 to 25,000.

The focal point of the design is in the center of the area, where a variety of activities could be included. These include a playing field for baseball, football, soccer or hockey during various seasons. Open-air performances could also be staged there.

The plan also includes numerous tree-shaded paths leading from parking lots to the three mountain peaks. A ski slope is also proposed for the mountain. The project also includes bridge paths, basketball courts, botanical gardens, and facilities for boating on a lake.

The area behind the mountains could include a refuse processing plant, using recycle and incineration methods, an equipment and truck garage, a pump house and a 12 million gallon water storage facility.

2-Day Baseball Signup Slated

The Buffalo Grove Recreation Association will hold a two day registration for its summer baseball program Feb. 27 and 28.

The registration will be at the Emmerich Park Fieldhouse from 1 to 4 p.m. on both days. All boys who were born between July 31, 1954, and July 31, 1964, are eligible for the program. The registration fee is $10 per person, with a maximum fee of $25 for more than two boys per family.

A second registration will be held the following weekend at the same times.

Jaycees To Hold Parent's Night

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees will hold a parent's night this Monday in connection with the conclusion of their basketball clinic for fifth and sixth graders.

The public is invited to the event, starting at 6:45 p.m. at James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School.

Bob Bogart, chairman of the project, said a game will be played and there will be a demonstration of basketball skills by the boys in the program.

A certificate of participation will be given to each boy and achievement awards will also be presented, Bogart said.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U.S. Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday, however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

Final '70 Census Figures Released

The U. S. Census Bureau has compiled its final 1970 population report for Illinois, with final figures higher in most cases than the preliminary figures released last year.

The final figures, compared with 1970 preliminary figures and the 1960 census figures, plus the approximate percent of increase from 1960 to 1970 for each of the 11 towns in Paddock Publications' coverage area, are as follows:

Town	1970 (final)	1970 (preliminary)	1960	Percent change '60-'70
Arlington	64,584	62,576	27,878	+125
Mt. Prospect	34,995	35,286	18,906	+86
Des Plaines	57,239	59,288	34,898	+69
Palatine	25,904	26,104	11,504	+126
Wheeling	14,746	14,759	7,189	+106
Elk Grove	24,516	21,541	6,608	+226
Buffalo Grove	11,799	11,549	1,492	+674
Hoff Estates	22,238	21,935	8,296	+165
Schaumburg	18,730	18,312	986	+1,757
Hanover Pk.	11,916	10,985	451	+2,335
Rolling Meadows	19,178	18,907	10,879	+74

THE NEW CENSUS figures are important to local governments for several reasons.

Under the new Illinois Constitution, which takes effect on July 1, municipalities with a population of 25,000 or above are considered "home rule units" and are entitled to exercise broad powers which the old Constitution prohibited.

Also, redistricting of congressional and state legislative districts must be based on the new census figures.

Because of the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling, no district within a state may be more than one per cent larger or smaller than another district.

That ruling is going to provide a major headache to legislators who must draw up new district lines by June 30.

Previously, political boundaries, such as county lines or township lines, were a major factor in drawing up districts.

The 13th Congressional District, for example, contains eight North and Northwest Cook County townships in a neat, almost perfectly rectangular package.

The 10th Congressional District is made up of West and Northwest Cook County townships.

THE NEW DISTRICT lines are not likely to be anywhere near as neat because of the one per cent ruling and it is likely that congressional and state legislative district lines may divide townships and villages.

The average size of Illinois' 24 Congressional Districts will be somewhere in the area of 470,000 residents. Both the 13th District, which is the second largest in Illinois with more than 620,000 residents, and the 10th which has more than 50,000, will be reduced substantially.

The net effect of the population increases in the suburbs will be more representation in both Springfield and Washington, but a much more difficult time for legislators to determine how that representation will be distributed.

Name Kelly To Library Board

Thomas J. Kelly, 470 Middlesex, Buffalo Grove, was appointed Tuesday to the library board of the Wheeling Public Library District. The appointment was made at a special meeting of the library district board of trustees.

Kelly was appointed to serve the unexpired term of Frederick Schubert, who died last year. He will serve until April, 1972. At that time a trustee must be elected to serve a six-year term on the board.

Kelly is married and the father of five children.

Twin Acres Group Bowling Outing Set

The Twin Acres chapter of women's ORT will sponsor a bowling outing Feb. 20 at the Buffalo Grove Rosebowl. The event, which will begin at 8 p.m., will feature scotch doubles bowling and pizza will be served. Tickets are $10. For reservations call 537-7092 or 253-4799.

Village Ponders $8,000 Radio Gear Purchase

The Village of Buffalo Grove is considering the purchase of more than $8,000 worth of radio equipment for the public works department.

Bill Davis, director of public works, presented a proposal at Monday night's village board meeting to buy eight radio units and other equipment for $8,283 from Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc.

Under the proposal, each public works vehicle would have a radio and could be contacted from the main unit at the village municipal building. The public works department would use the old police department base unit. The police department recently purchased a new base unit.

The system would have a range of ten miles from the municipal building. The public works department currently uses Civil Defense radios which are ineffective, according to Davis.

Davis said he has applied for a private frequency from the Federal Communications Commission. The frequency could also be used by the police department as an alternate frequency at night and would enable the police and public works personnel to be in radio contact with each other.

After hearing the proposal, the trustees referred it to the Civil Defense Commission for study and voted to seek other bids for similar equipment.

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, firebombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

LI. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $900 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950 mile downstate freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported wholesale prices rose .7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 1.7 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gunnar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

The Northeast was the first part of the country to lose the relief of the February balmy spell. A pocket of Arctic air spread over the region, producing some subzero readings. The rest of the country had mild weather, including thunder-showers in the Great Lakes region.

Temperatures from around the nation:

Bond Sale Approval Set Tonight

The Trustees of Schools of Wheeling Township will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the Dist. 214 administration building to approve a bond sale made last month by School Dist. 25.

But earlier in the week Dist. 25 Business Manager Dan Suffoletto admitted he wasn't sure why.

"I had to get their signatures for something once, but I don't remember what," he said when asked about the function of the trustees.

One reason for his confusion is that the trustees operate only in townships in Cook County. Suffoletto was business manager for a school district in Will County before coming to Arlington Heights.

In Cook County the trustees, by law, must appoint a school treasurer to handle funds for all school districts in the township. They legally hold title to all school real estate and are custodians of all money used by the schools, treasurer Donald Roth explained.

ROTH, AS TREASURER, keeps the official books for the school districts in Wheeling township — Elementary Districts 25, 23, 21 and 26 and High School Dist. 214.

"The school boards decide what money they want to spend and I make out the checks so they can pay their bills," he said.

The trustees must meet and act on any sale of building bonds and any transfers of land the school districts are involved in, he said.

The three trustees are elected for six year terms with one ordinarily coming up for election every two years.

This year, however, two trustees will be elected because one term is expiring and another was vacated when a trustee resigned. Raymond Damaertelaere of Arlington Heights was appointed to the vacancy until this election.

The other two trustees are Earl Richardson of Mount Prospect, whose term expires in April, and Joanne Shelk of Wheeling.

THE TRUSTEES must meet at least twice a year and hold special meetings whenever necessary to approve bond sales, Roth said. They receive no pay for the work.

The trustees and the office of treasurer are created by state law, he said, but they have been abolished in all counties except Cook. In other counties each school district appoints its own treasurer.

In Cook County, however, there are so many school districts that if each had its own treasurer the county superintendent would have to deal with almost 150 treasurers, Roth said.

When the township schools were first established, he said, the state donated one section of land to the board of trustees. The revenue from the land was to be used for the support of the office of treasurer.

ALMOST ALL TREASURERS sold their land long ago. Wheeling township now has a small investment fund of about $5,000 which earns about $100 in interest a year, Roth said.

The rest of the costs for the office, about $25,000 a year, are spread among the school districts in the township according to the amount of money from each the treasurer handles.

And that amount can be sizable. Roth said he receives tax money and invests it if the schools do not need it right away. Legally he can invest the money only in treasury bills, certificates of deposits from state and national banks and in Federal Mortgage Notes.

He said about $651,000 in total interest was handled by his office last year.

Village Election Filing Concludes

Filing for the April 20 village elections closed Monday afternoon with eight candidates on two tickets vying for four village trustee posts.

Candidates running on the Wheeling Active Citizens Ticket (ACT) are John Koeppen, Ronald Bruhn, Albert Lang, and Edward Berger.

Running on the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) slate are Norbert Bigalke, Otis Hedlund, Michael Moran and Harold Fagan.

The four seats up for election are now held by trustees Ira Bird, Peter Egan, Koeppen and Bruhn.

Neither Bird or Egan filed for reelection.

Registration for voters who want to vote in the village election will be open at the village clerk's office on March 1, 2, and 3.

In addition to daytime hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., registration will be open from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on March 3. Voters who are already registered need not register specially for village elections.

Petitions Available For School Bd. Posts

Prospective candidates for the Dist. 21 School Board may pick up nominating petitions at the district's administrative center, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

The center is open from 8:15 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Candidates must be registered voters and they must be residents of the district for at least one year. The petitions must be signed by 50 persons registered to vote in the district.

Two persons will be elected to three-year board terms in the April 10 district election.

To be eligible for the race candidates must return their petitions between Feb. 24 and March 19.

Zoning Panel Rejects Plan

A petition to allow a gas station on the southwest corner of Wolf Road and Strong Street was denied Tuesday evening by the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

A final decision on the rezoning request will be made by the village board.

The petitioner was J and L Oil Co., Inc. Company Pres. Lester L. Wright told the zoning board that he was contract purchaser for the property.

The request asked to change the zoning from general business district to service business district zoning.

He said his stations did not have service bays or do repair work.

He said the nearest competing stations were approximately 1½ miles north and south of the property.

Board members cited the five closed stations in the village as reason for the denial. They also pointed out that the station would be next to a multiple family development.

Al Martin, a board member, said that he did not think the station could succeed on the transient trade it would serve.

Board chairman Douglas Cargill said that while he thought the proposal was a good one "I can't see how we can vindicate a gas station on that property."

Park-Basin Plan May Be Altered For Better Use

Plans for recreational parks to be built around two proposed retention basins in Palatine may be changed.

By removing some of the dirt from around the basin sites, at the northwest corner of Palatine and Quentin Roads, and behind the Reseda West subdivision near the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way, the Palatine Park District will be able to design better parks.

Whether the new designs will be possible depends on the accessibility of land fill or road construction site which could accept or buy the dirt near the basins. If these sites are too far away, the cost of hauling the dirt would be prohibitive.

The Palatine Park district has been considering a proposal to develop parks by the basins through an agreement with the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) and the U. S. Department of Soil Conservation. The retention basins are proposed as part of the Salt Creek Water Shed Project.

If the park district and the agencies enter into an agreement, MSD will shape the earth at the basin sites to park district specifications. Then, it will be the park district's job to maintain the property.

Park district architect Bill Vaughan said he was excited at the new possibilities MSD opened up by allowing the removal of some dirt.

Under the old MSD plan, he said, the hills would have been so steep, they were hard to walk on. Mowing the grass on these hills would have been impossible.

By allowing some dirt to be removed, the hills would be smaller. There would be more level ground to put park facilities on, Vaughan said.

Vaughan said MSD will allow the removal of about 1.2 million cubic feet of earth. By removing this amount, the basin would still hold just as much water, but the park district would get a better landscape to work with.

If the Palatine Park Board asks him to draw up new park plans, Vaughan said he would still include an amphitheater as in the original plans, but it would hold fewer people. There would be several new baseball diamonds, tennis courts, soccer fields and picnic areas, he said.

The purpose of the retention basins will be to control flooding along Salt Creek. Spill water would flow into the basins down a natural incline. Once in the basin, the water would be controlled by pumps.

Water in the basins will be pumped into Salt Creek after the creek's level subsides.

Vaughan said the amount of dirt to be removed from the basin sites would be determined by what kind of plans he draws up for the Palatine Park District.

On Feb. 23, the park board will begin to work on a resolution concerning the leasing of land on the two basin sites for recreational purposes.

CUB SCOUT Paul Jones is putting the finishing touches on a place card that will be used at the Cub Scout Pack 98 Blue and Gold Banquet this evening. Scouts have been making decorations for the banquet all week. Their work will be displayed at their den's table.

Cubs To Hear Bull

Chicago Bear running back Ronnie Bull will be the guest of honor at the Cub Scout Pack 98 Blue and Gold Banquet tonight.

Bull, who will attend the banquet with his family, will discuss the Bears' 1970 season, with the scouts and their families.

The banquet will be held in the Winston Churchill School gymnasium tonight at 7 p.m.

Water Bill To Flow Upward In March

Palatine residents can expect an approximate 25 per cent increase on their next water bill in March.

The village board Tuesday approved the first increase in existing water rates since 1959, which will generate an estimated $100,000 in revenue for the coming year.

The increase, from a minimum charge per quarter of $3.50 to $4, will allow the village to improve the water system, eliminate summer water bans, low pressure and other water problems, according to village officials.

Water rates to area residents outside the village limits will be 150 per cent of the rates to residents inside the village. The rate increase involves only the water portion of the quarterly bill which is a combination of water, sewer and refuse costs.

Under the existing water rates, the village has accumulated a deficit of more than $25,000 in 1968 and again in 1969.

"We ran out of money on the present rate scale to pay for water system improvements," Village Mgr. Berton Braun told the village board.

Inserts will be included with the March water bills informing residents of the water rate changes and increases.

The increase was first proposed in relation to the six-year capital improvement plan developed by Braun. By 1976, Palatine's population is expected to reach 35,000, Braun said, and the present water rate schedule could not handle this growth adequately.

At Baldwin, Hicks

Store Work To Start In Spring

Construction of a K Mart development at the corner of Baldwin and Hicks Roads is expected to begin in spring with approval of a special use for the project from the Palatine Village Board Tuesday night.

After a public hearing the board unanimously voted to grant a special use which will allow a retail garden center, a tires batteries and accessories automotive center and a home furnishing center included in the total K-Mart development.

The land presently is zoned B-1 which allows for the construction of the department store, but not for the added services requested by the developer.

The village board acted on a recommendation from the plan commission which asked the land to remain in a B-1 classification, the lightest commercial district in the village.

Jack Jacobs, developer of the project, reminded village board members of the expected increase in sales tax revenue the K-Mart would bring.

HE SAID THE department store will do between $14 and $15 million business annually with a yearly tax rebate to the village of about $140,000.

The building is proposed to be a one-story, L-shaped facility under one roof and cover about 878,000 square feet.

Jacobs said he anticipates completion of the K-Mart Development will be by spring of 1972.

Parking for more than 1,000 cars is included in the project.

Before giving approval, village officials were concerned about possible traffic problems and adequate retention basins on the property.

Many of the anticipated traffic problems are expected to be solved by plans from the state highway department for the intersection of Baldwin and Hicks.

Before construction begins engineering drawings will be submitted to the board which must meet local standards of flood control with retention basins.

Residents from surrounding subdivisions have opposed the K-Mart development since it was first proposed in September, but there were no objectors at Tuesday's public hearing.

Colfax St. Widening Plan To Be Outlined On March 22

Plans for widening and upgrading Colfax Street from Smith to Quentin Road and financing of the project will be outlined at a public hearing that has been set for March 22.

Because the $14 million project may be partially financed through special assessment to local taxpayers, the public hearing which will be open to village residents was set by the Palatine Village Board Tuesday night.

Property owners near the 4,758 foot strip of Colfax Street that will be improved who are liable to be assessed for the project will be notified by mail of the hearing date, the total cost of the project and the possible amount of assessment to them.

ACCORDING TO Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun, the road improvement project can be financed either by special assessment through a direct public benefit tax or by using state motor fuel tax funds.

Trustees approved Tuesday the submission of the Colfax Street improvement plans to the State Highway Department for approval to spend motor fuel tax funds.

It is up to the village board to decide what percentage of the total cost of the project will be financed through anticipated motor fuel tax money, through public benefit tax or through a special assessment.

Specific proposals for financing will be presented at the public hearing in March. Detailed information about the construction plans of the project should also be available at that time.

Basic plans for the project call for widening Colfax from two to four lanes between Smith and Quentin. Larger storm sewers will be installed to accommodate the extra runoff the additional pavement will cause. It is expected 36 new street lights will also be erected.

THE PURPOSE OF the project is to accommodate the anticipated increased traffic volume for that area. Currently about 8,000 cars use the roadway each day.

Increased population and the new transportation center and drive-in bank planned at the Colfax-Smith corner will put an added traffic burden on the road. Also, opening of the new train depot in the spring and the commuter parking lot east of the depot will bring in additional traffic.

Besides the road widening, a center median from Smith Street to a point west of the Carter Street Apartments will be constructed which will prohibit all left turns in that area.

Following the public hearing village trustees will vote on the road improvement issue, and if approved, construction could be underway later this year. The hearing will precede the regular village board meeting March 22.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U.S. Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon. No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, firebombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

Lt. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $900 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950 mile downstate freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported wholesale prices rose 7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 17 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gunnar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

The Northeast was the first part of the country to lose the relief of the February balmy spell. A pocket of Arctic air spread over the region, producing some subzero readings. The rest of the country had mild weather, including thunder-showers in the Great Lakes region.

New Title For Experienced Hand

by MARGE FERROLI

Since the business of schools is to teach, it follows that the key position in the functioning of School Dist. 15 is the head of the department of instruction.

Titles were recently switched around in Dist. 15 in an administrative structural change and Marion Omiatek, formerly called director of curriculum, is now assistant superintendent of instruction. Under his charge is the operation of all the programs and learning materials that affect the typical student in the classroom.

Omiatek first took over the post of director of curriculum in 1961, one year after coming to Dist. 15 as principal of the newly opened Central Road School. The curriculum department at that time was composed of Omiatek and three other people who directly handled the operation of instructional programs.

"I ALMOST HAD to be an 'expert' in each field of instruction in those days," Omiatek said. Now, his department has expanded to include 23 people, each responsible for a particular instructional area that is involved in Dist. 15 curriculum.

Most of his working hours are spent in meetings with the department chairmen and supervisors that maintain the direct contact with the instruction in the schools. In his role as administrator of the department of instruction, Omiatek says his biggest responsibility is "to establish communication between the school principals, the supervisors and the district administration."

"I've always tried to keep those people affected by a decision in this involved in the decision making," he said. This involvement means participation of teachers, principals and parents.

"I'll discount no idea that a person has. Any idea is worth listening to. If the idea is well planned and valid, it can be implemented in our schools in time," Omiatek said.

Curriculum development has traditionally been the primary concern of Omiatek and his office, although with the expansion of the school district, much of the research work for curriculum changes has been taken over by department heads and teachers.

"WE'VE ALWAYS strongly believed in the involvement of the teaching staff in our curriculum development," Omiatek said. "Who should know better than the teachers what the needs of the students are?"

Having recently returned from a one-year sabbatical leave for continued study, Omiatek is now faced with long hours of catching up on the district activities during his absence.

His sabbatical, in which he completed all his course work for a doctorate in education, gave Omiatek the opportunity to study current educational changes and become aware of the many new trends in the field.

Although he feels this awareness has improved his general outlook on the field of education, his sabbatical left him with a strong concern for accountability in the schools.

"Precision is probably a more accurate word than accountability," Omiatek said. "We've got to become more precise in our teaching objectives and the function of our teaching materials."

OMIATEK COMPARED his role in increasing accountability to that of an architect building a school. "Curriculum is a blueprint, it's precise with the objectives spelled out. It can be implemented by hiring the right people for construction and using the proper materials."

When Omiatek leaves the district office and his work with instruction, he is faced with perhaps just as much need for accountability when he gets home to his family of nine children. With ages ranging from one month to 18 years, his children require organization of his home and family life, something which he says his wife has become greatly skilled at.

With an expanding school district and an expanding family, Omiatek finds his time well taken up. However, he has been able to find enough time to coordinate the smooth operation of both.

Municipal Void On Tollway Plan

Officials from five villages surrounding Hoffman Estates have, as of yesterday, failed to respond to notification of a meeting to be held March 1, aimed to gain access to the Northwest Tollway at Roselle Road.

The meeting, to be held at Harper Junior College, is to include Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Roselle, Inverness and Palatine. None of the villages have responded saying they'll be represented.

Purpose of the meeting is to implement a survey in the area to determine the need for a Roselle Road access to the tollway.

RESULTS OF THE survey, planned by Harper's planning and development department, would be used as evidence in an Illinois Tollway Commission (ITC) hearing to determine if ramps at Roselle Road will pay for themselves.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman, is organizing the meeting.

He said a follow up letter will be sent out by Feb. 22 asking the villages to express their interest in the project one way or the other.

If the villages fail to show interest toward helping to implement the survey, Regan said he'll organize a local task force in Hoffman Estates to gather the information needed.

Regan has long urged the need for Tollway access at Roselle Road saying that if Roselle Road ramps are not provided there will soon be mass traffic freezes at the Rte. 53 and Barrington Road Tollway ramps.

Ramps at Roselle Road will also help alleviate traffic snarls along Golf, Higgins and Algonquin Road caused by cars heading for the Barrington Road and Rte. 53 ramps.

BUT, THE ITC maintains that it cannot install new ramps unless it is shown that the installation will not hinder payments to tollway bond holders.

Evidence must be provided to the ITC commissioners showing that enough new tollway traffic will be attracted to pay for the Roselle Road ramps.

In a joint meeting Dec. 3, Regan met with officials from Schaumburg and Harper Junior college to begin an evidence collecting committee.

Following the meeting, John Lucas, Harper's director of planning and development, began studying exactly what information is needed for the ITC. Inquiries were also made of officials in Elk Grove and Arlington Heights to find out how they went about gaining the Arlington Heights Road Interchange opened last month.

From The Library

by the staff of the Palatine Public Library

According to Alister Cooke, the only man who could evaluate the military mind of Winston Churchill adequately was Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. He explains this theory in "General Eisenhower on the Military Churchill," one of many new volumes available at the Palatine Public Library this week.

Another book on Churchill is "A Man of Destiny." The book was compiled by the writers of Country Beautiful magazine, a British periodical. "Zanele Shepherd Jr. is author of an interesting book titled "John F. Kennedy: Man of the Sea."

"Winged Legend" by John Burke is another book telling the life story of Amelia Earhart. The life and times of Franz Lehár is the topic of "Gold and Silver" by Bernard Grun. "George Gershwin" tells the story of the famous composer who wrote such musical pieces as the opera "Porgy and Bess." It is by David Eiven.

"PUTSCH!" is a book examining how Hitler made revolution in Germany. Author of this volume is Richard Hansen. The history of Japan is described by the former U. S. ambassador to the Oriental island, Edwin O. Reischauer, in "Japan: The Story of a Nation."

Black culture is examined in two new books at the library. "Black Titan: W.E.B. DuBois" is an anthology of the famous author's writings. Other black writers are given space in "Great Documents in Black American History." C. Eric Lincoln wrote their introduction to this book.

In new fiction books, there is "The Seventh Girl." Authored by Toni Pendleton, the novel deals with two brothers on the Texas frontier who fall in love with the same girl. The Civil War also figures into the plot of this story.

"Caterina" by Eveline Amstutz deals with an Italian Marchesa who was widowed at age 21. Together with her young son, she manages to solve all her problems.

"CARNIVAL" by Arthur H. Lewis is a novel about several sideshow attractions. The author followed the carnival around for six months to get the feel for writing this authentic piece of fiction.

Douglas Clark is author of "Deadly Pattern," a detective story about Inspector Masters, who is faced with five murder cases in a resort town. "The Cube Root of Uncertainty" is a collection of excellent science fiction stories by Robert Silverberg.

James Conaway is author of "The Big Easy." Set in New Orleans, the book follows the troubled adventures of a newspaper reporter. Georges Simenon tells a tale of a family that is held together by sharing the same roof and board. The book is titled "November."

Aid Program Given

An artificial resuscitation program was presented by Gene Tousey, city civil defense chief of rescue, at the meeting of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense Tuesday.

The demonstration is part of the city's civil defense medical study program. The local unit attends medical study programs each Monday in conjunction with the Mt. Prospect civil defense group, according to Deputy Civil Defense Director Carmen Vinezano.

'Howie-In-Hills' Trial Postponed

The trial of the Teamsters Union Pension fund against the Village of Hoffman Estates was postponed yesterday until May 3.

The case, being heard before Judge Helen McGullicuddy, in the Cook County Circuit Court, charges fraud involving the village in the confirmation of Hoffman Estates special assessments numbers 4, 5, and 7.

Under the special assessment, street and sewer work was scheduled for the defunct Howie-in-the-Hills subdivision. Pension fund officials want the special assessment vacated.

The pension fund claims to hold a $1.7 million mortgage on the subdivision which they hope to recoup.

The trial was postponed yesterday because Joseph Teitelbaum, a key witness in the village's defense, will not be available for immediate testimony due to ill health.

MAY 3 WAS THE earliest date the army of attorneys involved in the proceedings could agree to meet again.

Teitelbaum, a former executive with the pension fund, will be called as a hostile witness by Atty. Edward Hofert, who is defending the village.

A motion made on behalf of the special assessments' bond holders asking that the pension fund suit be dismissed was denied yesterday by Judge McGullicuddy.

Attorneys presenting the bond holders said the bonds in special assessment should be held valid. They claim a special assessment confirmation in court is final, and that any taint of fraud arising later should be handled as a separate matter. Confirmation of special assessment numbers 4, 5 and 7 were given in court in December of 1967.

ALSO DENIED was a petition that federal receivers for the City Savings and Loan be allowed to enter the suit filed by the Teamsters Pension Fund. The receivers were granted title to the property last August because City Savings depositors' money was used in the Howie-in-the-Hills subdivision before the savings institution became defunct.

The petition was denied on grounds that the receivers requested entry into the trial without being subject to the court's full jurisdiction.

Hofert said he's have welcomed the receivers into the case if they had taken the stand that the special assessment should be upheld.

He wanted the receivers to enter the case in order to increase the chance for a settlement agreeable to all parties concerned with Howie-in-the-Hills.

Had the receivers entered the proceedings, it would represent the first time all parties concerned would have come together.

It is expected that the receiver's attorneys will restate their position for entering the trial on May 3.

Final '70 Census Figures Released

The U. S. Census Bureau has compiled its final 1970 population report for Illinois, with final figures higher in most cases than the preliminary figures released last year.

The final figures, compared with 1970 preliminary figures and the 1960 census figures, plus the approximate percent of increase from 1960 to 1970 for each of the 11 towns in Paddock Publications' coverage area, are as follows:

Town	1970 (prelim.)	1970 (final)	1960	Percent change '60-'70
Arlington	64,884	62,575	27,878	+125

THE NEW CENSUS figures are important to local governments for several reasons.

Under the new Illinois Constitution, which takes effect on July 1, municipalities with a population of 25,000 or above are considered "home rule units" and are entitled to exercise broad powers which the old Constitution prohibited.

Also, redistricting of congressional and state legislative districts must be based on the new census figures.

Because of the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling, no district within a state may be more than one per cent larger or smaller than another district.

That ruling is going to provide a major headache to legislators who must draw up new district lines by June 30.

Previously, political boundaries, such as county lines or township lines, were a major factor in drawing up districts.

The 13th Congressional District, for example, contains eight North and Northwest Cook County townships in a neat, almost perfectly rectangular package.

The 10th Congressional District is made up of West and Northwest Cook County townships.

THE NEW DISTRICT lines are not likely to be anywhere near as neat because of the one per cent ruling and it is likely that congressional and state legislative district lines may divide townships and villages.

The average size of Illinois' 24 Congressional Districts will be somewhere in the area of 470,000 residents. Both the 13th District, which is the second largest in Illinois with more than 620,000 residents, and the 10th which has more than 50,000, will be reduced substantially.

The net effect of the population increases in the suburbs will be more representation in both Springfield and Washington, but a much more difficult time for legislators to determine how that representation will be distributed.

FLAMES SHOW ON THE inside wall of Exact Packaging Co., Hammond Drive, Schaumburg, where a trench digger burst into flame just outside the wall yesterday afternoon. Schaumburg Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson said interior fire damage was not extensive, but water damage might be more serious. The digger was cutting a telephone service line trench when it broke a gas line and fumes burned. Hoffman Estates firemen also responded to the alarm.

2 Area Residents To Be On Morning Show

A Palatine pollution fighter, Mrs. Clayton Brown, and Lee. Bridgeman, conservation director of the U.S. Soil and Conservation Service will be early risers Friday morning to appear on television.

They've been invited to appear on Channel 9's Top of the Morning Show beginning at 6:30 a.m.

Mrs. Brown is a member of the local Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) group and also a director of the North Cook County Region of the U.S. Soil and Conservation Service SCS. She and Bridgeman will discuss activities of the SCS and its coming dinner dance where an annual report will be made.

Neon Leaf Faces Commercial Frost At Shop Center

A Rolling Meadows landmark faces destruction.

The Rolling Meadows Shopping Center neon sign, which has been located at the intersection of Meadow and Kirchoff as long as most city residents can remember, will soon light its last time, unless city officials decide to take over the sign's maintenance.

The 50-foot leaf shaped sign, which many residents and city officials regard as a landmark, will be removed from its present location, when a new shopping center signboard is constructed this year. City ordinances state that only one sign is allowed for each shopping center.

The shopping center association officials have told the city that they want to replace the present neon with a marquee-type sign nearer the center of the shopping center.

"I hate to see it torn down," Ald. Thomas Waldron said after hearing of the plans. The sign has been at its present location almost as long as the city has been in existence, Waldron said.

A REPRODUCTION of the sign was made a part of the Rolling Meadows seal a few years ago.

Mayor Roland Meyer said that Baird and Warner, who own the shopping center and the sign, asked the city to move the structure and take over maintenance three years ago. Meyer said officials had discussed the possibility of moving it near Rte. 53 in the western section of the city as a directional sign for travelers.

No action was taken at that time but a similar proposal was discussed last week by members of the building and zoning committee.

The huge neon sign could be used as a directional showing the location of the city because only the words Rolling Meadows are on the sign, officials said.

CITY OFFICIALS have another choice. The sign could be allowed to remain in its present location, if a special use permit was issued for it.

There is support for city takeover of the landmark. Waldron said the sign has "sentimental value" and other officials have called the sign "attractive" and a "good weather vane." The sign revolves to show the direction of the wind.

A shopping center spokesman said that a new signboard is needed because of expected increased competition from Woodfield Mall.

"GRMX!" INITIALS used in the rating of motion pictures, will be the title of a show to be performed by the Orchesis dance group at Forest

View High School. Joy Walker, a member of the group, goes through her routine during a rehearsal for the show, which will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings at the school.

Orchesis Show Will Be Presented Friday, Saturday

The 1971 Orchesis Show, this year titled "GRMX!", will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Forest View High School Theater, 2121 Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights.

Tickets for the two performances of the high school dance group can be purchased for $1 per person. According to the Orchesis sponsor,

Louise Phillip, the female dancers will perform dances under the movie classifications General, Restricted, Mature or X-rated, which correspond to the title of the show, "GRMX!"

The head choreographer for the show is Diane DeBerry, a senior at the high school. Sue Luebeck, a junior, also assisted with the dance routines.

Technical aspects of the show have been planned by students Nancy Guaglianone, a senior, and Lynne Cotton, also a senior. Miss Guaglianone worked with stage settings and Miss Cotton on lighting.

Faculty member Charles Wilde assisted in the arrangement of black, strobe and fluorescent lighting.

Cracker Barrel

A local gas station attendant observes that one can tell which college somebody's offspring attends by the sticker placed in the auto's rear window. What he would like to know is why many owners of late model Volkswagens still send their children to the same university: "Automatic stick shift."

SUBURBANITES who commute to Chicago may have noticed a crafty new advertisement tacked to the tail of many buses. At one car length, the fluorescent red letters on bright blue background could get no late night taxi service unless a reserved call was placed in advance with the cab company.

AS CONSTRUCTION of Willow Bend Elementary School continues to meet its opening set for September, so too does work on Rolling Meadows High School just north of it. Dist. 15 School Board President Walter Sundling remarked to the school board at a recent meeting that "Willow Bend looks like a dinghy on a battleship next to the high school."

A COMPLAINT about the taxi service in Rolling Meadows was received by two city aldermen. The aldermen relayed the complaint to city council that a woman could get no late night taxi service unless a reserved call was placed in advance with the cab company.

Mayor Roland Meyer after hearing all this told the two aldermen: "She must have been an older woman or both of you would have picked her up."

Aid Program Given

An artificial resuscitation program was presented by Gene Tousey, city civil defense chief of rescue, at the meeting of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense Tuesday.

The demonstration is part of the city's civil defense medical study program. The local unit attends medical study programs each Monday in conjunction with the Mt. Prospect civil defense group, according to Deputy Civil Defense Director Carmen Vinezano.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U.S. Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday, however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon. No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

License Issue Suit Filed

Rolling Meadows is involved in another court suit.

The Rolling Meadows ordinance that requires coin operated washing and drying machines in apartment complexes to be licensed as laundries has been challenged in a court suit brought against the city by Chicago Coin Meter Corp.

The latest court case centers around a $50 city charge to the coin company to license their machines located in the basements of the Algonquin Park apartment buildings.

Although the ordinance has been in effect for some time, city officials recently began to enforce it. City Mgr. James Watson said. The ordinance requires the company to license their machines as a business, just as any other laundry in the city, Watson said.

According to City Atty. Donald Rose, the city alleges that the coin machines comprise a business operated for a profit. Chicago Coin Meter attorneys said they are questioning the authority of any municipality to license washing and drying machines in apartment complexes.

The case has been continued until a later date, Rose said, when the owners and managers of the apartment complex have been asked to be present. Rose said the case may be unique and cause further suits.

Rose commented Chicago does not license laundries in apartment complexes.

Officials of the coin meter firm said Rolling Meadows is the only municipality that the firm operates in requiring such a license for laundry machines in apartment complexes. Chicago Coin Meter Co. has numerous machines located in apartments in the area, but an official did not

Demolition Notice Is Given

A second notice to demolish the remaining section of the Meadow Trace apartment building gutted by fire almost a month ago has been sent to Kassuba Development Corp., according to Rolling Meadows Building and Zoning officer, Sverre Haug.

Haug said he sent the latest notice to remove the structure Monday. The notice said that the building was a health and safety hazard.

Almost one half of the structure is still standing and a fence has been placed disclose the municipalities.

Chicago Coin Meter has paid the $50 licensing fee under protest, pending the outcome of the suit, Rose said.

A hearing on the $50,000 suit recently brought against the city by Raymond and Jacqueline Schmitz is scheduled for Feb. 26. The suit against the city involves activity at the Plum Grove Countryside playground near the Schmitz home at 4345 Hoover Ave.

around the remains of the building. The fire destroyed over half of the building Jan. 23, and the section gutted by fire was leveled shortly after the fire.

According to Mayor Roland Meyer, the building will be removed by the city and the cost will be charged to Kassuba Co., if work is not completed within a reasonable period of time.

Kassuba and Trans Am Development Corp. officials contacted this week said they did not know when the building would be demolished.

Registrations For Preschool Now Being Taken

Registration for the session of preschool classes beginning March 22 in the Rolling Meadows Park District are being taken in the park district office.

Classes will be divided as follows:
Class One — 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday for 3 and 4-year-olds.

Class Two — 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday for 3 and 4 year olds.

Class Three — 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday for 4 year olds to school age.

Class Four — 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday for 4 year olds to school age.

Class Five — 1 to 3 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday for 4 year olds to school age.

Class Six — 1 to 3 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday for 3 and 4 year olds.

The fee for classes one, three and five is $18 and for classes two, four and six it is $12.50.

Registration can be done by phone but fees must be in the park district office by the Monday preceding the first day of the session. The park office is located at 1 Park Meadow Place.

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, firebombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

LI. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $900 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950 mile downstate freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported wholesale prices rose .7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 1.7 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gunnar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

The Northeast was the first part of the country to lose the relief of the February balmy spell. A pocket of Arctic air spread over the region, producing some subzero readings. The rest of the country had mild weather, including thunder-showers in the Great Lakes region.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	66	47
Houston	77	62
Los Angeles	57	50
Miami Beach	74	67
Minneapolis	38	27
New York	39	27
Phoenix	80	58
Seattle	51	42

The Market

The gradual afternoon recovery averted a big drop on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow-Jones Industrial average, down six points by mid-morning, finished down 2.19. Volume was 18,720,000 shares. Prices also declined on the American board, in heavy turnover.

New Title For Experienced Hand

by MARGE FERROLI

Since the business of schools is to teach, it follows that the key position in the functioning of School Dist. 15 is the head of the department of instruction.

Titles were recently switched around in Dist. 15 in an administrative structural change and Marion Omiatek, formerly called director of curriculum, is now assistant superintendent of instruction. Under his charge is the operation of all the programs and learning materials that affect the typical student in the classroom.

Omiatek first took over the post of director of curriculum in 1961, one year after coming to Dist. 15 as principal of the newly opened Central Road School. The curriculum department at that time was composed of Omiatek and three other people who directly handled the operation of instructional programs.

"I ALMOST HAD to be an 'expert' in each field of instruction in those days," Omiatek said. Now, his department has expanded to include 23 people, each responsible for a particular instructional area that is involved in Dist. 15 curriculum.

Most of his working hours are spent in meetings with the department chairmen and supervisors that maintain the direct contact with the instruction in the schools. In his role as administrator of the department of instruction, Omiatek says his biggest responsibility is "to establish communication between the school principals, the supervisors and the district administration."

"I've always tried to keep those people affected by a decision in this involved in the decision making," he said. This involvement means participation of teachers, principals and parents.

"I'll discount no idea that a person has. Any idea is worth listening to. If the idea is well planned and valid, it can be implemented in our schools in time," Omiatek said.

Curriculum development has traditionally been the primary concern of Omiatek and his office, although with the expansion of the school district, much of the research work for curriculum changes has been taken over by department heads and teachers.

"WE'VE ALWAYS strongly believed in the involvement of the teaching staff in our curriculum development," Omiatek said. "Who should know better than the teachers what the needs of the students are?"

Having recently returned from a one-year sabbatical leave for continued study, Omiatek is now faced with long hours of catching up on the district activities during his absence.

His sabbatical, in which he completed all his course work for a doctorate in education, gave Omiatek the opportunity to study current educational changes and become aware of the many new trends in the field.

Although he feels this awareness has improved his general outlook on the field of education, his sabbatical left him with a strong concern for accountability in the schools.

"Precision is probably a more accurate word than accountability," Omiatek said. "We've got to become more precise in our teaching objectives and the function of our teaching materials."

OMIATEK COMPARED his role in increasing accountability to that of an architect building a school. "Curriculum is a blueprint, it's precise with the objectives spelled out. It can be implemented by hiring the right people for construction and using the proper materials."

When Omiatek leaves the district office and his work with instruction, he is faced with perhaps just as much need for accountability when he gets home to his family of nine children. With ages ranging from one month to 18 years, his children require organization of his home and family life, something which he says his wife has become greatly skilled at.

With an expanding school district and an expanding family, Omiatek finds his time well taken up. However, he has been able to find enough time to coordinate the smooth operation of both.

shut off a gas line to the building. A telephone company workman, George Jeschke, 24, of Wauconda was running a trench digger when it broke through the gas line, bursting into flame. Jeschke was treated at Northwest Community Hospital for face and neck burns.

Municipal Void On Tollway Plan

Officials from five villages surrounding Hoffman Estates have, as of yesterday, failed to respond to notification of a meeting to be held March 1, aimed to gain access to the Northwest Tollway at Roselle Road.

The meeting, to be held at Harper Junior College, is to include Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Roselle, Inverness and Palatine. None of the villages have responded saying they'll be represented.

Purpose of the meeting is to implement a survey in the area to determine the need for a Roselle Road access to the tollway.

RESULTS OF THE survey, planned by Harper's planning and development department, would be used as evidence in an Illinois Tollway Commission (ITC) hearing to determine if ramps at Roselle Road will pay for themselves.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plan commission chairman, is organizing the meeting.

He said a follow up letter will be sent out by Feb. 22 asking the villages to express their interest in the project one way or the other.

If the villages fail to show interest toward helping to implement the survey, Regan said he'll organize a local task force in Hoffman Estates to gather the information needed.

Regan has long urged the need for Tollway access at Roselle Road saying that if Roselle Road ramps are not provided there will soon be mass traffic freezes at the Rte 53 and Barrington Road Tollway ramps.

Ramps at Roselle Road will also help alleviate traffic snarls along Golf, Higgins and Algonquin Road caused by cars heading for the Barrington Road and Rte. 53 ramps.

BUT, THE ITC maintains that it cannot install new ramps unless it is shown that the installation will not hinder payments to tollway bond holders.

Evidence must be provided to the ITC commissioners showing that enough new tollway traffic will be attracted to pay for the Roselle Road ramps.

In a joint meeting Dec. 3, Regan met with officials from Schaumburg and Harper Junior college to begin an evidence collecting committee.

Following the meeting, John Lucas, Harper's director of planning and development, began studying exactly what information is needed for the ITC. Inquiries were also made of officials in Elk Grove and Arlington Heights to find out how they went about gaining the Arlington Heights Road Interchange opened last month.

From The Library

by VIRGINIA CONNELL

One has the urge to clean house, but what's the use? The furnace is working overtime to keep the house comfortable. The backyard looks like a skating rink. No use in planning next summer's flower garden. So — let's talk about new books at the library on handiwork.

A new, exciting title, and, if I am correct it is the first book published about knotting, is 'Macrame' by Virginia Harvey. Macrame is a French word meaning knotted lace. It is an ancient way of tying knots in string to create lacy-patterned decorative and useful articles. The book discusses tools and shows step by step how to tie the basic knots and combine them. There are just two basic knots to learn. Designs for hangings, tote bags, lamp shades are just a few designs with full instructions.

TO FILL REPEATED requests for instructions and patterns for crocheting, two new titles have recently been purchased by the library. 'Fashion Crocheting' by Caroline Horne states crocheting is fun, fascinating and very in-fashion these days. It can be a soft fragile openwork weave or a firm close one. Either way it holds its shape. The book has instructions for crocheting car coats, dresses for children or adults, and full length coats, capes, sweaters and slippers. It even gives color schemes.

Jean Kinmond's 'Crochet Patterns' states crocheting is back in fashion. Fashion designers in Rome, Paris, London and New York have realized that the crochet stitch, both simple and elaborate, can most effectively be used to dress the fabric of elegant blouses, dresses and suits. Interior decorators, too, appreciate how lace patterns can be adapted to give a distinctive touch to the home by the use of mats and many other articles. This book has instructions for handbags, gloves, blouses, baby's shawls, bath-mats and collar and cuff sets.

If you like to knit rather than crochet, you'll have fun trying the many and varied stitches in 'A Second Treasury of Knitting' by Barbara Walker. There are over 700 new patterns and stitches in this book such as four-color progressive tweed, three-color daisy stitch, dip and slip stitch, blister stitch and fire flower stitch. The ones that interested me were the dragon skin and the hornets nest.

A NEW BOOK, 'Cross Stitch Patterns' edited by Thelma M. Nye, has details for patterns. One thing to watch is that you work with a fabric on which the threads can be counted. You begin by working all under stitches on horizontal lines from left to right and all the over stitches the reverse way. Included are patterns from Iceland, Ancient China, Denmark and Peru. From the list of new books on needlework and crafts, if you are not doing some form of creative work this year, you're not one of the in-group.

A new title on needlepoint, 'Needlepoint by Design' by Maggie Lane, has a variation of Chinese themes. Mrs. Lane was born in China of missionary parents and came to the United States shortly before Pearl Harbor. Her love of things Chinese is expressed in her needlepoint designs. She has done custom designing of needlepoint for a select clientele for years. She is the wife of Judge Myles I. Lane of New York State Supreme Court. Not only does she give detailed designs, but also gives color charts as well. A parson's table and a dragon rug are two outstanding examples of what one could accomplish with this book as a guide.

'Howie-In-Hills' Trial Postponed

The trial of the Teamsters Union Pension fund against the Village of Hoffman Estates was postponed yesterday until May 3.

The case, being heard before Judge Helen McGullicuddy, in the Cook County Circuit Court, charges fraud involving the village in the confirmation of Hoffman Estates special assessments numbers 4, 5, and 7.

Under the special assessment, street and sewer work was scheduled for the defunct Howie-in-the-Hills subdivision. Pension fund officials want the special assessment vacated.

The pension fund claims to hold a $1.7 million mortgage on the subdivision which they hope to recoup.

The trial was postponed yesterday because Joseph Teitelbaum, a key witness in the village's defense, will not be available for immediate testimony due to ill health.

MAY 3 WAS THE earliest date the army of attorneys involved in the proceedings could agree to meet again.

Teitelbaum, a former executive with the pension fund, will be called as a hostile witness by Atty. Edward Hofert, who is defending the village.

A motion made on behalf of the special assessments' bond holders asking that the pension fund suit be dismissed was denied yesterday by Judge McGullicuddy.

Attorneys presenting the bond holders said the bonds in special assessment should be held valid. They claim a special assessment confirmation in court is final, and that any taint of fraud arising later should be handled as a separate matter. Confirmation of special assessment numbers 4, 5 and 7 were given in court in December of 1967.

ALSO DENIED was a petition that federal receivers for the City Savings and Loan be allowed to enter the suit filed by the Teamsters Pension Fund. The receivers were granted title to the property last August because City Savings depositors' money was used in the Howie-in-the-Hills subdivision before the savings institution became defunct.

The petition was denied on grounds that the receivers requested entry into the trial without being subject to the court's full jurisdiction.

Hofert said he's have welcomed the receivers into the case if they had taken the stand that the special assessment should be upheld.

He wanted the receivers to enter the case in order to increase the chance for a settlement agreeable to all parties concerned with Howie-in-the-Hills.

Had the receivers entered the proceedings, it would represent the first time all parties concerned would have come together.

It is expected that the receiver's attorneys will restate their position for entering the trial on May 3.

Census Bureau Releases Final 1970 Figures For Area

The U S Census Bureau has compiled its final 1970 population report for Illinois, with final figures higher in most cases than the preliminary figures released last year.

The final figures, compared with 1970 preliminary figures and the 1960 census figures, plus the approximate percent of increase from 1960 to 1970 for each of the 11 towns in Paddock Publications' coverage area, are as follows:

Town	1970 (final)	1970 (preliminary)	1960	Percent change '60-'70
Arlington	64,884	62,578	27,878	+125
Mt Prospect	34,905	35,285	18,906	+86

Des Plaines	37,239	39,288	34,886	+69
Palatine	25,904	26,104	11,504	+126
Wheeling	14,746	14,799	7,169	+106
Elk Grove	24,516	21,541	6,608	+226
Buffalo Grove	11,799	11,549	1,492	+674
Hoff Estates	22,238	21,935	8,296	+185
Schaumburg	18,730	18,312	985	+1,757
Hanover Pk	11,816	10,985	451	+1,335
Rolling Meadows	19,178	18,907	10,879	+74

THE NEW CENSUS figures are important to local governments for several reasons.

Under the new Illinois Constitution, which takes effect on July 1, municipalities with a population of 25,000 or above are considered "home rule units" and are entitled to exercise broad powers which the old Constitution prohibited. Also, redistricting of congressional and state legislative districts must be based on the new census figures.

Because of the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling, no district within a state may be more than one per cent larger or smaller than another district.

That ruling is going to provide a major headache to legislators who must draw up new district lines by June 30. Previously, political boundaries, such as county lines or township lines, were a major factor in drawing up districts. The 13th Congressional District, for example, contains eight North and Northwest Cook County townships in a neat, almost perfectly rectangular package.

The 10th Congressional District is made up of West and Northwest Cook County townships.

THE NEW DISTRICT lines are not likely to be anywhere near as neat because of the one per cent ruling and it is likely that congressional and state legislative district lines may divide townships and villages.

The average size of Illinois' 24 Congressional Districts will be somewhere in the area of 470,000 residents. Both the 13th District, which is the second largest in Illinois with more than 620,000 residents, and the 10th which has more than 50,000, will be reduced substantially.

The net effect of the population increases in the suburbs will be more representation in both Springfield and Washington, but a much more difficult time for legislators to determine how that representation will be distributed.

Firehouse Work Readied; Sign With Architect

Trustees of the Prospect Heights Fire District have taken the first official step toward the construction of an addition to the present station at Elmhurst and Camp McDonald roads.

At a meeting Tuesday, the trustees voted to sign a contract with James M. Ray, an Arlington Heights architect, and to order preliminary plans for the addition.

To finance the proposed addition, the trustees plan to hold a three-part bond issue referendum. The date of the proposed referendum and the amount of the bond issue have not yet been determined.

The architect's plans will be reviewed at the next meeting of the trustees March 16. At that time an estimate of the cost of the proposed facility should be announced.

In addition to construction costs, the bond issue will be used to pay for purchase of land adjacent to the present station.

TRUSTEE HENRY VALLEY proposed they also use a portion of the bond sale to purchase new equipment. One of the department's three pumper trucks is 20 years old. Chief Donald Gould said, "The truck is outdated and can only pump 350 gallons per minute. We would like to replace it with a new truck that can pump 1,000 or more gallons per minute."

Rough drawings of the proposed three-door, one-floor addition include space for at least six vehicles. Ray proposed remodeling the present 2,175 square-foot building for offices. These offices may include, a meeting room, a conference room, an officers' room, a chief's office, a kitchen, a sleeping room and maintenance and utility rooms.

Originally, Ray proposed construction of a separate, two-story station. However, in December, the trustees decided an addition to the present station would be cheaper.

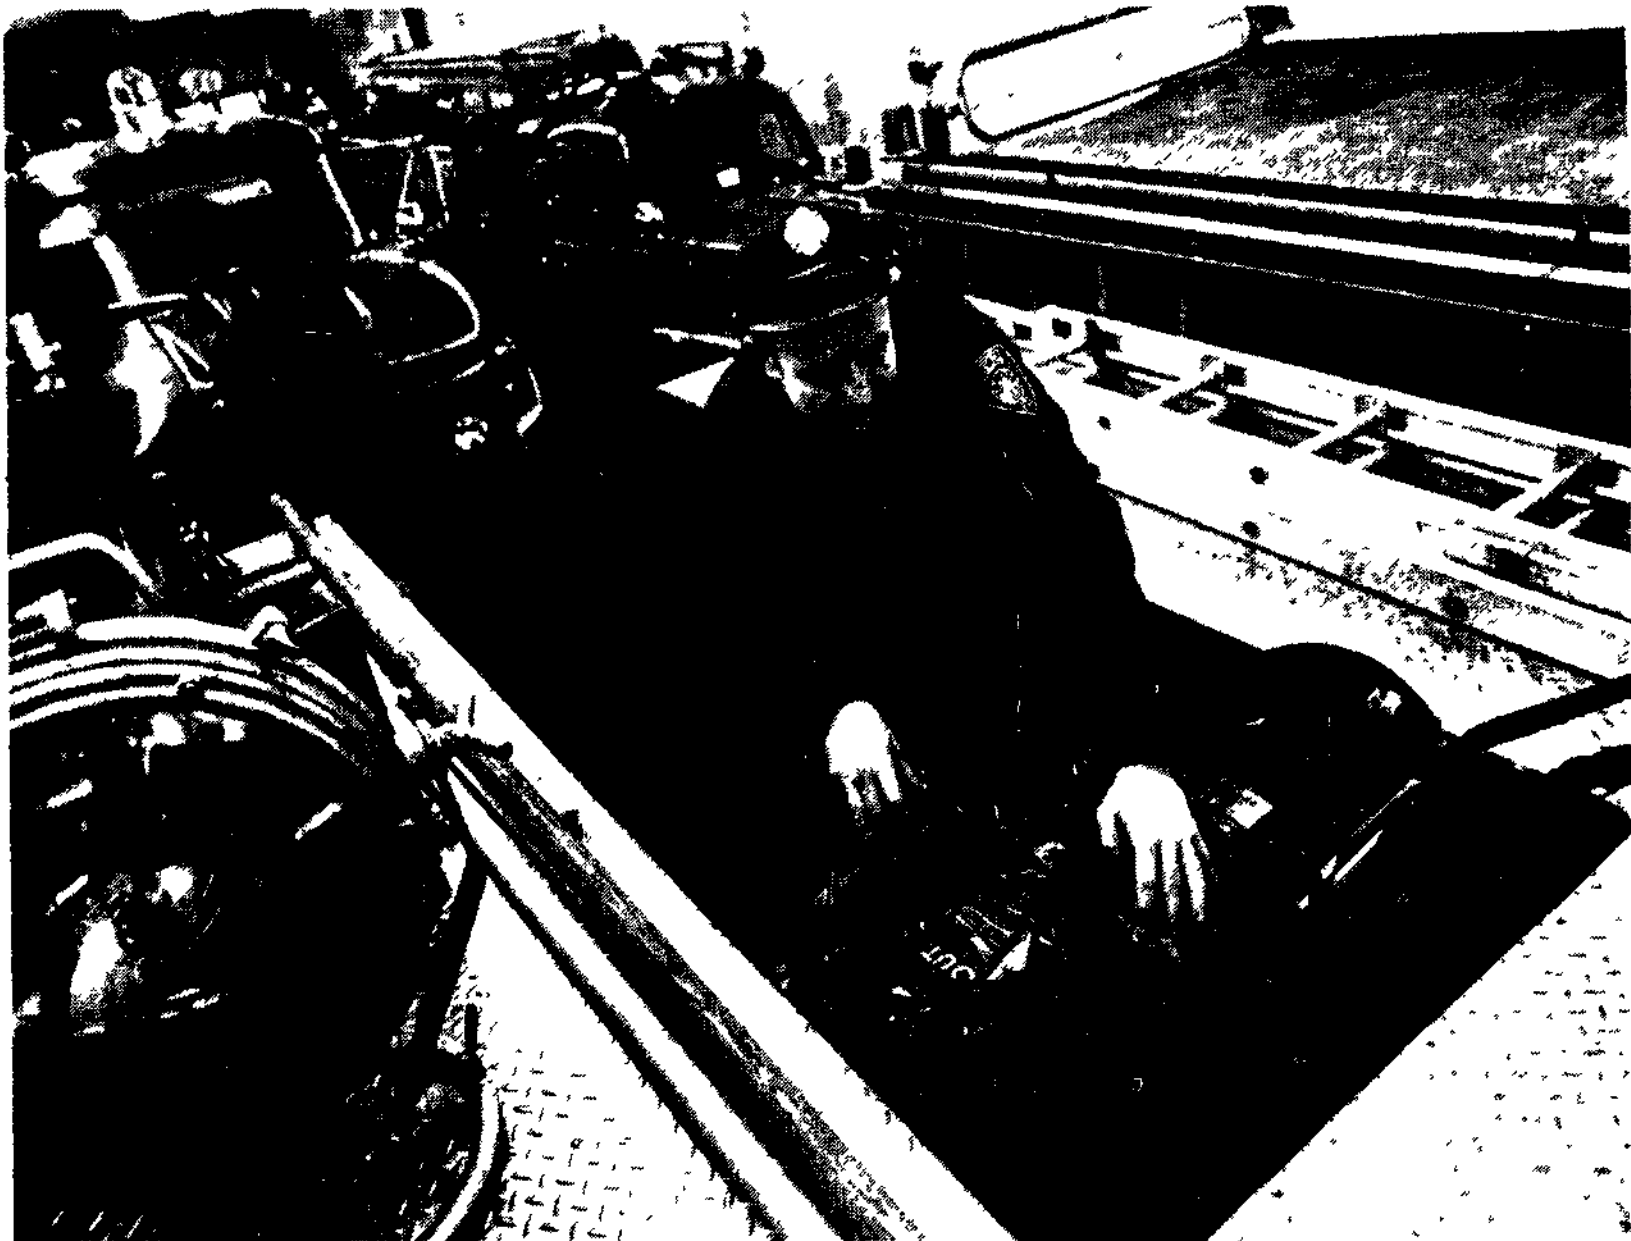

To build an addition to the present station, the trustees will have to relocate an alley that runs along the east side of the building. The trustees indicated that negotiations will begin shortly to move the alley and to acquire land for the addition. They said no land purchase will be completed until the referendum is approved.

SEVERAL TRUSTEES were concerned about the practicality of holding a referendum at this time. Valley said, "With all of the referendum now being held, I don't think we have a good chance. But I don't think the firemen will be happy till we put the proposal to a vote."

Trustee Norman Johnson also pointed out the move toward incorporation in the area may also have an effect on the future needs of the department. "It might be best for us to wait and see what is going to happen," he said. "We won't get anything done if we try to second guess the community and wait," objected Gould.

The trustees are also concerned about the possibility that neighboring fire districts may be planning to build new stations near the present Prospect Heights station.

However, according to Wheeling Trustee Michael Valenza, Wheeling is "looking for sites for a new station, but I don't believe they are close to Elmhurst and Camp McDonald roads." Earlier it was reported by a village official that two of the sites considered by the village are at Schoenbeck and Hintz roads and Palatine and Wolf roads.

SPACE IS SCARCE in the Prospect Heights Fire Department station at Elmhurst and Camp McDonald roads, according to the firemen. The station can house no more than three pumper trucks and two squad trucks. The firemen hope district voters will authorize a bond sale to finance construction of an addition to the present building. Bob Blaine, president of the firemen's association, is shown working on one of the pumper trucks.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U S Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday, however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon. No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

Apartment Rezoning Request Denied

More than 100 Prospect Heights residents cheered their victory after Wheeling's zoning board refused to allow apartments on property south of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church.

But the battle is not yet over since final decision on the rezoning request is up to the Wheeling Village Board.

Recently the village board approved another apartment development near the church after the zoning board had voted against the rezoning.

The hearing was held Tuesday night under the watchful eye of a policeman who was assigned to prevent possible disturbances.

By a 6 to 1 vote zoning board members denied a petition to rezone the 40-acre site from single family home zoning to apartment zoning. The property automatically assumed single family home zoning when it was annexed to the village Feb. 3.

BOARD CHAIRMAN Douglas Cargill was the only member in favor of rezoning. Cargill said he had faith in village ordinances and procedures and was sure the village could control development of the property as an apartment complex.

Other board members said they opposed rezoning because of the proposed incorporation of Prospect Heights as a city, potential flooding problems, increased traffic near St. Alphonsus

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, firebombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

LI. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $800 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950-mile downstate freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported that wholesale prices rose .7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 1.7 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gunnar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

The Northeast was the first part of the country to lose the relief of the February balmy spell. A pocket of Arctic air spread over the region, producing some subzero readings. The rest of the country had milder weather, including thunderstorms in the Great Lakes region.

Temperatures from around the nation

Los Angeles	57	50
Miami Beach	74	67
Minneapolis	38	27
New York	39	27
Phoenix	80	58

The Market

The gradual afternoon recovery averted a big drop on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow-Jones Industrial average, down six points by mid-morning, finished down 2 1/2. Volume was 18,720,000 shares. Prices also declined on the American board, in heavy turnover.

Program Cutbacks Expected

The defeat Saturday of a proposed hike in the School Dist. 28 education fund tax rate will mean cutbacks in the district's education program, according to Supt. Winston L. Harwood.

Harwood said the cuts are inevitable because of the district's worsening financial condition.

In Saturday's referendum voters turned down a proposal to raise the education fund tax rate from $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.60. (The education fund is the largest of several funds for which the school district levies taxes.)

Also defeated Saturday was a $25,000 bond issue. Funds from the issue would have been used to build an addition to the River Trails Junior High School.

The tax hike was defeated by four votes, the bond issue by 10 votes.

WHICH PROGRAMS ARE to be affected will be determined by the school board, Harwood said. He plans to present a report to the board at its next regular meeting listing programs in which cuts might be made.

At Tuesday's school board meeting Harwood named several programs that might be vulnerable to the cutback. These are the sixth grade instrumental classes; various school district consultants; summer school; certain extra-duty jobs for teachers such as intramural athletic programs; psychological counseling; and the typing, speech, home economics and industrial arts programs at the junior high school level.

Harwood said the financial plight of the district is serious enough that the cuts should be made, even if the board decides to hold a second referendum on the two proposals. He estimates the budget deficit at the end of this school year will be about $350,000, slightly more than twice the size of last year's deficit.

WHETHER THERE WILL in fact be a second referendum is another matter on which the school board is facing a decision. Two board members, Hubert Stubbs and Ray Johnston, indicated Tuesday they felt the referendum would have been successful had there been more publicity on it. Both favor another referendum.

However, Harwood, in attributing Saturday's defeat to voter apathy, said he wants "the impetus for resubmission" to come from the public. Similar opinions were voiced by board member Lee Hilman and Neil LeFebvre.

A second referendum could be held as soon as two months from now, according to state statutes.

Probe Vandalism Amounting To $1,000

Vandalism totaling $1,000 at Douglas MacArthur Junior High School and the Anne Sullivan School at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Prospect Heights is being investigated by the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

A county detective, said that police suspect the damage was done by juveniles. He said the vandalism occurred sometime after 11 p.m. Saturday or Sunday. The school buildings are not guarded at that time.

A total of 22 windows were broken on the south side of the MacArthur and Sullivan schools, costing approximately $750.

According to Supt. Edward Grodsky the district's insurance does not cover glass damage. "We had to take money out of the building fund, already slated for other repairs and purchases, to pay for new glass."

In addition at MacArthur School the veneer on several doors was damaged, and locks were broken. In the science classroom, the vandals killed a snake. In the library a typewriter was dropped on the floor.

Several pieces of equipment were stolen from the audio visual room at MacArthur, along with students' art projects displayed in the lobby.

The damage was discovered by MacArthur Principal Gerald McGovern at 6 a.m. Monday. He notified the county police and Grodsky.

"I came to the schools immediately to survey the damage," said Grodsky. "I don't think it involved professional thieves. The damage was malicious and purely destructive. Very little was actually taken out of the building."

Earlier, in discussing new requirements set by the Insurance Company of North America, Grodsky said the district cannot afford a guard service and does not have a local police station to which to hook up an alarm system. Because the district cannot implement these safety measures, the school board may not be able to renew the district insurance policy in October.

Apartment Zone Plea Denied

School, and the lack of detailed plans by the developer.

Many of the points had been raised earlier in the meeting by representatives of various Prospect Heights groups.

Roman Beltran, who said he represented the parishioners of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church, presented a petition opposing the rezoning signed by nearly 800 parishioners.

AN ATTORNEY FOR property owner Arthur Lieblich introduced evidence that Lieblich had paid for part of a village sewer and water system to serve his property.

Under questioning by William J. Moore, an attorney who lives in Prospect Heights, the developer's engineer said he did not know if the proposed development would affect drainage of the Hillcrest Slough east of the property.

He said however, that runoff from the property would be equal to or less than the runoff from the property in its undeveloped state. A retention basin lake with controlled outlets would assure that, he said.

IF THE PROPERTY were zoned for apartments approximately 500 units could be built. The developer proposed two story buildings to border the property near residential homes on the west and south.

The developers could not estimate the number of children in the development because they said the number of two and three bedroom units had not been finalized.

Residents cited the proximity of Pal-Waukee Airport, overloading of McDonald Creek, and early morning traffic patterns as reasons to deny the rezoning.

One Prospect Heights resident, Mrs. William H. Spears, 304 E. Marion Ave., wrote to the zoning board saying that she was not opposed to apartment buildings on the site.

PETER DEVRIES OF 302 N. Wheeling Rd. charged that the developer had allowed fill to be dumped on his land without a Cook County permit earlier this year. DeVries said as a result mud covered the road, causing school buses and cars to slide into ditches.

Prospect Heights residents referred to the Swan Lake development north of the church which the village board approved recently despite zoning board recommendation that the property not be rezoned.

In response to residents' questions of how the development would benefit the village, Cargill talked of the village's need to control property development in the area and the lack of cooperation of Cook County.

Residents charged that rezoning the land would be spot zoning in a single family home area, while the developer said it would be a good buffer to Wheeling's industrial park.

MOORE CHARGED the developer gave the village no logical reasons for rezoning the property. He said that apartments or townhouses "would be a hostile development to the area."

He said he doubted the property owner would disannex if not granted the zoning because of problems in getting sewer and water service.

One Prospect Heights resident, Lloyd Demei of 13 Leon Ln. East, said that he expected the issue of incorporation to be submitted to Prospect Heights voters in a referendum before March 1.

Others said the Lieblich site had been included in the original land to be incorporated in the city of Prospect Heights, but had been removed when the village annexed it last week.

Plan commissioners noted that the property might be better developed as a planned development instead of with simple multiple family zoning.

Municipal Conference Staffing Plan Talks Fizzle

A busy agenda and poor member turnout last night forced postponement of discussion on a proposal to staff the Northwest Municipal Conference.

Mount Prospect Village Pres Robert Teichert, newly elected NWMC president, delayed opening discussion until the next meeting March 17. His plan is to hire an executive director and secretary. But Teichert strongly urged conference members to give serious consideration to his proposal.

Teichert decided to postpone discussion until roll call disclosed only seven of the 15 member communities are represented at the meeting.

The delay came in the wake of extended presentations on the conference's mass transportation study and cable antenna television.

"We can't stand a constant process of per-capita charge for every study we want on area impact," Teichert remarked, referring to the transportation study.

Teichert suggested that this fact demonstrated the need for a professional conference staff.

TEICHERT PLEDGED that in the meantime he would sound out reactions to his proposal from members of the Mount Prospect Village Board. He also said he would be in contact with various village officials who are members of the Municipal Conference to gain some idea of their feelings toward the plan before the next meeting.

Earlier in the meeting, conference members heard a report from Edwin Thomas, of the Center for Urban Studies at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle Campus, on the conference's mass transportation study.

Thomas said the first two phases of the study were complete and that he and his staff were embarking on the next three phases, which entail determining residents' feeling toward mass transportation. The upcoming portion of the study also would attempt to determine how transportation affects employment opportunities in the Northwest suburbs.

In describing study efforts, Thomas explained, "what we are trying to do is to put together a set of problems that are just right to be coped with by a regional conference area."

HE CAUTIONED conference members that residents of the Northwest suburban area might not be receptive to programs in support of public transportation. This possibility underscores the need for extensive public education, he said.

"This is just the kind of area where run-of-the-mill public transportation — fixed-route buses — has not been popular," Thomas said.

Conference members also heard a presentation from Dr. George Vogel of Harper College on the potential impact of cable antenna television on area communities.

Dist. 57 Teacher Pack Demands To Be Revealed

Contract demands of Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 teachers for the 1971-72 school year will be revealed tonight at a teacher's open forum.

The forum will start at 8:15 p.m. in the gymnasium at Abraham Lincoln Jr. High School, 700 W. Lincoln St.

"Some of the demands will be in dollars and cents relating to the community. We won't be asking the board for any increase in starting salaries for beginning teachers," said David Metzler, chairman of the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA) negotiations team. "Others will be in general terms and why we feel they are valid."

The teacher's forum will be similar to the Dist. 57 board of education's "Report to the Community" last month, according to Metzler. After Metzler and Bob Fasick, MPEA president, make short presentations, a panel of teachers from each of the district's seven schools will answer written questions from the audience.

"I expect at least 150 teachers to come," said Metzler. He said flyers have been distributed to the community and 500 chairs have been set up in the gym. Last week Harrison Hanson, president of the Dist. 57 school board, said board members would be present as "concerned individuals." Supt. Eric Sahlgren will also attend, according to Metzler.

"We want to make a statement on where we hope to go in education in this district and are we doing the job we feel the community needs," said Metzler. "We will explain the type of fringe benefits we have and those we would like to have, and we will discuss the educational needs and improvements to keep this district looking ahead in education."

"The teachers have been told to not keep the children late at school," added Dossett.

'Stranger' Attempts Child Pick-Ups

Parents of children attending Indian Grove School in Prospect Heights will be notified shortly by Principal David Dossett, that a stranger has attempted to pick up a student near the school.

According to Mrs. William Haase, "a taxicab driver tried to pick up my 10-year-old daughter, Linda, on her way home from school earlier this week."

"I called Dossett and he advised me to notify the Cook County Sheriff's Police," said Mrs. Haase. "The police said they would patrol the area."

Dossett said he will notify the parents and "inform them that we have told the children to not accept rides or get into a conversation with a stranger. The first thing the children should do is get away from the stranger and seek help at the nearest house."

THE NEW CENSUS figures are important to local governments for several reasons.

Under the new Illinois Constitution, which takes effect on July 1, municipalities with a population of 25,000 or above are considered "home rule units" and are entitled to exercise broad powers which the old Constitution prohibited. Also, redistricting of congressional and state legislative districts must be based on the new census figures.

Because of the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling, no district within a state may be more than one per cent larger or smaller than another district.

That ruling is going to provide a major headache to legislators who must draw up new district lines by June 30.

Previously, political boundaries, such as county lines or township lines, were a major factor in drawing up districts. The 13th Congressional District, for example, contains eight North and Northwest Cook County townships in a neat, almost perfectly rectangular package.

The 10th Congressional District is made up of West and Northwest Cook County townships.

THE NEW DISTRICT lines are not likely to be anywhere near as neat because of the one per cent ruling and it is likely that congressional and state legislative district lines may divide townships and villages.

The average size of Illinois' 24 Congressional Districts will be somewhere in the area of 470,000 residents. Both the 13th District, which is the second largest in Illinois with more than 620,000 residents, and the 10th which has more than 50,000, will be reduced substantially.

The net effect of the population increases in the suburbs will be more representation in both Springfield and Washington, but a much more difficult time for legislators to determine how that representation will be distributed.

Cuts In Program Are Inevitable: District 26 Supt.

The defeat Saturday of a proposed hike in the School Dist. 26 education fund tax rate will mean cutbacks in the district's education program, according to Supt. Winston L. Harwood.

Harwood said the cuts are inevitable because of the district's worsening financial condition.

In Saturday's referendum voters turned down a proposal to raise the education fund tax rate from $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.60. (The education fund is the largest of several funds for which the school district levies taxes.)

Also defeated Saturday was a $325,000 bond issue. Funds from the issue would have been used to build an addition to the River Trails Junior High School.

The tax hike was defeated by four votes, the bond issue by 10 votes.

WHICH PROGRAMS ARE to be affected will be determined by the school board, Harwood said. He plans to present a report to the board at its next regular meeting listing programs in which cuts might be made.

At Tuesday's school board meeting

Harwood named several programs that might be vulnerable to the cutback. These are the sixth grade instrumental classes; various school district consultants; summer school; certain extra-duty jobs for teachers such as intramural athletic programs; psychological counseling; and the typing, speech, home economics and industrial arts programs at the junior high school level.

Harwood said the financial plight of the district is serious enough that the cuts should be made, even if the board decides to hold a second referendum on the two proposals. He estimates the budget deficit at the end of this school year will be about $350,000, slightly more than twice the size of last year's deficit.

WHETHER THERE WILL be a second referendum is another matter on which the school board is facing a decision. Two board members, Hubert Stubbs and Ray Johnston, indicated Tuesday they felt the referendum would have been successful had there been more publicity on it. Both favor another referendum.

However, Harwood, in attributing Saturday's defeat to voter apathy, said he wants "the impetus for resubmission" to come from the public. Similar opinions were voiced by board member Lee Hilfman and Neil LeFebvre.

A second referendum could be held as soon as two months from now, according to state statutes.

"GRMXI" INITIALS used in the rating of motion pictures, will be the title of a show to be performed by the Orchestis dance group at Forest

View High School. Joy Welker, a member of the group, goes through her routine during a rehearsal for the show, which will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings at the school.

Orchestis Show Will Be Presented Friday, Saturday

The 1971 Orchestis Show, this year titled "GRMXI", will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Forest View High School Theater, 2121 Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights.

Tickets for the two performances of the high school dance group can be purchased for $1 per person.

According to the Orchestis sponsor,

Louise Phillip, the female dancers will perform dances under the movie classifications General, Restricted, Mature or X-rated, which correspond to the title of the show, "GRMXI".

The head choreographer for the show is Diane DeBerry, a senior at the high school. Sue Luebeck, a junior, also assisted with the dance routines.

Technical aspects of the show have been planned by students Nancy Guaglianone, a senior, and Lynne Cotton, also a senior. Miss Guaglianone worked with stage settings and Miss Cotton on lighting.

Faculty member Charles Wilde assisted in the arrangement of black, strobe and fluorescent lighting.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U.S. Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday, however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon. No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

Chief Marks 22nd Year

Chief Newell Esmond celebrated his 22nd anniversary with the Mount Prospect Police Department yesterday.

Esmond, who joined the department in 1949, and the late George Whittenberg, then chief of police, constituted the department. Today, Esmond commands a 31-man department.

He was appointed chief of police Nov. 4, 1965, following Whittenberg's retirement.

Main-Evergreen 'Bottleneck' Eyed

Traffic eastbound on Evergreen Avenue will have to turn south on Elmhurst Road, if the state highway department approves the recommendation of the Mount Prospect Village Board for improving the intersection of Northwest Highway, Main, Prospect and Evergreen avenues.

The board voted Tuesday to eliminate the stop light on Evergreen Avenue at the intersection south of the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks and install a stop sign, allowing traffic eastbound on Evergreen Avenue to turn right only.

The change is expected to alleviate "a bottleneck at the intersections of Main, Prospect and Evergreen avenues." Traffic is currently allowed to turn right or left on Main Street or continue eastbound on Prospect Avenue.

THE BOARD ALSO approved an alternate course in case the first recommendation is rejected by the Illinois Division of Highways. Under the second proposal, traffic eastbound on Evergreen Avenue will not be allowed to turn right or left on Main Street or enter Prospect Avenue. Instead, a turn-around bay will be installed to allow traffic eastbound on Evergreen to make a U-turn and then travel westbound on Evergreen. The board approved both recommendations by a vote of 5 to 1. Trustee Lloyd Norris voted against the proposed changes.

The village is currently asking the state highway department to redesign three key intersections on Main Street from Evergreen Avenue north to Central (Continued on page 3)

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, firebombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

Lt. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $900 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950 mile state freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported wholesale prices rose .7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 1.7 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gumar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

The Northeast was the first part of the country to lose the relief of the February balmy spell. A pocket of Arctic air spread over the region, producing some subzero readings. The rest of the country had mild weather, including thunder-showers in the Great Lakes region.

Temperatures from around the nation:

Los Angeles	57	50
Miami Beach	74	67
Minneapolis	38	27
New York	39	27
Phoenix	80	58

The Market

The gradual afternoon recovery averted a big drop on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow-Jones Industrial average, down six points by mid-morning, finished down 2.19. Volume was 18,720,000 shares. Prices also declined on the American board, in heavy turnover.

Seek Tot Lunchroom Fee

A recommendation to charge all kindergarten through sixth grade children in Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 a fee to use the lunchroom was presented to the board of education Monday night.

The recommendation was one of several made by a committee formed to study the lunchroom situation in the district's six elementary schools. Currently children living outside a boundary designated by each school can use lunchroom facilities without charge. Those inside the boundary must go home for lunch.

The committee recommended the children be charged $20 (or 11 cents a day) for a yearly pass or 25 cents a day for the child to use the lunchroom occasionally. If two or more children in the same family wanted a yearly pass, the total cost would be $25. The fee does not include food or milk. Children bused into the district under special education programs would be exempt from the fee.

COPIES OF THE committee's report have been given to the School's principals and PTA executive boards for consideration. To go into effect, the proposals would have to be approved by the board for the 1971-72 school year.

The decision to recommend a charge came after the committee took a survey of families in the district to determine support of such a fee. According to the report, 1,515 parents responded and supported abolishing the boundaries two to one and the fee program three to two.

The committee also recommended to establish a uniform lunch hour for all elementary school children. The committee suggests a lunch break from 11:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. to give all students an second and third graders get an hour and hour and fifteen minutes. Currently first, fifteen minutes while fourth, fifth and sixth graders get an hour.

PAT KIMBALL, the board member who initiated the committee, told the board the recommendations are made "to encourage children to go home for lunch." She said a longer lunch hour and a charge to use the facilities would persuade mothers to feed their children at home.

Several mothers who live outside boundary lines and whose children currently eat in the lunchroom were at the meeting to protest a possible fee. Board member Jack Ronchetto also questioned the fee saying that he thought abolition of boundaries would "encourage parents to take advantage of a baby-sitting service."

The committee also concluded that lay workers should be hired to supervise the lunchroom in schools where it is necessary. Currently teachers volunteer for lunchroom duties, at an increment of 3 per cent of their salary. Mrs. Kimball said a fee would help pay for supervisors at $3 an hour where there were not enough teacher volunteers. The only school in the district which now employs a lunch hour worker is Sunset Park School. The board had budgeted $5,000 toward the employment of paid personnel to perform noon hour service at the schools.

"THE COMMITTEE evolved because both Sunset Park and Gregory schools had difficulties getting teacher supervision," said Mrs. Kimball. "Parents took an interest in the problem and formed the committee. We think many schools are doing a great job but additional paid supervision is needed."

The committee also recommended the board consider establishing a policy of lunchroom suspension for students who are unruly or show disrespect toward those in charge.

Liquor Policy To Be Eyed

The policy of granting liquor licenses in the community will be reviewed by the finance committee of the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Mayor Robert Teichert issued the assignment Tuesday after Trustee Daniel Ahern and Richard Hendricks, an independent candidate for village trustee, questioned the board's policy of granting liquor licenses.

The village board voted two weeks ago to grant a Class B liquor license (which allows customers to order drinks without ordering food) to the Flaming Torch Restaurant, 253 E. Rand Rd. Under its present Class R license, the restaurant can serve alcoholic beverages only with dinner.

Ahern, who voted against the change in licenses, said the village board would be setting a precedent, opening the way for all restaurants with Class R licenses to petition for Class B licenses.

The Evans Restaurant, 113 S. Emerson St., is the only other restaurant with a Class R liquor license. The village board indicated last fall the Zodiac, formerly Scot's Restaurant at 905 E. Rand Rd., would qualify for a Class R license if certain building improvements were made. The Evans restaurant is currently petitioning the board for a Class B liquor license.

Ahern said the board was granting a liquor license on the past performance of "the owner and the establishment, when the basic question is whether or not Mount Prospect wants to keep increasing its number of liquor licenses (Class B)."

THE BOARD upheld its position by saying the change in liquor licenses would allow the owner of the restaurant "to upgrade his restaurant by offering customers the complete service of a supper club and compete with other restaurants in neighboring communities."

Trustee Robert Soderman, chairman of the committee which reviews requests for liquor licenses, denied charges of granting "liquor licenses on the basis that the restaurant is a nice establishment and the proprietor is a nice guy. And furthermore, we didn't increase the number of liquor licenses but merely change the classification."

The board, with the exception of Ahern, indicated it would not favor "granting liquor licenses proportionate with the village's population or with any other arbitrary factor."

"We can't expect businessmen to build restaurants, supper clubs, hotels or motels in this community without granting them liquor licenses," Teichert said.

The finance committee will review the policy of granting liquor licenses next month.

'Bottleneck' Intersection Solution Eyed

Road. The cost of improving the intersections of Northwest Highway, Main, Prospect and Evergreen avenues; Busse Avenue and Main Street; and Main Street and Central Road is estimated at about $180,000.

The plans call for improving the signalization of traffic lights and installing left-turn bays at the intersections. Main Street will also be widened to allow for the installation of left-turn bays at Busse Avenue. Busse Avenue will be changed from a one-way eastbound street to a one-way westbound street.

THESE TRAFFIC changes, with the exception of the change at Main Street and Evergreen Avenue, were recommended by the engineering firm of Crawford, Bunte and Roden. The study, conducted two years ago outlines traffic improvements for the downtown business district in an effort to improve traffic control and safety.

The engineering firm recommended Evergreen Avenue be changed to one-way westbound to eliminate traffic congestion at the intersection south of the railway tracks.

However, disagreements between village officials and businessmen in the area over redesigning Evergreen Ave. prompted village officials to allow two-way traffic on Evergreen. Merchants in the immediate area complained changing the direction of traffic on Evergreen Avenue would be "detrimental to business."

Village board members pointed out that any traffic changes would be "changed again if they don't help these changes is permanent, especially if they create more problems than we had before the changes."

Cub Pack 55 Slates Blue And Gold Dinner

The annual Blue and Gold Dinner of Cub Scout pack 55 will be held tonight at the Camelot Restaurant, 1730 Elmhurst Rd. in Des Plaines. The event starts at 6:30 p.m.

Included in tonight's program will be a performance by Eddy Sann, a professional magician. Also during the dinner, various Cub Scout awards will be made.

Those at the dinner will also celebrate the 41st birthday of Cub Scouting and the 16th birthday of the local cub pack, which is sponsored by the Holy Name Society at St. Raymond Catholic Church in Mount Prospect.

Census Bureau Releases Final 1970 Figures For Area

The U. S. Census Bureau has compiled its final 1970 population report for Illinois, with final figures higher in most cases than the preliminary figures released last year.

The final figures, compared with 1970 preliminary figures and the 1960 census figures, plus the approximate percent of increase from 1960 to 1970 for each of the 11 towns in Paddock Publications' coverage area, are as follows:

8 Towns Don't Show; NWMC Talks Fizzle

A busy agenda and poor member turnout last night forced postponement of discussion on a proposal to staff the Northwest Municipal Conference.

Mount Prospect Village Pres. Robert Teichert, newly elected NWMC president, delayed opening discussion until the next meeting March 17. His plan is to hire an executive director and secretary. But Teichert strongly urged conference members to give serious consideration to his proposal.

Teichert decided to postpone discussion after roll call disclosed only seven of the 15 member communities are represented at the meeting.

The delay came in the wake of extended presentations on the conference's mass transportation study and cable antenna television.

"We can't stand a constant process of per-capita charge for every study we want on area impact," Teichert remarked, referring to the transportation study. Teichert suggested that this fact demonstrated the need for a professional conference staff.

TEICHERT PLEDGED that in the meantime he would sound out reactions to his proposal from members of the Mount Prospect Village Board. He also said he would be in contact with various village officials who are members of the Municipal Conference to gain some idea of their feelings toward the plan before the next meeting.

Earlier in the meeting, conference members heard a report from Edwin Thomas, of the Center for Urban Studies at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle Campus, on the conference's mass transportation study.

Thomas said the first two phases of the study were complete and that he and his staff were embarking on the next three phases, which entail determining residents' feeling toward mass transportation. The upcoming portion of the study also would attempt to determine how transportation affects employment opportunities in the Northwest suburbs.

In describing study efforts, Thomas explained, "what we are trying to do is to put together a set of problems that are just right to be copied by a regional conference area."

HE CAUTIONED conference members that residents of the Northwest suburban area might not be receptive to programs in support of public transportation. This possibility underscores the need for extensive public education, he said.

KURT POLCYN IS 6 years old and deaf. But through his diligent efforts and those of his parents, Kurt's life is a fuller one. He is now learning how to talk and to use and develop his other senses. For story and other photos see Sec. 1, page 4.

Village Not To Object To C&NW Hike

The village of Arlington Heights will not file a formal objection to the Chicago and North Western Rwy.'s passenger rate hike request.

Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said yesterday, "We've raised the questions we think are pertinent, now it's up to the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) to determine the answers. The judgment should be made by them."

The rail line is requesting the ICC approve a 7 per cent increase to be effective March 1.

Jack Siegel, Arlington Heights village attorney, cross-examined railway officials during a hearing Tuesday, but said, "I am not opposing anything at this point." Siegel explained that he was simply raising questions and would report to village officials.

Walsh said yesterday, "I don't think filing a formal objection would do any more than hinder and create problems for the line." He said railway officials have agreed to meet with village representatives and have pledged to provide satisfactory answers to the village's questions.

The railway serves approximately 50 communities on its north and northwest lines. Arlington Heights was the only one of those communities to question the commuter rate increase request.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U.S. Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday, however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon. No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

Dist. 25 Borrowing Power Root Of Problem

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three stories on the financial crisis in School Dist. 25. Tomorrow's story will discuss what the future holds for the district with or without the tax increase.

by WANDALYN RICE

The continuing financial crisis in School Dist. 25 has caused the district to burn many bridges behind it.

The district now has little borrowing power left and no working cash reserve to bail it out.

The problems have been building for years, complicated by long-range problems with assessed value and state aid inequities. Since the voters refused a tax rate increase in September, 1968, they have become more acute.

Three more referenda were held after the 1968 vote. Finally in March, 1968, voters approved an increase of 33 1/2 cents per $100 assessed value.

During the series of elections, the district increased the amount it was borrowing against the following year's tax receipts by issuing tax anticipation warrants.

BY THE TIME revenue was received from the successful referendum, the district had issued warrants for 60 per cent of its anticipated taxes. Today the warrants raise about 69 per cent of anticipated tax income.

State law says no district can borrow more than 75 per cent of the following year's taxes.

Supt. Donald Strong explains that, while borrowing was necessary, the district can no longer get much money by increasing its warrant position to the full 75 per cent. And, since the district never has extra money to pay off the warrants, he says, warrants must be issued each year to pay off the previous year's warrants.

Moreover, in late 1969 and early 1970, the district lost income from some expected sources.

At that time, the Illinois Supreme Court ruled that townships could no longer collect a percentage of taxes paid to the township and distribute them to school districts.

Dist. 25 lost $75,000 a year from that decision.

AT NEARLY THE same time, an event that had long been expected hap-

The Market

The gradual afternoon recovery averted a big drop on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow-Jones Industrial average, down six points by mid-morning, finished down 2.19. Volume was 13,720,000 shares. Prices also declined on the American board, in heavy turnover.

Will Nixon 'Plan' Work?

Officials of School Dist. 25 are betting that President Nixon's economic game plan is not going to have a dramatic effect before the fall of 1971.

Because they expect the economy generally and the housing market in particular to remain "cautious," they are assuming there will be no dramatic enrollment growth in the district next year.

Principals have submitted their estimates of growth in each school attendance area to Robert Boos, director of administration and planning for the district.

Boos is now preparing enrollment projections for the 1971-72 school year.

Based on preliminary data, Boos said recently, the district will probably have an enrollment increase of about 50 or 60 students next year.

PROJECTIONS MADE several years ago assumed much more growth, Boos said, particularly in the Ivy Hill subdivision, where plans have been made for more building.

Housing starts have dropped off, however, and growth in that area has been much slower than originally expected, he said.

"There is no question that that area is going to open up as soon as the economy changes," Boos said.

At that time, the district may have to use its remaining bonding authority, granted in 1969, to build an addition to Ivy Hill School, he said.

The bond issue was originally planned to include an Ivy Hill addition, but the district has postponed it until it is needed.

Several years ago, enrollment projections indicated that the district would reach "saturation," with nearly all vacant land developed, by 1973, Boos said. Because of the drop in the growth rate, however, saturation will come later than expected.

TWO PROBLEMS FACE the district when estimates are being made, Boos said. One is the number of first graders who will be sent to parochial schools and the other is the number of children who will come from apartment developments in the village.

Each year some children who attend public school kindergarten go to parochial schools instead of continuing in the public schools, Boos said. To accurately estimate first grade enrollment is thus one of the most difficult parts of enrollment projection.

Also, the apartment developments create a problem for the district. In general, apartment developments have few children of school age living in them, he said.

Recently, however, the district has found more and more children coming from apartments as young families choose to rent rather than buy houses.

THE SLOW GROWTH rate in Dist. 25 is a far cry from the years during the 1950's and 60's when the district often added 500 students in one year, Boos said.

During that period the district built 16 schools in 20 years, he added. "Our final schools are now developed although we may need additions in some places. Now we will have even more time to concentrate on programs."

32 Sign Up For Ski Trip

Thirty-two people signed up to take a weekend skiing trip to Pine Mountain, Mich. before the registration deadline passed.

The weekend trip, scheduled for Feb. 26-28, was set up as a cooperative effort between area park districts. The trip was originally arranged by Christopher Edginton of the Arlington Heights Park District who contacted the First Arlington International Travel Agency in Arlington Heights.

The agency arranged details and then Edginton circulated the information to other park districts in the Northwest suburbs and Chicago area.

A representative for the travel agency said that the people who signed up for the trip are residents of Arlington Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Elgin, Chicago, Blue Island and Homewood.

The weekend trip will include round trip railroad transportation, lodging, entertainment, meals and other items for $63.50.

Orchestis Show To Begin On Friday

The 1971 Orchestis Show this year titled "GRMX" will be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Forest View High School Theater, 2121 Goebbel Rd., Arlington Heights.

Tickets for the two performances of the high school dance group can be purchased for $1 per person.

According to the Orchestis sponsor, Louise Philip, the female dancers will perform dances under the movie classifications: General, Restricted, Mature or X rated which correspond to the title of the show, "GRMX."

The head choreographer for the show is Diane DeBerry, a senior at the high school. Sue Luebeck, a junior, also assisted with the dance routines.

Technical aspects of the show have been planned by students Nancy Guaglianone a senior and Lynne Cotton also a senior. Miss Guaglianone worked with stage settings and Miss Cotton on lighting.

Faculty member Charles Wilde assisted in the arrangement of black, strobe and fluorescent lighting.

Dist. 25 Borrowing Power Root Of Problem

pened — the growth rate of Dist. 25 dropped below 2 per cent per year.

The district had known for a long time that the growth in the district had to slow as vacant land was developed, Strong said. But as the economy slowed and housing starts dropped off, the growth rate dropped about two years before expected.

As long as the district was growing at more than 2 per cent a year, it could file an amended claim for state aid, he said. When the growth rate dropped, the district lost that income, amounting to $156,000 yearly, and had to pay back one year's claim.

Besides being faced with the lack of revenue, the district was facing higher costs in all areas: Personnel, and equipment costs were swelled by inflation.

Members of the board of education also remembered a statement made at the time of the 1968 referendum, that the district would not ask voters for a tax increase for at least three years.

As a result, to make up the deficits created in the 1970-71 budget by the loss of funds, the board voted to dissolve the working cash fund of the district.

THE WORKING CASH fund is accumulated by a special levy of five cents per $100 assessed value. Once it is spent, the accumulation begins again the following year.

The board transferred the full $230,000 from the working cash fund to the educational fund for one year only.

By the time 1971-72 budget considerations began, the need for new revenue was obvious. The board, in a series of meetings in November and December, authorized the administration to ask teachers to voluntarily defer salary payments into the next fiscal year, to ease the load, and directed that $300,000 in cuts be made to balance the 1971-72 budget.

The cuts included elimination of one year of a two year French program in junior high school and total staff cut-backs equaling salaries of six and one half teachers.

BOTH FULL AND half-time teachers will be eliminated to make that cut. The staff cuts were made even though the district will be opening two classroom wings at Berkeley Elementary School and two wings at Rand Junior High School in September.

Cuts in supplies totaling $166,042 were also made. These cuts included a 58 per cent cut in purchases of instructional equipment, an 84 per cent cut in visual equipment, a 33 per cent cut in library materials and a 58 per cent cut in teaching aids.

These actions, combined with a tax rate increase of 50 cents per hundred dollars assessed value, will get the district through the next two years, board members and administrators say.

However, if the tax increase — on which voters will decide March 13 — fails, the district will have to cut $300,000 over the next two years, Strong says.

Program Seeks To Help Kids

by WANDALYN RICE

A junior high school student has a problem.

Maybe it's difficulty with school or with his parents or his friends.

Maybe it's one of those problems that beset a kid who's growing and doesn't know how he should act any more.

Or maybe it's a problem that has roots in the past — as long ago as the first grade.

If that child attends Thomas Junior High School in Dist. 25, he is likely to find himself with a whole team of teachers who have made it their business to help him.

Under a program called Operation Involvement, the teachers have a chance to choose a particular child with a problem and to work together to help him.

FIRST THE teachers in the school all make a list of three students they think have problems with which a team could help. The names of students mentioned most often are selected and teachers can volunteer to work with each one.

The team then works together, learning as much as it can about the child's background, and comes up with ideas of how to help him.

"The ideas range from a change in class program to a pat on the back every time you see him," said Asst. Principal Don Callahan.

Teachers last year started the program with five students they felt they could help. This year teams are working with three students.

The teams work to involve the children, parents and other teachers in the plan to help the child, he said, and they aim to help the child build his confidence.

THE PROBLEMS the youngsters face are varied — from trouble in class — to difficulty making friends, he said.

"They are not necessarily discipline problems," Callahan said. "They are kids the teachers don't feel they can reach. We don't have any criteria for those we choose; we just want to help kids."

The program also helps the over-all goal of the junior high school, he said, by helping students get ready for high school.

"The junior high is set up to make the transition from a child-centered school to an individual-centered school. We have to be a mother hen at the same time we wean kids away," he said.

"I think if you can see an improvement in just one kid this program is a success."

And when teachers can make a concentrated effort on a child it can help in many ways. "These kids have so much to offer us and they have more opportunity today but they are much more pessimistic than we were," Callahan said.

Jazz Winners To Be Aired

Selections played by the winning bands in the recent Chucagoland Festival of Jazz will be broadcast Saturday morning on radio station WGN.

More than 90 bands from Chicago area high schools and junior high schools competed in the jazz festival, held Feb. 6 at Oak Lawn High School.

The winning high school band was the Prospect High School stage band. Morgan Jones, Prospect High band director, won the Outstanding Band Director Award.

The School Dist. 21 jazz band won the junior high school competition. Musicians in that group come from all three of the district's junior high schools.

Jazz bands from Wheeling and Elk Grove high schools were both finalists in the festival competition. According to Richard Pettibone, chairman of Oak Lawn's music department and coordinator of the festival, this was the second time in as many years that the Wheeling band was a finalist.

SELECTIONS PLAYED by the winning bands will be broadcast from 9:30 a.m. through noon on station WGN's Roy Leonard Show. Leonard was master of ceremonies for the festival.

"I'm going to play tapes made during the evening performance," Leonard said. He said he planned to include selections by the Wheeling, Prospect, Elk Grove and Dist. 21 bands. "I'll play as many as I have time for. The band selections will be scattered among the other selections played on the show," said Leonard.

This year's festival was the 12th held by the high school. According to Pettibone, more than 10,000 attended the festival which began Saturday afternoon and ended that evening. According to Jones, the event is the "largest high school competition in the United States and generally considered to be the most stringent."

He'll Sing For Lambs

Jerry Duro, 616 W. Grove St., Arlington Heights, will begin a four-week singing engagement tomorrow night at the Dale House Restaurant in Hoffman Estates.

Duro, a partner in the House of Duro tailoring firm on Chicago's Michigan Avenue, will contribute the proceeds from the engagement to the Lambs Home for Retarded Children, he said.

Two Injured In Auto Accident

Two persons were injured early Monday evening in a two-car collision at Dryden Avenue and Talbot Street, Arlington Heights.

Arlington Heights police said the injuries occurred when a car driven by Kathy L. Rausch, 22 of 140 W. Wood St., Palatine struck a car driven by Albertus Crawford 55, of 207 W. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights.

Injured were Miss Rausch and Gary D. Crawford, 15, of 207 W. Willow Rd., Prospect Heights.

A report on the conditions of the injured persons was not available from Northwest Community Hospital Tuesday.

Police said the Rausch car was westbound on Talbot Street, the Crawford car northbound on Dryden Avenue when they collided. Miss Rausch was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way and driving too fast for conditions.

Bond Sale Approval Set Tonight

The Trustees of Schools of Wheeling Township will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the Dist. 214 administration building to approve a bond sale made last month by School Dist. 25.

But earlier in the week Dist. 25 Business Manager Dan Suffoletto admitted he wasn't sure why.

"I had to get their signatures for something once, but I don't remember what," he said when asked about the function of the trustees.

One reason for his confusion is that the trustees operate only in townships in Cook County. Suffoletto was business manager for a school district in Will County before coming to Arlington Heights.

In Cook County the trustees, by law, must appoint a school treasurer to handle funds for all school districts in the township. They legally hold title to all school real estate and are custodians of all money used by the schools, treasurer Donald Roth explained.

ROTH, AS TREASURER, keeps the official books for the school districts in Wheeling township — Elementary Districts 25, 23, 21 and 26 and High School Dist. 214.

"The school boards decide what money they want to spend and I make out the checks so they can pay their bills," he said.

The trustees must meet and act on any sale of building bonds and any transfers of land the school districts are involved in, he said.

The three trustees are elected for six year terms with one ordinarily coming up for election every two years.

This year, however, two trustees will be elected because one term is expiring and another was vacated when a trustee resigned. Raymond Demaertelaere of Arlington Heights was appointed to the vacancy until this election.

The other two trustees are Earl Richardson of Mount Prospect, whose term expires in April, and Joanne Shelk of Wheeling.

THE TRUSTEES must meet at least twice a year and hold special meetings whenever necessary to approve bond sales, Roth said. They receive no pay for the work.

The trustees and the office of treasurer are created by state law, he said, but they have been abolished in all counties except Cook. In other counties each school district appoints its own treasurer.

In Cook County, however, there are so many school districts that if each had its own treasurer the county superintendent would have to deal with almost 150 treasurers, Roth said.

When the township schools were first established, he said, the state donated

Probe School Vandalism

Vandalism totaling $1,000 at Douglas MacArthur Junior High School and the Anne Sullivan School at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Prospect Heights is being investigated by the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

A county detective said that police suspect the damage was done by juveniles. He said the vandalism occurred sometime after 11 p.m. Saturday or Sunday. The school buildings are not guarded at that time.

A total of 22 windows were broken on the south side of the MacArthur and Sullivan schools, costing approximately $750.

According to Supt. Edward Grodsky the district's insurance does not cover glass damage. "We had to take money out of the building fund, already slated for other repairs and purchases, to pay for new glass."

In addition at MacArthur School the veneer on several doors was damaged, and locks were broken. In the science classroom, the vandals killed a snake. In the library a typewriter was dropped on the floor.

Several pieces of equipment were stolen from the audio visual room at MacArthur, along with students' art projects displayed in the lobby.

The damage was discovered by MacArthur Principal Gerald McGovern at 6 a.m. Monday. He notified the county police and Grodsky.

"I came to the schools immediately to survey the damage," said Grodsky. "I don't think it involved professional thieves. The damage was malicious and purely destructive. Very little was actually taken out of the building."

Earlier, in discussing new requirements set by the Insurance Company of North America, Grodsky said the district cannot afford a guard service and does not have a local police station to which to hook up an alarm system. Because the district cannot implement these safety measures, the school board may not be able to renew the district insurance policy in October.

Hockey Contest Set

Saturday young hockey enthusiasts can test their skills from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lions Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple. The Mount Prospect Park District, in cooperation with the Seven-Up Bottling Co., is sponsoring a hockey contest on the center's parking lot for boys ages 14 and under. No registration is needed.

The "Stick-Pass-Shoot" contest is based on stick handling of a plastic puck around a slalom course with passing and shooting at various targets. Entry is free, and all equipment will be provided.

Three trophies will be given in each of the four age divisions. All participants will receive patches. If the weather is bad, the contest will be moved into the basement of the center.

CCPA Leader Blasts Mayor On Wage Issue

by BOB CASEY

The head of the police union representing Des Plaines patrolmen yesterday blamed Mayor Herbert H. Behrel for the city council rejection of a wage settlement worked out with federal mediators.

John Flood, president of the Combined Counties Police Assn. (CCPA), said Behrel showed "poor leadership" in the city council's defeat of the agreement, which came Sunday at an unannounced city council meeting.

The tentative agreement, reached after four hours of bargaining Thursday night with federal mediators, would have provided 14 per cent pay hikes for patrolmen by the end of this year, Behrel said yesterday.

"We are totally disappointed with Mayor Behrel right now," said Flood, whose organization was known until recently as the Cook County Police Assn.

"HE'S CERTAINLY shown poor leadership as an administrative official," Flood said. "If he can't reach an agreement (with the city council), then they ought to send some alderman who can," said Flood.

Behrel denied Flood's charges, pointing to some city council opposition even to the eight per cent raises that were included in the 1971 city budget passed Tuesday night.

The mayor said he supported the tentative wage agreement reached with federal mediators even though it was considerably higher than previous city offers. The three-step agreement would have raised salaries Sept. 1 of this year to $12,255 for top patrolmen.

Behrel said that several aldermen were especially concerned about granting a salary increase late in the year and then being forced to start negotiations almost immediately on next year's salaries from the higher level.

The mayor pointed out that the tentative agreement did not receive a single vote at the special city council meeting.

Members of the CCPA local chapter yesterday expressed disappointment and anger at the city council's rejection of the wage agreement.

"WE'RE SO FAR OUT of line with neighboring police department's salaries, it's sickening," said Robert Ornberg, president of the local chapter. "The agreement we reached would have put us

Ornberg Sees No 'Blue-Flu' Strike

As the dispute between the city and the CCPA heated up yesterday, Robert Ornberg, local CCPA president, said his group has no plans for a "blue-flu" strike.

"I can't come out and say we'll strike. We'll do as we've told the mayor, but we're not through. We'll do whatever it takes to bring this issue to light. On our future action, I can't say," Ornberg said.

Meanwhile, Mayor Herbert H. Behrel vowed to send out a team of doctors and nurses if policemen start calling in sick. Anyone found not ill will have his pay docked for as long as he stays home, Behrel said.

more in line and that's the whole issue."

Ornberg, who said "there's been too much gross injustice done to us," said 1970 police starting salaries in nearby communities such as Elk Grove, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights average $9,400, with top patrolmen getting about $11,800.

Those salaries will be going up again soon, he said, when the communities prepare their budgets this spring, leaving Des Plaines policemen even farther behind.

"We don't think this is justified when all the facts are considered," Ornberg said of the eight per cent pay hike under the new city budget.

Both Behrel and the CCPA officials yesterday said they will begin procedures for fact finding, the next step in the federal mediation process.

IN DECEMBER, 1969, the CCPA led a two-day "blue-flu" strike in Des Plaines during a salary dispute, but has agreed under terms of a city labor relations ordinance passed last year to refrain from strikes or slowdowns.

In a statement yesterday, however, Flood said his union "will not rule out any alternative to see that in some way the public officials of Des Plaines bargain in good faith."

"We don't intend to stand idly by," said Flood. "Mayor Behrel pulled the same thing on us last year. He makes an agreement and then he claims the city council voted it down and blames it on the other members of the city council," said Flood.

"We blame Mayor Behrel for the critical situation that is now developing," said Flood.

"Although we're not ruling out any alternative, we will live up to every aspect of the labor relations ordinance until such time as the city puts us in another position by not living up to it themselves," he said.

Flood said that while the ordinance prohibits strikes, it also requires both sides to bargain in good faith. He accused the city of failing to bargain in good faith when it rejected the agreement worked out with federal mediators.

THE REV. ROBERT CLARK, superintendent of schools of the Archdiocese of Chicago, Tuesday night said he is sure that a bill providing state aid to non-public schools will be passed this year by the Illinois General Assembly. Rev. Clark spoke at St. Mary's School.

'No Shutdown For Schools'

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

The superintendent of schools of the Archdiocese of Chicago said in Des Plaines Tuesday night he does not foresee the close-down or phasing out of any Catholic schools in the northwest suburbs.

The Rev. Robert Clark told an audience of more than 100 people at St. Mary's School, 1455 Prairie St., that there may, in the future, be fewer Catholic parochial schools and more Catholic children being sent to public schools but the Catholic parochial school system will survive.

"I just don't see the close-down of a $100 million operation which includes 300,000 youngsters," he said. "If we can't then we must move vigorously into a operate a full program of Catholic education time program with the public schools."

Rev. Clark led a panel discussion on the problems facing nonpublic schools and answered questions submitted by parents of school children and other parishioners.

He told the audience the archdiocese will request state aid again this year for nonpublic schools.

"I THINK THE legislature will pass the bill without a doubt," Rev. Clark said. "Politically, things never looked better for us. The votes are there since the Senate is now controlled by Democrats."

Rev. Clark added there's no telling what the bill on state aid will provide or what agreements will be made among members of the general assembly before the bill is passed.

"It's a guess — but I think they will pass the bill," he said. "The big decision will come from the Supreme Court, though, and that will probably come in May."

Rev. Clark also talked about educational problems facing the Catholic school system.

"The vexing problem facing us is that the kids now will face the 21st century — and no one knows what that will be like. To educate the children in the traditional way won't help."

"The amount of information and knowledge available to youngsters is beyond our grasp," he continued. "We must prepare the children to know how to learn, how to find sources of knowledge and to be eager learners. Schools must move rapidly into new modes of education in order to survive the next 10 years."

REV. CLARK admitted the Catholic school system in Chicago Archdiocese has not succeeded in providing special programs for problem youngsters.

"I don't think we'll ever provide a special program for problem youngsters. I don't think we'll ever provide education for handicapped youngsters. It's just too expensive. But I do hope we will set up an office for the guidance of these children and their parents."

Rev. Clark added the enrollment in Catholic parochial schools in the Chicago archdiocese has dropped from 380,000 pupils in 1964 to 280,000 this year.

"This great drop can be attributed to several factors," he explained. "The biggest factor may be the changing attitudes by parents. According to surveys, money is not a significant influence on parents to withdraw their kids from school. What people want — they will pay for."

Pact Provided 14 Per Cent Increase

The tentative police wage agreement rejected Sunday by the Des Plaines City Council would have provided top salaries of $12,255 by September of this year, an increase of 14 per cent.

The agreement, hammered out during a four-hour session with federal mediators last Thursday, failed to gain a single affirmative vote at the special closed council meeting Sunday, Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said yesterday.

Acceptance of the tentative agreement Tuesday night by members of the Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA) local chapter became meaningless after the council's rejection Sunday and final council action earlier Tuesday evening on a budget providing pay hikes of 8 per cent for all city employees.

The tentative agreement, released by both sides yesterday, called for a three-step increase during the year, including an immediate raise retroactive to Jan. 1 and additional pay hikes at May 1 and Sept. 1.

DURING THE FIRST step, between January and May, police would have received the same 8 per cent pay raises incorporated in the budget passed Tuesday night.

Top salaries after 36 months experience under this budget are $11,610, with no increase in the starting salary of $9,286.

At May 1, top patrolmen would have received an additional 2 per cent increase, bringing them to an annual rate of $11,825. At Sept. 1, salaries would have gone up again to $12,255, which, Behrel said, would represent a 14 per cent hike.

Averaged over the whole year, the agreement would have provided salaries at an annual rate of $11,900 for top patrolmen, according to Robert Ornberg, local CCPA president.

Top pay under last year's budget was $10,750 for patrolmen, with starting salaries of $9,286. Mayor Behrel said yesterday that all city employees this week will receive the retroactive 8 per cent pay boosts granted under the 1971 budget.

Concert Is Slated

The choral and orchestra portions of the Maine West High School music department will present a concert this Friday at 8 p.m. in the Maine West auditorium.

Highlighting the orchestra program, which is under the direction of music instructor Frances Vaupel, will be a concerto for string orchestra and for piano. A selection of this type is rarely presented by a high school orchestra, according to Vaupel. The choral program is under the direction of Donald Lord and Grant Anderson, music instructors at Maine West. The Girls Glee Club, the concert choir, and folk-rock group will be performing.

Admission to the concert will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for students. Music booster passes will be honored for admission. Tickets will be sold at the door and no seating is reserved.

Policeman Injured While Making Arrest

A Des Plaines policeman was slightly injured early Tuesday morning when he and another officer scuffled with a man they were arresting.

Sgt. Leonard Whipple said he received a knee injury while helping Patrolman Richard Eyre subdue Steve Wolfgram, 21, of 2090 Pine St., who was charged with public intoxication and resisting arrest, according to police reports.

Police said Wolfgram, who was being questioned after he was found sitting in a truck about 2 a.m. at a service station at Oakton and Orchard streets, started swearing at officers and was told he would have to go to the police station.

A scuffle followed and Wolfgram was subdued and arrested, police said. He will appear March 19 in Des Plaines on the charges.

Post Office To Stay Open On Saturdays

Saturday window service in Chicago area post offices will remain unchanged.

The U.S. Postal Service Wednesday cancelled an order to close Saturday window service in northern Illinois.

The original order, made earlier this year, would have closed window service on Saturdays in the Chicago area beginning Feb. 20, in an effort to reorganize post office work schedules.

This Saturday, however, windows will be open as usual from 8:30 a.m. to noon. No reasons for the change were given by the post office regional director's office in Chicago.

This Morning In Brief

The War

President Nixon — in an unscheduled news conference — warned North Vietnam that time is running out for meaningful negotiations over the war in Indochina. He said the United States will proceed with its troop withdrawal, but take any action necessary to protect U.S. forces.

Communist forces staged a heavy assault on an American base 10 miles from the Laotian border. U.S. reinforcements were rushed in to help. In Saigon, fire-bombs were hurled against the fence around the American embassy.

The State

Lt. Gov. Simon said he'd introduce a tough income disclosure plan to the General Assembly if Gov. Ogilvie's plan isn't strengthened through amendments. Simon called the Ogilvie plan a "massive compromise" that "conceals more than it discloses."

Gov. Ogilvie proposed a $900 million transportation bond issue. Its goals: to build a 1,950 mile downstate freeway network, to aid the Chicago Transit Authority and other ailing mass transit systems, and improve aviation facilities.

The Nation

More bad news for the consumer came from the labor department, which reported wholesale prices rose .7 per cent in January, the largest increase in a year. Food prices — particularly meat and poultry — jumped 1.7 per cent.

Treasury Secretary John Connally asked Congress to raise the national debt ceiling by $40 billion to a new high of $435 billion. It's the only way government can operate, he said.

The defense in the court martial trial of Lt. William Calley conceded that Calley shot Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, but said he didn't feel "he was killing humans."

The World

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban rejected the Mideast peace proposal suggested by the U.N.'s Gunnar Jarring — a proposal that suggested Israel withdraw all its forces from the Sinai Peninsula.

The Weather

Temperatures from around the nation:

The Market

The gradual afternoon recovery averted a big drop on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow-Jones Industrial average, down six points by mid-morning, finished down 2.19. Volume was 18,720,000 shares. Prices also declined on the American board, in heavy turnover.

HE'S GOING FOR a touchdown, but his rights and responsibilities on and off the playing field have never really been spelled out until Monday night when High School Dist. 207 adopted a new athletic policy.

Outlines Rights, Responsibilities

Approve 207 Athletics Plan

by LEON SHURE

High school sports and the rights and responsibilities of students and coaches were outlined in a new Maine Township High School Dist. 207 policy, approved Monday night by the Dist. 207 board.

The new policy is one reaction to recent non-athletic conflicts on the playing field, including the growing high school student rights movement, according to school officials.

One example of this non-athletic conflict was the recent controversy about a Niles Township high school student. He was suspended because he refused to remove his football helmet when the national anthem was played.

The new policy was developed this school year by a committee made up of athletic department chairmen at the four Maine high schools, and Dist. 207 administrators.

THE POLICY was examined by committees of the Dist. 207 board, and it underwent several revisions. A critic of the early revisions, board member Michael Bartos of Des Plaines, said Monday night that he approved of the final version.

He said he didn't think the student interest was adequately protected in the earlier version. He feels the interests and responsibilities of the coaches and students have been protected in the final version.

The introduction of the policy states that the "interscholastic program is open to all students and is designed to challenge those whose capacities, abilities and interests in athletics are above those required by the physical education and intermural program."

These sports are offered, the policy states, in the belief that they make "valuable contributions towards the achievement of educational goals."

HIGH STANDARDS ARE set for students participating in these sports, because they represent the student bodies. "Those who take part must conduct themselves in a manner which is above reproach."

And, "in order to establish good sportsmanship, respect for rules and authority, leadership, team pride and team discipline, there must be special standards."

Rules for students forbid use of alcohol unless directed by a clergyman in a religious ceremony.

It also forbids smoking, use of drugs unless prescribed by the athlete's physician, no late hours on school nights or before games.

The policy states that students should attempt to follow a diet that will build a "strong, vigorous, healthy body."

GAME RULES AND regulations of various high school athletic associations shall be followed, according to the policy.

All students in Maine schools may try out for teams, and they will be selected on basis of their athletic performance, attitude, conduct, cooperation and "an earnest desire and sincere desire to represent the student body in a manner which compliments the Maine Township high schools."

The coaches assume responsibility for carrying out the policy standards. They must be "firm, fair, and considerate," and they "must make decisions which are in the best interest of team members and the school they represent." They must also follow athletic department policies and regulations, according to the policy.

The policy also encourages parents to speak to coaches and athletic directors about any question concerning interscholastic sports.

Ask Middleton Examination

A U.S. Attorney today will ask for a psychiatric examination for Dr. James Middleton, Des Plaines area physician charged by federal agents with illegal possession of explosives.

"We'll move for a psychiatric examination at his arraignment Thursday," said Samuel Skinner, Assistant U.S. Attorney. "The examination would insure whether or not he's competent to stand trial."

Federal agents found explosives Tuesday in Middleton's apartment, 2800 Lake Shore Dr. in Chicago. They also found explosives and explosive devices last Friday and Saturday in his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd. in unincorporated Des Plaines. Middleton was charged with illegal possession of explosives and released on $7,500 bond.

Middleton, who was also indicted by a Cook County grand jury last week on two charges of deviate sexual assault, was granted a continuance on his arraignment yesterday by criminal court Judge Joseph Power.

His arraignment was continued to next Wednesday when his attorney told Power he didn't have Middleton's $15,000 bond receipt in court.

Middleton is also facing charges by the Dept. of Registration and Education that he violated three counts of the Medical Practice Act.

The Almanac

Today is Thursday, Feb. 18, the 49th day of 1971.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening star is Saturn. Those born on this day are under the sign of Aquarius.

On this day in history: In 1861 Jefferson Davis was sworn into office as President of the Confederate States of America at Montgomery, Ala.

In 1930 the planet Pluto was observed by astronomer Clyde Tombaugh at the Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz.

In 1967 nuclear physicist Robert Oppenheimer died at the age of 62 at Princeton, N.J.

In 1969 Arab terrorists attacked an Israeli airliner at the airport in Zurich, Switzerland. Six persons were wounded.

Thought for today: Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said, "Give what you have. To someone, it may be better than you dare think."

Youth Arrested

Des Plaines police arrested two Niles youths Tuesday on attempted theft charges after they allegedly were involved in an attempt to steal parts from cars in the city auto pound.

Charged with criminal trespass and attempted theft was Edward Johnson, 18, of 8951 Grand St., Niles. Police said Johnson, and a 17-year-old youth, were caught at the auto pound on Campground Road Tuesday by a city garage employee.

The 17-year-old was turned over to juvenile authorities, police said.

Also arrested was Michael Smith, 19, of 8902 Prospect Ave., Niles, who was charged with conspiracy to commit theft and conspiracy to commit criminal trespass after he allegedly transported Johnson and the 17-year-old to the auto pound, police said.

Theft Is Reported

Twelve cases of spray window cleaner and some plumbing supplies were reported stolen Monday night from Robertson Photomechanix Co., 250 Wille Rd., Des Plaines, according to Des Plaines police.

David Lieberman, vice president of the firm, told police the stolen goods were valued at $640, according to police reports.

Set Teacher Luncheon

An appreciation luncheon will be served to the teachers of Terrace School today by the PTA.

Committee members Phyllis Juricic, Marilyn Gossell, Audrey Hill, and Betty Nanstiel will assist at a catered luncheon. Table decorations are by Mrs. Irene Hultstrom.

Obituaries

Jacob Brosius

Funeral mass for Jacob J. Brosius, 76, of 10406 Michael Todd Terr., Des Plaines, who died Monday in Veterans Administration West Side Hospital, Chicago, will be said at 10:30 a.m. today in St. Catherine Laboure Catholic Church, Glenview. Burial will be in St. Mary Cemetery, Evergreen Park.

Mr. Brosius was a veteran of World War I.

Surviving are his widow, Harriet, nee Jacques; two sons, Raymond of Mount Prospect and Richard Brosius of Wheeling; one daughter, Mrs. Juliette Bickler of Fort Wayne, Ind.; six grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Nettie Mathey.

Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines, is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

So there we were, two invalids crossing the parking lot. Al (that's my girlfriend) with a stiff neck and I with a battered and bruised right hand — my fencing hand no less. Both injuries are too complex to go into so just accept the fact that they were real and hurt.

So there we were. And trailing along was Al's 20 year old brother Jim. We three were going to fencing class at Maine South; Al and I to fence and Jim to take pictures (he's a photography student at the Art Institute).

So there we were. And there he was, able-bodied Jerry Man, fencing instructor, touching away. Well, it was great. We lunged and engaged blades and everyone in the class had the opportunity to hit (that means to poke with the foil — which is the weapon) Jerry in the chest twice. We seemed to enjoy that more than anything we've learned.

So there we were, fencing away with Jim crawling around the floor snapping pictures of our incredible uncoordination. And by the time class was over Al had gotten rid of her stiff neck and I had added strained thigh muscles to my aches. What fun it all is.

I almost forgot. While Jerry and I were arguing about my spelling his name wrong in a previous column, Al came up with her quote of the week: "Watch it, Jerry. The pen is mightier than the sword."

TODAY MUST BE ESP day or something. Two well known ESPers are appearing at programs today. At 10:15 a.m. the Incredible Kreskin will display his talents for the Town Hall audience at the Pickwick Theater in Park Ridge. Kreskin has appeared often on television shows and is fascinating to watch. As part of his program Kreskin guesses the location of his check, which the Town Hall people will hide somewhere in the theater. He's only missed one time. Wrong guess — no pay.

Joseph DeLouise, a nationally known psychic, will be guest speaker at the Orchard Place PTA meeting at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room at Orchard Place School, Maple and Farwell. Anyone and everyone is invited to attend.

DeLouise has predicted, with the aid of his crystal ball, such things as Ted Kennedy's tragic drowning incident, plane and train crashes and various natural disasters. He will explain psychic phenomena and ESP and will answer questions from the floor after his presentation.

THE ORDINANCE has been on the books since last summer but the enforcement has just begun in the last few weeks. Fines for expired parking meters used to cost 50 cents for all meters. Now, if your car is sitting at an expired five hour meter your fine is $3; the 10 hour meters cost $5 per violation. The one and two hour meters still merit the 50 cent tickets.

Meter maid Judy Coyne explained the reason for the ticket increase: "Many people were parking at the five hour meters and then going downtown (Chicago) or to their places of employment for the rest of the day. Their meters would run out at 2 p.m. and they'd get a ticket costing only 75 cents. We hope a $3 ticket will discourage this."

COMMENT: There are not enough 10 hour meters in this town to accommodate the commuters. There are not enough five hour meters, two hour meters or one hour meters.

The commuter who was forced to park at a five hour meter and wound up with a 50 cent ticket was paying 25 cents more per day than if he had been lucky enough to get a 10 hour meter. Now he's paying $2.75 more a day because of the lack of meters and the necessity of parking.

I protest against both the ordinance and the enforcement. If you protest, too, cut out this portion of this column, sign it and mail it to either Mayor Behrel or your alderman.

We need more meters. We don't need to be penalized for the lack of them.

All 8 Incumbents To Run

17 File For April 20 Council Race

by BOB CASEY

A field of 17 candidates, including all eight incumbents, have submitted nominating petitions for the April 20 Des Plaines City Council elections.

The last resident filing before yesterday's 5 p.m. deadline was Christl Plambeck, 831 Thacker St., the only woman and the youngest candidate for a council seat.

Mrs. Plambeck, 25, is one of two third ward residents challenging Ald. John Leer, who is seeking his third term on the council.

Nine of the council's 16 seats are open in the April election, with both aldermen in the fourth ward and incumbents in the first and sixth wards running unopposed. In addition to the third ward, there are three-way contests shaping up in the second and seventh wards.

Mrs. Plambeck, who plans a "door-to-door campaign," this week said residents of her ward are not being adequately represented on city council. "Our aldermen don't ask us any questions at all about the issues before them and they don't have any contact with residents of the ward," she said.

The candidates are:

FIRST WARD — Ald. Joseph Szabo, running unopposed, is seeking his third term on the city council. Szabo, of 385 Graceland Ave., is a building contractor and currently serves as head of the council's buildings and grounds committee.

SECOND WARD — Kenneth Kehe, 1419 Forest Ave., is a Des Plaines Park District Commissioner and an employee of Des Plaines Publishing Co. A life-long resident of the city, he is former governor of the Illinois Optimists Clubs and has been active in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

— George Olsen, 1242 White St., is on the city human relations commission. He is a Salesman for Midwest Concrete Products Co. and is president of the Holy Name Society of St. Stephen's Church of Des Plaines.

— James Reilly, 1030 Cora St., is a former member of the Dist. 62 School Board. He is president of the Prairie Lee Paint Co. of Des Plaines and has been active in the local chamber of commerce and the Des Plaines Redevelopment Assn.

THIRD WARD — B. Spencer Chase,

1140 Alfini Dr., carried the banner of the local Voters Independent Party two years ago in an unsuccessful attempt to unseat Mayor Herbert H. Behrel. An 18-year resident of the city, Chase is a sales representative for Federal Office Products Co.

—Ald. John Leer, 1051 Jeannette Ave., is chairman of the council's streets and traffic, and forestry committees. Leer, who ran unopposed in 1967, is a home furnishings sales representative and is seeking his third term on the city council.

—Christl Plambeck, 831 Thacker St., is an executive secretary at Northwest National Bank in Chicago and a 2½-year resident of the city. Mrs. Plambeck is one of a number of Thacker residents who have opposed plans for an underpass on Thacker at the Outerbelt tracks and a link up of Thacker and Dempster by means of a bridge over the Des Plaines River.

FOURTH WARD — Ald. Robert Hinde, 381 Oxford Rd., heads the city council fire committee and is running unopposed for his second four year term as an alderman. A long-time local businessman, Hinde owns the Linoleum Town and Country of Des Plaines.

—Ald. Morgan O'Brien, 850 Prairie Ave., was appointed last summer to fill the unexpired term of Ald. Reuel Figard, who died in July. O'Brien, a local florist and past president of the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce and Industry, is running unopposed for a two-year term.

FIFTH WARD — Arthur Erbach, 1275 Prospect Ave., is a mechanical engineer for a Schiller Park instruments company and a 10-year resident of the city. He has been active as a Boy Scout leader and has served as chairman of the high school religious education program at St. Stephen's Church.

—Ald. Corvin Wagner, 1743 Farwell Ave., has served six years on the council and is seeking his second full-term. An employee of Meyer Material Co., Wagner is chairman of the council's building control and inspection committee.

SIXTH WARD — Ald. Ewald Swanson, 1856 Welwyn Dr., who had one opponent in 1969, is running unopposed for his next four-year term. He chairs the municipal finance development and finance committees.

SEVENTH WARD — George Brubaker, 886 N. Golf Cul-de-sac, is an assistant professor of chemistry at Illinois Institute of Technology and a five-year resident of the city. He has served as treasurer of the Cumberland East Civic Assn.

—Arthur Kowalewski, 559 Waikiki Dr., is president of the Des Plaines Terrace Civic Assn. and a painters' union official. He has lived in the city for eight years and has been active in the Little League and the Moose Lodge.

—Ald. John Seitz, 731 Polynesian Dr., is an advertising and public relations executive for United Air Lines. Chairman of the council's library committee, Seitz is seeking his second term as alderman.

EIGHTH WARD — Alan Abrams, 514 Westmere Rd., is a patent attorney for The Richardson Co., a local firm. A member of the city's real estate brokers review board. Abrams is a Republican precinct captain and has been active in the Brentwood School PTA and St. Zachary's Church.

—Ald. Edward Shillington, 645 S. Dara James Rd., is running for a third term on the city council. A production supervisor at a food products firm, Shillington is a 12-year resident of the city who says he is running as an independent in the nonpartisan council election.

$1,400 Ring Stolen

A diamond ring valued at $1,400 was reported stolen last weekend from a Des Plaines house, according to Des Plaines police.

James Albrecht, 718 Prairie Ave., told police the ring and $40 in cash were discovered missing from a drawer in a bedroom dresser in his home, according to police reports.

Dump Garbage Bags Back To Committee

Spokesmen for three local groups Tuesday night objected to the city's proposed plastic bag garbage collections, citing possible harm to the environment from the bags.

Representatives of the League of Women Voters, the Des Plaines Jaycees and the Izaak Walton League urged the city council instead to make use of heavy-duty paper bags, which eventually decompose when placed in sanitary landfills.

The council, which approved a change-over to the bag system last October, has since been wrangling over which company should get the contract for more than $100,000 to supply the bags and metal holders to city residents.

The matter was delayed two weeks ago after Ald. Robert Michaels (8th) objected to awarding a $121,000 contract without seeking formal bids. After the environment question was raised Tuesday, the council voted to dump the garbage bags back into committee for further consideration.

MRS. PAT DEANGELIS of the League of Women Voters told the council Tuesday "the decision to provide the residents with plastic bags instead of paper bags is a step backward rather than forward."

Richard Tabatt, representing the Jaycees, contested findings of the council sanitation committee that the bags will provide substantial savings over the present garbage can system. The bags have been tested for about a year at 1,400 city residences.

If the city is determined to change over Tabatt said, only paper bags should be provided. He also called for a pilot study to determine the feasibility of separating newspapers and glass bottles from regular garbage collections and recycling them.

Prices of $10 a ton for newspapers and $20 a ton for glass bottles and jars could make the recycling financially feasible, he said.

Criticizing the plastic bags, Tabatt said they will not decompose, are not as puncture resistant as the paper bags and will not incinerate cleanly.

The city currently dumps most refuse at the John Sexton Sand and Gravel Corp. landfill on Central Road, but that site is expected to be full within the next few years.

GEORGE HARPER of the Izaak Walton League said garbage in plastic bags will not decompose as quickly as garbage dumped in the paper containers.

"The Izaak Walton League suggests that if you do go to bags, please go to paper bags and show the citizens of our community we are concerned about our environment and take one step forward and not one step backward," Harper told the council.

Late Tax Bills Won't Mean Tax Warrants

Even though property tax bills will be late to residents this year the Des Plaines Park District will not have to sell tax anticipation warrants.

According to Robert Kunkel, director of parks and recreation, the district's corporate and recreation funds will last through the end of this fiscal year, which is April 31.

"But we will have bond and interest money to use to keep the district in the black until the tax bills are returned,

Kunkel said. "And we have money in the land and construction account from the 1966 referendum. The park district also has income from its recreation programs."

Kunkel said he expects to have the first draft of next year's budget ready sometime in March.

At the park board meeting Tuesday night, the board approved six candidates who filed for two vacancies on the park board. The candidates, Dewey Sherden, William Benning, William Newport, G. Rex Wilson, Edward Keane and John Arigo, will be voted on April 6.

THE BOARD VOTED against opening two new polling places for the election. "The board doesn't expect an extremely high turnout for the election," Kunkel said, "so they don't feel new polling places are necessary." There are five park district polling places.

The board also turned down a proposal submitted by Ahrendt Engineering Co. to lease land from the park district for an artificial ice rink.

Ahrendt, the engineering company which designed the sports complex for Des Plaines that was defeated in a referendum last month, wanted to lease the land for a private developer.

Also the district's executive staff is now planning the 13th annual Outdoor Sports and Vacation Show which will be held at Rand Park May 1 and 2 in cooperation with the Izaak Walton League.

Parent Meeting Set

Parents of students attending Maine North High School in Des Plaines will meet tonight with school guidance counselors to discuss curriculum and student progress.

The parents night will begin at 7:30 p.m. and is open to any parents of Maine North parents and students. The school, which opened Nov. 30, is located at 9511 Harrison St., just east of the Tri-State Tollway near Central Road.

The conference will assist in constructing a course study for each student for the 1971-72 school year, according to Sherman Roth, director of guidance.

"The main objective of the parent night is to acquaint parents with the curriculum offered at Maine North," Roth said. "Our counseling staff will be available to answer questions and make recommendations regarding course selections," he said.

Municipal Unit Talks Put Off

A busy agenda and poor member turnout last night forced postponement of discussion on a proposal to staff the Northwest Municipal Conference.

Mount Prospect Village Pres. Robert Teichert, newly elected NWMC president, delayed opening discussion until the next meeting March 17. His plan is to hire an executive director and secretary. But Teichert strongly urged conference members to give serious consideration to his proposal.

Teichert decided to postpone discussion after roll call disclosed only seven of the 15 member communities are represented at the meeting.

The delay came in the wake of extended presentations on the conference's mass transportation study and cable antenna television.

"We can't stand a constant process of per-capita charge for every study we want on area impact," Teichert remarked, referring to the transportation study. Teichert suggested that this fact demonstrated the need for a professional conference staff.

TEICHERT PLEDGED that in the meantime he would sound out reactions to his proposal from members of the Mount Prospect Village Board. He also said he would be in contact with various village officials who are members of the Municipal Conference to gain some idea of their feelings toward the plan before the next meeting.

Earlier in the meeting, conference members heard a report from Edwin Thomas, of the Center for Urban Studies at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle Campus, on the conference's mass transportation study.

Thomas said the first two phases of the study were complete and that he and his staff were embarking on the next three phases, which entail determining residents' feeling toward mass transportation. The upcoming portion of the study also would attempt to determine how transportation affects employment opportunities in the Northwest suburbs.

In describing study efforts, Thomas explained, "what we are trying to do is to put together a set of problems that are just right to be coped with by a regional conference area."

HE CAUTIONED conference members that residents of the Northwest suburban area might not be receptive to programs in support of public transportation. This possibility underscores the need for extensive public education, he said.

School Chiefs Back Change In State School Aid Law

by LEON SHURE
Officials of two school districts serving Des Plaines have endorsed a change in a state law, which they feel discriminates against students and taxpayers.

The boards of Maine Township High School Dist. 207 and Des Plaines elementary School Dist. 62, voted this week to give their support to an educational lobby group, which is working to get equal state aid funds for students, regardless of the way their school district is organized.

This educational lobby group is against a 1947 state law which allows more aid to a school district that has both elementary and high schools. A separate elementary school district or separate high school district receives less per student than does a combined elementary and high school district, according to the law.

The difference in aid, runs to $1 million in Dist. 207, school officials say.

THE LAW WAS intended to cut down on the large number of school districts, many of which were extremely small.

Critics of the law say it is not necessarily true that a combined school district provides a better education.

Critics also say that taxpayers in dual districts (separate high school and elementary school districts) are discriminated against. Taxpayers must pay more in dual districts before they can receive state aid for their children, and then they receive less per child.

In Cook County, it has been difficult to combine into a unit district, because, until the recent Con Con adoption, a unit district could sell less in bonds for buildings, than could two separate districts, according to Dist. 207 board member, Wesley Hartzell.

In rapidly expanding areas like Maine township, a unit district could not legally sell as many bonds as it would need to keep up with growing population. And combined districts are almost impossible to form because elementary districts cut across city and township lines, and often rich districts won't agree to combine with poorer districts, Hartzell said.

LOCAL SUPERINTENDENTS and school officials have been campaigning recently against the unit aid disparity. The lobby group is preparing model legislation, and talking to local legislators.

Resistance for the change is expected from downstate legislators. Most downstate school districts are combined, unit districts. The legislators would resist a move which would increase state aid, Hartzell said.

Richard Short, Dist. 207 superintendent, talked to almost 350 school officials last week in Springfield about the proposed law change. In the audience was Leon Smaage, Dist. 62 superintendent, and other Dist. 62 officials.

The lobby group, "The State Aid Parity for all Public School Pupils," was created after a November meeting of the Illinois School Board Association, Short said.

Interested school officials were later invited to a meeting at Maine South high school, and they met again last week in Springfield.

IN HIS SPEECH, Short said the 1947 law had been intended to improve and equalize educational opportunities.

In 1947, he said, there were 11,955 school districts. Some were so small they didn't have a teacher for each school year. The law was an economic incentive to combine into larger districts.

Today there are 6,223 districts. About 75 per cent of the state in area, is in unit districts. But 957,000 of 2,324,516 students in Illinois are in dual districts.

The average unit district receives $374 per child in state aid while the average dual district receives $325 per child, Short stated.

Short argues that the size of a school district does not indicate how good it will be. Some of the best schools in this state, and in this country, are in dual districts, he said.

"We believe the formula is discriminatory against the local taxpayer, and discriminatory against boys and girls who obtain their educational programs through dual districts."

Local Artists' Work Displayed

Paintings by nine artists are on display in the lobby of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. The nine artists are members of the Morton Grove Woman's Club art group and are affiliated with the Park Ridge Art League and the Morton Grove Art Guild.

Twenty-seven paintings may be viewed in the current exhibit. It is open to the public without charge. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

The artists include Sue Braeseke, Rita Clary, Peg Elegreer, Lou Huels, Eleanor Johnson, Ann Lucas, Helen Menarik, Isabel Platz and Helen Repeke.

The exhibit is presented by the "Art Originale" group of the hospital's Service League.

Vote To Back Lobby Group

Des Plaines school Dist. 62 board members Monday night voted to endorse a state lobby group which favors elimination of discrimination between unit and dual districts.

The board approved a donation of $50 to be used for expenses by the dual district cooperative group, which will work to change the disparity in state aid between dual and unit school districts.

Under current legislation, for every 90 cents a dual school district — such as Dist. 62 — gets in state aid per pupil a unit district gets $1.06. A dual district has a high school and primary schools in the same district.

According to school board member Clayton MacDonald, Dist. 62 has been losing several thousand dollars a year in state aid because of the discrepancy in funds paid to dual and unit districts.

The board also approved spending more than $7,500 for boiler repairs at West and South Schools. They will also spend more than $1,800 to put steel shelving in the district's new maintenance building.

Dist. 62 will receive $14,000 from the state to fund a summer program for children of migratory families. The program

Police To Sponsor Ice Capades Trip

The Des Plaines Police Association will sponsor an Ice Capades outing on Saturday March 6 for Des Plaines girls between the ages of 14 and 17 years. All girls in this age category are invited to submit their names to the police department before Feb. 28. A drawing will be held and 33 winners will be contacted by phone.

The association will have reserved boxed seats at the Chicago Stadium for the 2:30 p.m. performance. The girls will be taken to the Stadium by chartered bus and each girl will be given $1 spending money.

This is the first time an all-girl program has been offered by the police association, which sponsors many activities throughout the year for young Des Plaines men.

For those interested write the Des Plaines Police Association, 1412 Miner St., Des Plaines, 60016.

Assistant Aquatic

The Northwest Suburban YMCA has named Caryl Krett, 52 S. Meyer Ct., Des Plaines, as assistant aquatic program director. Mrs. Krett is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and has been on the part time staff at Northwest Suburban YMCA since 1963.

Mrs. Krett is certified as a YMCA Instructor and Water Safety Instructor and also has a certificate in the "New Swim Program" currently being used at Northwest Suburban YMCA. She has taught a variety of aquatic classes ranging from the Peanut gym and swim program (9 months to 2 years old) wee folks, tiny tots, small fry, youth swim program, diving, lifesaving and adult classes.

She has three children, two of whom are on the part time swim staff at the YMCA.

Mrs. Krett will serve as assistant to Delores Doehler, Aquatic Director. She will begin her new assignment effective Feb. 1st.

Teacher Pay Hike At Oakton?

Minimum teacher salary at Oakton Community College may be raised to $8,700 a year, an increase of $400.

The Oakton board of trustees Tuesday night set up a committee to examine an administration recommendation to raise teacher salary ranges by 5 per cent.

A raise in the salary range does not mean that teachers get a 5 per cent raise. No teachers were hired for this school year at the minimum of $8,300, according to Richard Jordan, dean of faculties.

The committee will make its recommendations March 2 for board action.

The Oakton administration recommended the 5 per cent raise in the salary ranges to meet the rising cost of living, and to remain competitive with other junior colleges.

Board members decided to give the recommendation further study because some members felt the present salary ranges were sufficient and competitive with other junior colleges.

ACCORDING TO THE present salary scale, the administrators can pay an instructor between $8,300 and $12,000. An instructor is defined by Oakton officials as being a teacher with a bachelor's or master's degree, or with two years of industrial or business experience.

The new plan would allow the administration to offer an instructor between $8,700 and $12,600.

The highest paid classification on the Oakton salary scale is "professor," defined as someone with a master's degree, and 45 hours of study in a related field and 12 years of teaching experience.

Under the old salary scale he could receive between $12,000 and $20,000. Under the proposed scale he could earn between $12,600 and $21,000.

The administration works out salaries on the basis of the teacher's worth, school officials said. The administration will propose "merit" raises for outstanding teachers at the March 2 meeting, Jordan said.

In other Oakton action, the board directed the administration to set up voting precincts for the April Junior College Election.

THE OAKTON BOARD would like to share 55 polling places with Niles and Maine Township high school districts. Board attorney Joseph Murphy said that maps and written description of voting precincts had to be prepared before March 31.

Three judges must be used for each precinct, and the administration will check with school districts to see if judges can be shared, officials said.

Oakton will have 508 full time students during its spring semester, according to John Donahue, dean of student personnel. This is a 17.1 per cent rise over the fall semester, he said.

The part-time students total 444, compared to 400 for the fall semester, he said.

Oakton administrators will prepare a report on programs and operations of the new junior college, at board request. This report will be presented in July.

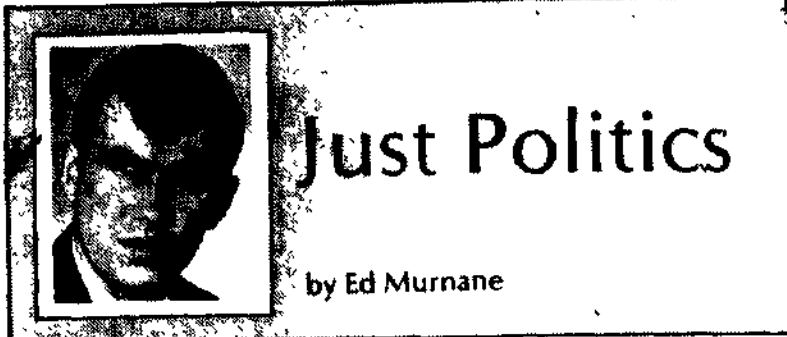

The Oakton board set up a committee to examine need for an outside educational consultant.

The administration recommended hiring Tadlock Associates of California for a five day survey of Oakton, but board members felt this kind of survey might not be complete enough to have any value.

Other trustees felt that there is sufficient community research talent, and an outside of the district consultant might not be necessary.

Board chairman Raymond Hartstein said work should be done now to prepare Oakton for the problems of five or ten years in the future.

Board member Paul Gilson said that an outside, objective view of Oakton might be helpful.

Just Politics

by Ed Murnane

Local government officials have been sitting on pins and needles while waiting to find out what their share of the pie would be if President Nixon's proposed revenue sharing program is approved by Congress.

Figures for Arlington Heights and Des Plaines, as well as other large cities in Illinois, have been printed in various newspapers (although not all the figures have been the same) and other communities are speculating as to what their share will be.

The Treasury Department is the storehouse of wisdom that has been distributing the figures and, when it released the first batch last year, department spokesmen admitted they were doing so to drum up grass roots support for the revenue sharing program that had been collecting cobwebs somewhere in the corner of the House Ways and Means Committee closet of neglected bills.

By releasing the figures, administration officials felt they could get the interest of the people in the various communities. The feeling was that Arlington Heights and Des Plaines residents upon seeing what kind of good fortune they stood to gain, would motivate their congressmen to help move the bill along.

IN THE CASE of these two communities, the congressmen involved are Rep. Philip Crane, R-13th, and Rep. Harold Collier, R-10th.

Collier is a member of the Ways and Means Committee — the third ranking Republicans to be exact — and he is a staunch supporter of revenue sharing.

In fact, he was one of the principal sponsors of the revenue sharing bill when it was introduced into the House last week.

Surprisingly, at least to those who have listened to him in two campaigns in the past two years, Crane also is listed as one of the sponsors of the bill.

The reason Crane's support is surprising is the fact that he has been one of the most outspoken opponents of sending money to Washington, only to have it come back to the states and local government in substantially less quantity.

As recently as last fall, when Crane was speaking to a group of residents and city officials in Rolling Meadows, he strongly opposed sending money to Washington when it could be used to solve problems at home.

"LET'S KEEP THE green right here," Crane said. "The brokerage fee is too high."

And in 1969, when he ran in the Republican primary, Crane spoke strongly against federal aid to education, saying funds were being wasted by sending them to Washington, only to have them come back to the states after administrative costs were shaved.

Apparently Crane has been convinced otherwise, and the arguments used must have been pretty strong to change one of his basic convictions — and a conviction that was largely accepted by many of his constituents.

If the revenue sharing concept is approved by Congress — and it seems doubtful in view of Rep. Wilbur Mills' opposition — local governments are going to have to wait for the Treasury Department to provide official figures on the amount they will receive.

Or they can try to figure it out by themselves by reading the revenue sharing bill sponsored by Collier, Crane, Rep. Robert McClory and more than 130 other members of Congress.

Here's the section of the bill dealing with payments by states to local governments.

"THE LOCAL governments of each state shall be entitled to receive an amount equal to the payment to such

THE HERALD

Thursday, February 18, 1971

Section 1 —5

state pursuant to section 401 (dealing with payments to states) multiplied by a fraction the numerator of which is the sum of the general revenues of all units of government of such state and the denominator of which is the sum of the general revenues of such state and all its units of government. Such amounts shall be computed by the state on the basis of the latest data available from the Department of Commerce at the beginning of the fiscal year."

There are other sections but we suspect that persons interested probably will be willing to wait for the Treasury Department to publish its figures.

Paddock Corporation Reorganization Told

Reorganization of Paddock Publications corporate structure, a new corporate name, and election of five new corporate officers have been announced by Stuart R. Paddock Jr., president.

Changes recently authorized by Paddock Publications directors provide for creation of a new holding company, The Paddock Corporation, and eight subsidiary companies which include Paddock Publications as publisher of the Herald and nine other daily newspapers in Northwest suburbs.

"Our new corporate structure will insure that each of the subsidiaries receives individual management attention focused on the special needs and demands of its operation and market," said Paddock. "Overall coordination, planning and development will be provided by the staff of the parent corporation."

He said the changes are "in keeping with the enlarged posture of our expanded operations and will significantly strengthen and enhance future planning and development efforts."

EXPANSION AND diversification of Paddock Publications since June, 1970, gave added impetus to the need for a new corporate structure, explained Paddock. Among recent developments he cited were the firm's acquisition of Day Publications and Tri-County Publishing Co. from Field Enterprises; DuPage County Times and The Advisor newspapers from Chicago Law Bulletin Publishing Co.; and Circle Enterprises, Inc.

The Paddock Corporation will continue to be headquartered at 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights.

In addition to Paddock Publications, the subsidiaries include:

Paddock DuPage Newspapers, Inc. — publishers of nine weekly newspapers in DuPage County;

Paddock Crescent Newspapers, Inc. — publishers of five weekly newspapers in south Cook and north Will Counties;

Paddock Circle Newspapers, Inc. — publishers of four weekly newspapers in Lake County;

Paddock Printing, Inc. — letterpress printing and newspaper production facility in Arlington Heights;

Paddock Crescent Printing, Inc. — offset printing and newspaper production plant in Downers Grove;

Paddock Real Properties, Inc. — owner and manager of all Paddock Corporation real estate; and

THE SUPER GROUP, INC. — sales and marketing organization of The Paddock Corporation.

John R. Malone

The combined companies publish 28 newspapers with 200,000 circulation in 96 suburbs throughout metropolitan Chicago and operate two modern printing plants equipped for all letterpress and offset commercial and newspaper production.

Also announced by Paddock today was the election of five new officers for The Paddock Corporation. All currently directors of the parent firm, they are:

John R. Malone, vice president; Clinton Youle, vice president for finance; Norman E. Isaacs, vice president for newspaper development; George M. Hilgendorf, secretary; and Fred L. Goss, treasurer.

Other officers of the holding company, in addition to Stuart R. Paddock Jr., president, are Robert Y. Paddock, executive vice president; Charles E. Hayes, vice president and editor in chief; William F. Schoepke Jr., vice president for production; and Ted W. Small, vice president for sales and marketing.

Malone is a consulting economist to newspaper publishers and has worked for many of the nation's leading metropolitan dailies and national chains. His background includes work as a reporter, editor, publisher, advertising executive, university instructor, and newspaper technologist.

YOULE is a corporation finance consultant and investment banker who formerly published four Illinois newspapers and served for many years as an editor and commentator for NBC radio and television.

Isaacs recently retired as vice president and executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times, although continues as a director and consultant for both newspapers. Since September he has been professor of journalism and editor in residence at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism.

Hilgendorf is a practicing attorney with offices in Chicago and Des Plaines. He has served as Paddock Publications corporate attorney and general counsel since 1958 and also is chairman and a trustee of the Employees Profit Sharing and Trust.

Goss is grandson of the founder of Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, and was an executive of the firm until its sale to North American Rockwell Corp. in 1969, when he retired to open an office as a newspaper production consultant. For the past year he has been associated with Paddock Publications as assistant to the president.

To Reach Every Child— To Help Those Who Need It

by ELEANOR RIVES

"I noticed some of the children were doing a lot of lip movement," said James Born, reading consultant at Forest Elementary School, Des Plaines, as he and Mrs. Estelle Bradley, using the controlled reader projector, flashed a line at a time on the picture screen.

"That shows they are frustrated. Try reducing the speed," answered Mrs. Bradley, reading-learning disabilities coordinator of School District 62.

"But not all of them are doing it," he replied.

"Well, split the group in two, and work with each group separately," suggested Mrs. Bradley.

The machine they were using helps overcome reading difficulties encountered by many young children — encourages them to read faster, to read from left to right.

IT'S PART OF the learning and reading disabilities program conducted in the District 62 elementary and junior high schools of Des Plaines: Central, Cumberland, Forest, Maple, North, Orchard Place, Plainfield, South, Terrace and West Elementary schools; and Algonquin, Chippewa and Iroquois Junior High schools.

And Estelle Bradley, coordinator of the vast program, gives it form and direction, leadership and knowledge, understanding and inspiration.

Mrs. Bradley has been interested in reading problems since she first began teaching. She has taught all elementary grades, kindergarten through 8th. She became a school principal in Northbrook, went on to become language arts director of the Wilmet School District in Deerfield, and is now in her third year of heading the District 62 program.

She holds a bachelor of education degree from Northwestern University's School of Speech, a master's from Evanston's National College of Education and is currently working on her doctor's degree at Loyola University, with her dissertation still to be done. She is also on two college staffs, teaching one extension course per semester at either National College or Northeastern Illinois State College.

IF YOU PEEK into her office at Forest School, you're apt to find her holding the telephone in the crook of her neck, filing and sorting papers with her left hand and reading resource material in her right.

Often a District 62 teacher will call her in the evening for help the next day. A recent typical day began with a stop at North School to confer with a teacher in the area of individual reading. Then she zipped over to Forest to work in her office with her secretary, getting kindergarten screening material set up so mother volunteers could continue compiling statistics.

Then on to Maple School where she worked (through her lunch hour) with first and second grade teachers, conferred with the reading consultant, then with a learning disabilities (LD) teacher, followed by a conference with the principal.

Back to Forest for a quick discussion with the reading consultant, then on to the Administration Building to work with the assistant superintendent. Picking up more materials, she took off for West School to work with a learning disabilities teacher, a first grade teacher and to confer with the principal.

THAT'S ESTELLE BRADLEY. A whirlwind that blows only good for the children of District 62.

Her concern for children with learning problems begins at the pre-school level. She advises parents, "There is no cause to worry unless your pre-schooler is not doing approximately what other pre-schoolers are doing."

"In some of the schools a checklist titled 'Ready or Not' is sent to parents to help appraise their child's readiness for school. If you think there may be a problem with your child, don't diagnose it yourself — consult with us."

"Pre-kindergarten screening is done in May. If we conclude that a child is not ready for school, we advise the parents to put him in nursery school for a year."

The next screening takes place in January of the kindergarten year. Groups of six children in a relaxed comfortable atmosphere play "games" that test their visual-motor, visual-perception and gross-fine motor abilities. The tests are conducted by kindergarten, physical education and learning disability teachers, and speech therapists.

Countless hours are spent sifting through District 62 tests, the Metropolitan Readiness Test, a special test developed by Mrs. Bradley, along with LD teachers and the speech therapist, plus the teacher's subjective evaluation determine which children may have problems.

APPROXIMATELY 11 per cent are found to have developmental lags.

"You must understand," said Mrs. Bradley, "that ANY child may have a learning problem. It has nothing to do with the child's IQ. It occurs in the educable mentally handicapped child; it occurs in the gifted child; and in all the IQ range between them. The problem may be one of perceptual ability, of motor control, auditory memory or visual memory."

"The important thing is to detect the disability as early as possible, before the child learns to compensate for his problem. The program is preventive rather than remedial."

Estelle Bradley is extremely proud that every kindergarten child in District 62 — more than 1,000 children — has now been screened. The two-week testing period began Jan. 4. She was overwhelmed by the great number of volunteer mothers who have done mountains of clerical work, have transported children, have, in fact, participated in every phase except testing and grading.

AFTER THE TEST results are known, LD teachers go into kindergarten classes once a week to work with any child in the particular area where he needs help.

If there is still a developmental lag at the end of the school term, the child may be placed in a five-week post-kindergarten summer program.

If help is still needed by the time the child reaches first grade, he may be placed in either: 1. Developmental first grade, where the typical Scott Foresman reading program is followed and LD teachers evaluate the student's problem. or 2. The DISTAR program, the lock-step (phonetic) approach to reading published by Science Research Association (SRA).

The disabilities program continues throughout elementary and junior high school, wherever it is needed. Reading difficulties are by far the most common problem; mathematics is second. Any District 62 child at any grade level can be referred for help. A parent conference with a learning disabilities teacher is arranged. Teachers try to remediate the problem in the classroom if possible, in a clinical situation if necessary.

THERE ARE MORE than 350 teachers in District 62. There is one reading consultant (who is also a classroom teacher) and one LD teacher at each of the elementary schools, and one speech therapist to every two schools. The LD teacher handles learning disabilities only. She is certified by the state after completing special training in five specified courses.

Working hand-in-hand with them, compiling their handbooks, conferring with them in depth on the learning problems of individual children is Mrs. Bradley, available to any teacher at any time.

Her goal is to reach every child in the primary stage where perceptual skills are more easily corrected. "But I would never EVER feel that a child at ANY level cannot be helped in some way," she said.

What about the other Des Plaines school districts?

"Each district in its own way has a good program in the area of learning disabilities," she said. "It's sad that financial cost prohibits many of the things all districts would like to do."

ESTELLE BRADLEY has an unusual talent for doing several things at once. She is the dynamic head of an extensive Reading-Learning Disabilities program conducted in Des Plaines School District 62.

Forcing Branches Previews Spring For Garden Club

The next regular meeting of the Des Plaines Garden Club will be a workshop to be held at 10 a.m. March 4 at the West Park fieldhouse. Mrs. E. J. Tamillo will be in charge of the program, "Arranging Forced Branches."

Everyone is eager for spring and forcing winter branches is a good way to have a preview in your home, according to Mrs. Tamillo. Flowering shrubs such as forsythia, plum, almond or weigela are excellent for forcing, but branches from maple, beech, oak or other trees make an equally attractive display with their spring green leaves, she advised.

Mrs. Tamillo gave the following instructions to be followed in advance of the March 4 meeting:

Select the branches on a day when the temperature is above freezing. Cut two or 3 feet lengths on a slant. At home, crush the ends or make a criss cross cut which makes it easier for the stems to absorb water. Submerge the entire branch in water overnight. The next day, place the branches in water in an upright container such as a milk bottle. Put in a cool dark place for about a week and watch for signs of sprouts. Gradually bring them out to a light but not sunny spot.

MEMBERS ARE instructed to bring the branches to the workshop along with a flat type container, pin holder large enough to accommodate the branches and a pruning shears. Some may wish to bring some evergreen clippings as well as a fresh flower such as a tulip or daffodil. Mrs. Tamillo will have pussy willows available.

Members attending the workshop are reminded to bring a sandwich. Dessert luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. Mrs. John Nelson will make the mantle arrangement. Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. H. E. Mahler, chairman, Mrs. Thomas Signaigo, Mrs. Raymond Larson and Mrs. Jerry Shramek.

Decoupage Class For Homemakers

Cook County homemakers interested in the art of decoupage are invited to a workshop in Des Plaines on Friday, Feb. 26. The University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service is presenting the class at 10 a.m. in West Side Fieldhouse, Greenview and Wolf Road.

Miss Joan Brennan of Decoupage Unlimited, Northfield, will conduct the workshop. She teaches decoupage in adult education at New Trier East High School and is an artist whose finished pieces are available in Chicago. She will have pieces to show, along with her demonstration.

THOSE WISHING to attend the workshop should bring along a pair of cuticle scissors, a painted or stained board or plaque, an uncut print for the picture to be used on the plaque, 6-inch squares of old sheeting, Elmer's Glue, small juice glass and a package of wax paper.

Questions concerning the class should be directed to 298-5007.

'Takeover Generation' Fears Unfulfillment, Says Ad Man

by GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A decade ago, they called youth the "beat generation." But that was before the deep involvement of the United States in Vietnam.

Today, largely as a result of that involvement, youth is creating its own labels for its life style. The young have become the "takeover generation."

The change is logical, says an advertising agency executive who is author of a new book on understanding young people's attitudes and interpreting them as consumers.

Mel Helitzer, 46, head of the agency which bears his name, said that of course it is oversimplifying a situation to say that what some people call the "tyranny of youth" is actually youth's "fear of dying unfulfilled."

SAID HELITZER, "... In this marshmallow world of affluence and Speckian permissiveness, just when today's young people got old enough to partake of a feast of freedom they were enveloped by the fear of military service and its painful consequences."

He continued, "Since fear is rarely admitted except by heroes, the youth bury their fears by identifying with every kind of underprivileged minority which is not bad and by shooting from the lip the most caustic criticism of most adult principles and established organizations (this is not necessarily good). Only 10 years ago, youth were calling themselves the 'beat generation.' We were not deeply involved in Vietnam then."

"But we are today. This fear of tomorrow underlines their 'we want it now' chants. They would like the term the 'takeover generation.'"

"AND THEY ARE taking over," Helitzer continued. "In language, music, films, education . . . new products ideas."

Helitzer, whose agency handles accounts geared only to young people, made these remarks in a speech at the Publishers Ad Club in New York recently. His talk coincided with publication of his book, "The Youth Market," co-edited by Carl Heyel, Media Books, Inc. — a market which Helitzer estimates is $50 billion a year.

Buses Chartered For Garden Show

Leave your cares and your car behind and board the bus for the 1971 Chicago World Flower and Garden Show. So says the Des Plaines Garden Club, which has chartered buses for March 23. The buses will leave from West Park Fieldhouse at 9:30 a.m. and leave Chicago for the return trip at 3 p.m.

The time to make reservations and purchase tickets is now. Garden Club members and any others who wish to take advantage of this opportunity should call Mrs. Fay Butler, 298-4006, or Mrs. Gunnar Adler, 824-5868, without delay.

Advance tickets to the flower show are $2; he bus ticket is also $2.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

by DOROTHY RITZ

Dear Dorothy: After using our fireplace for eight years, the stone has become sooty for the first time. Is there a do-it-yourself way we can restore the stone to its natural color? — Mrs. Shirley Krugel.

Once upon a time, home owners spent days on this kind of job, using all kinds of fancy solutions. Now, many readers report perfect results using simple trisodium phosphate solutions or commercial preparations containing trisodium phosphate. Some even use the new spray detergents. You have to work rapidly, from the bottom up, wiping up the washed area immediately. It's still work, but it's a picnic compared to the old methods.

Dear Dorothy: To make booster seats for the children, cover old telephone books or catalogues with contact paper. I now have about eight of these to use for the grandchildren when they eat at the table with us. I sometimes use two for a small child and one for a 3 or 4-year-old. — Mrs. J.J.S.

Dear Dorothy: I'd like to know what makes moisture appear between the inside of storm windows? — Lola Abbott.

It can happen when there's a lot of washing, cooking, bathing and so forth, in a home so tight the moisture can't escape. It just condenses on the cold windows. An engineer suggests it might help if the house is aired periodically.

Inasmuch as mushrooms always seem to add a touch of elegance to a meal — especially leftovers — I always try to have frozen, sauteed mushrooms on hand in the freezer. The fact that they taste good and have so few calories are good reasons for keeping mushrooms around.

Dear Dorothy: This might be the answer for the reader who wanted to know how to keep the baby's white garments white while in storage. Put them in a brown paper bag. I keep my white blouses, sweaters, gloves in the heavy brown bag that my groceries come in — they stay white. — Mrs. Grace C.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living Box 280, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

NAOMI SENNETT OF Highland Park is featured this month in the Art Corner of Des Plaines National Bank. The technique which makes Mrs. Sennett's work so unusual is a method stumbled onto while experimenting with various medias to create different textures. It involves the use of ordinary tissue paper as an overlay on acrylic painting, reminding the viewer of the works of the Old Masters. Naomi enjoys painting children in nostalgic moods best.

Profitable Trip For Boys

by JEAN FUNK

The Northwest Suburban YMCA Boys Swim Team, coached by John Eliot, traveled to Oak Park for the Annual Oak Park Relays, where they captured the overall team trophy along with the Cadet (8 & under) and Junior (13 & 14) age group trophies.

The NWSY tankers placed first over six other teams with a total score of 258 with West Suburban YMCA taking second with 207 points. The teams came from as far away as Green Bay, Wis., and Indianapolis, Ind. to swim in this interesting meet.

There were 40 relay events with some unusual ones such as the Freight Train Relay, where eight boys each swim either 25 yards or 50 yards freestyle (depending upon the age group) and the Crescendo Relay, where five boys each swim freestyle — the first boy 50 yards, the second 100 yards, the third 200 yards, the fourth 100 yards and the last 50 yards.

The Cadets (8 & under) started out the meet with the 100 yard Medley Relay, and the NWSY boys — Kurt Allergott, Dave Nelson, Mark Funk and Scott Beutler — not only took first place but also set a record in the event. Kurt Allergott, Dave Nelson, Mike Funk and Scott Beutler continued their winning streak in the 100 yard backstroke relay.

The highlight of the day came with the last relay event — the 700 yard Individual Medley Relay, in which one boy from each age group swims either 100 or 200 yards individual medley. The top three teams were in the last heat, and the event was worth the most points of the day, making it a very important race. Starting out for NWSY was Cadet (8 & under) Mark Funk, who was followed by Junior (13 & 14) Eric Porter, Midget (9 & 10) Dave Doehler, Intermediate (15-17) Rick Schwarting, and anchored by Prep (11 & 12) Brad Busse. The NWSY boys came in five seconds ahead of Harvey to take a first in the event and strengthen their overall lead.

Grove's Gymnasts Tip 'Cats

To vie for recognition in the Mid-Suburban League gymnastics race, you had better be consistently above average in every event.

Wheeling, who has proved a stout contender this season, hit for a potent 120.40 Tuesday, but missed connections on the tramp. The one mistake, against highly touted Elk Grove, was enough to boost the Grenadiers to a 128.78 to 120.4 triumph.

The 'Cats combined for only 11.7 on the bed while Elk Grove was relying with a 20.55. Otherwise, the meet was a stand-off.

Wheeling outscored its visitors in each of the first three events — free exercise, side horse and high bar. But after the Wildcats' downfall on the trampoline, Elk Grove went on to register separate wins on the parallel bars and rings to assure the victory.

The Grenadiers' strong suit was again the rings where the trio of Jim Malmendahl (8.9), Landy Fernandez (8.25) and Joe Guastadisegni (7.4) combined for another amazing 24.55 total.

Wheeling, however, also came up with 20-plus scores on the parallel bars, free exercise and rings.

The Grenadier sophomores, whose only loss this season has come at the hands of Hersey, rapped the 'Cats, 81.42 to 71.28.

ELK GROVE 128.78

A Determined European

This Dream Is Possible

If there were any lingering doubts about the seriousness of British sportsman David Sandeman's announced ambition to become the first European ever to own the winner of the Kentucky Derby, forget them.

The 40-year-old wine and spirits merchant whose Run for the Roses candidate failed him last year, is back for Try No. 2.

Gaillard, a promising two-year-old Irish-bred winner in England, was purchased by Sandeman for an undisclosed amount this fall and was shipped to the United States to begin training for the Louisville classic next spring.

A year and several hundreds of thousands of dollars later, Sandeman is once again pursuing his "possible" dream.

"If I've been asked once why I'm doing all this," he says, "I've been asked a hundred times. And I always have the same answer. I'm determined to win America's greatest race. Being of sound mind, I never thought it would be a simple task. I know the odds are great indeed, but then that's the very reason I'm in it."

What about his first entry, the $100,000 Double Splash, who never even earned a ticket to the Derby last year?

"He turned out to be more of a trickle," laughs Sandeman. "Actually, his credentials were quite proper and for a while last winter, while he was at Hialeah in Florida, it looked as if he might have a very good chance. I know that my trainer, Bill Boland, an ex-Derby winning jockey himself, was high on him."

"But he became ill and, although he recovered rapidly enough, he never seemed to regain his two-year-old form. As I've said before, and Bill agrees, he might very well develop later on. I would hope so. I sold him and he's now in Angel Penna's string and races in the silks of Sara Hall."

How does his 1971 nominee for the Churchill Downs test shape up Sandeman was asked.

"Well, Gaillard comes highly recommended by Paddy Prendergast of Ireland, the leading trainer in the United Kingdom for many years, and considered by many to be one of the most knowledgeable racing men in the world. He purchased Gaillard as a yearling for one of his patrons and trained him in his early races as a two-year-old. He's by Soderini, a stakes winner now standing at stud in Germany, out of the unraced mare, Gay Sylvia by a good sire, Sayajirao."

Gaillard won the Enniskillen Stakes at Phoenix Park in England last July and ran an outstanding race when he finished fourth to Mill Reef, England's outstanding two-year-old, in the Gimcrack Stakes at York in August.

The latest Sandeman color-bearer is considered a "stayer" (distance horse) and the mile and the quarter distance of the Derby should suit him.

Boland has Gaillard in training now at Hialeah Park and expects him to make his American debut sometime during the Florida meeting.

A FINE BROTH OF an Irish lad — Bill Boland, the former American jockey turned trainer, sits astride Gaillard, a two-year-old at the stables of Paddy Prendergast's in Ireland while its new owner, Wine Marchant David Sandeman, holds its head. Boland flew overseas to ride the horse which is now in his care here and being pointed for the Kentucky Derby next spring.

Benny Fernandez Stars As Indiana Freshman.

Area Product Dazzles In College

Special to The Herald

Indiana University's 44 gymnastics team has been showing rapid improvement this season in becoming one of the better teams in the Big Ten Conference.

And one of the primary reasons for this rapid upwards surge has been a freshman still rings performer, Benny Fernandez, from Des Plaines and Elk Grove High School.

"I only wish that I had 13 more men like Benny," Hoosier coach Jim Brown recently quipped, but this shows the value that Fernandez has to the Indiana team.

Fernandez is the leading scorer for the Hoosiers, normally scoring in all but one of the six events. By far, though, Benny's best event is the still rings.

He has seven wins in eight meets to his credit with a current total of 55.65 points for a whopping 9.28 average. His only placing besides a first was a third against Indiana State when he was competing against the defending National Collegiate Athletic Association champion, Dave Seal.

Fernandez made history in the Big Ten Invitational earlier this year when he became the first freshman ever to win an event. He also became the first Hoosier to ever win a first in the Conference invitational.

"Benny is the finest high school gymnast ever to come to IU," Brown said. "He's a fine young man and comes from a real good program (Elk Grove High School) where one of my good friends, Fred Gaines, coaches."

Fernandez has come a long in his progress at Indiana University this year.

"When Benny first came here," Brown relates, "he was a pseudo-all around man, but in the last two or three weeks, he has really come on in almost all of the events. He's been scoring in the upper 7's and 8's."

He currently ranks as the best still rings performer in the Big Ten, and, along with teammate Chuck Earle, gives Indiana the best one-two combination in the Conference.

Benny has a brother, Lanny, who is a senior at Elk Grove, and, according to Brown, "is going to be a better all-around man than Benny. Lanny has a 3.9 average and wants to major in law. We'd sure like to think that he is coming here."

Another top gymnast at Elk Grove, Jim Malmendahl, is being sought by Brown.

"He's the best still rings performer on the high school level in the country, and we'd sure like to have him here with Benny," Brown said.

Benny, majoring in pre-med at IU, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Benigno Fernandez of 760 Devonshire, Des Plaines.

Scout Talks — Managers Listen!

by BILL MCCARTY

In his remarks to Maine-Northfield Little League managers at the concluding sessions of their managers' school, St. Louis Cardinal chief midwest scout and rookie school conductor Wes Renker told the men that their efforts and time could make their players a great asset to the community in the future.

During a two-day session Feb 12 and 13 at Gemini Jr. High School, the scout said, "Whether the boys you train pursue a baseball career or not, a baseball career or not, they're going to learn sportsmanship and an interest in the game. Because of that, many of them will return, as men, to train the youth of the future just as you will do now."

Renker also emphasized the importance of instilling "desire" into individuals and teams. He cited this as one component that can make one team better than another. He also stressed the need to give the boys confidence in themselves and to dispel their fears of failure. Too, he told the MNLL managers and their invited manager-coach guests from neighboring Little Leagues, "the boys must be taught how to lose as well as how to win."

There was more to the professional's remarks than telling his audience what they should do. He demonstrated and told them how to do it. By the time he was finished, most of his "students" knew, if they didn't before, the meaning of such terms as "soft hands," "wooden hands" and "feathering."

He taught them tricks to help their charges throw straight, to hang onto a ball when they catch it, to gain confidence at bat. He showed the men how to help their pitchers and how to improve their fielders' throws.

Probably most important of all, he gave the managers the message that if they help the boy gain proficiency, the boy will gain confidence. He'll become a better player and a healthier boy.

"No one wants to make a mistake," Renker said, "and in baseball, unlike many other team sports, when you make a mistake it's right out in front of everyone."

The operator of the Florida rookie school was the final instructor in a six-week training course for managers and coaches which Maine-Northfield Little League began in January. Lou Rosin, a former member of the New York Yankee organization, who also participated with Renker, conducted the first session. Other instructors included Marv Rothblatt, formerly of the Chicago White Sox, Max Liggett, Maine-East pitching coach, and MNLL major player agent, also a former member of Yankee organization, Art Sepke.

Despite some inclement weather, all of the sessions were well attended, which prompted many to question, "why?" Here's an explanation an MNLL spokesman gave:

"Number one, most of these men love baseball, especially baseball for kids."

"Above all, they like boys and want to help them; to encourage them. While practically all of them have kids of their own in the league, this isn't true of all of them."

The league officer continued, "It may be old fashioned these days to say these men are 'dedicated,' but that's about the answer to why these people come out to such things as managers' schools and meetings. We're dedicating our field this year to the memory of one such 'dedicated' man, Merv Schakowsky, who passed away late last year."

"But there's another reason, too. We don't always see eye to eye. It wouldn't be baseball, if there weren't differences and problems. We're trying to work them out in these sessions, not on the playing fields next summer."

"In the past few years, there's been considerable criticism, in some quarters, of baseball for kids. Number one, it's pretty aggravating to hear all baseball for youngsters, no matter how bad, lumped under one big heading of 'Little League' Baseball. 'Little League' is a copyrighted name and 'Little Leagues' are groups operating under a charter from Williamsport, Pa., where the National Headquarters are located and where the official 'Little League' world series is played every year."

"Unless a league or team is chartered by and plays according to the rules and regulations of that organization, it is not official 'Little League' no matter how closely or how oppositely it resembles us. So, while some criticism may be justified, a majority of it is directed to 'Little League' for lack of knowledge of the other organizations."

Maine-Northfield is making every effort this year to avoid the causes for criticism, the officers say. "While we believe we've always been fortunate to have better than average managers, we want them to be even better and, more important, to be better equipped to help the boys. That's the simple reason we conducted this six-week course. Next we're going to school our umpires. We hope there'll be no reason this season to criticize our ump's, who we take from within the league."

"We don't think of MNLL as a cure-all or preventive for delinquency or anything else. We're thinking of baseball and kids who are so interested and who want to stay in training and play so much, they don't have time for much else. But, nationally, there are supposed to be some pretty good averages about the boys who have played Little League. We like to think, at least, that our officers' and managers' time and efforts are contributions to a better community."

MNLL, uniquely, has many communities to contribute to. Although they do not belong to any one city, and receive no support from any park district, city administration, or civic group, their membership from the unincorporated area includes representatives of Niles, Des Plaines, Glenview, Northbrook, Northfield, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Morton Grove.

More than 400 boys from ages 8 through 15 are enrolled in the league's minor, major, or senior programs. They play their games on their own fields at Glenview Road and Milwaukee Ave., and this year, will use a third field behind Glen Grove School adjoining their own area. The public is always welcome, say the league officers and games are played Tuesday through Thursday evenings at 6 p.m. and all day Saturday and Sunday.

'Y' Girls In Third Place

The Northwest 'Y' girls swimming team came up with a fine performance to take a strong third place in the Oak Park Relays, Jordan 'Y' of Indianapolis, the national champion in 1970, finished first and the West Suburban 'Y' of La Grange took second place.

In the Midget Division for the Northwest, third place was nabbed in the 200-yard eight-swimmer relay in 2:08.8. Making up the third place team were Wendy Meyers, Terri Wilkins, Laura Prinslow, Tracey Hibbs, Connie Wilson, Terry Westdale, Ginger Moloney and Barb Benhke.

Northwest's 200-yard medley relay team in the Prep Division took first place with Josie Fitzsimmons, Ann DiFrancesca, Cindy Antonik and Cheryl Takata in record time of 2:11.4. The freestyle-backstroke relay team of Josie Fitzsimmons, Deanne Joseph, Dawn Grunwald and Cheryl Takata took second place.

The 400-yard eight-swimmer relay team of Kathleen Anderson, Terri Fitzsimmons, Sue Levand, Deanne Joseph, Dawn Grunwald, Josie Fitzsimmons, Cindy Antonik and Cheryl Takata took third place with a 4:10.7 clocking. Northwest's Junior Division came up with most of the team's meet points. First place in the 200-yard freestyle-backstroke relay went to the foursome of Betty Lou Evans, Carol Geisler, Lisa Baysinger and Karen Jore in 2:06.3.

Kay Corbett, Sue Stahnke, Jodi Epstein and Lee Ann Doehler took second place in the 400-yard medley relay with a 4:53.2 clocking. Second place in the 200-yard butterfly-breaststroke relay went to Sue Stahnke, Jodi Epstein, Carol Geisler and Lee Ann Doehler in 2:21.6. The team of Karen Jore, Carol Geisler, Betty Lou Evans, Lee Ann Doehler and Kay Corbett took third place in the "crescendo" relay with a 5:29.1 clocking.

In the Intermediate Division the Northwest team of Sue Dragoon, Janice Takata, Sue Chips and Kathy Dalton took third place in the 200-yard butterfly-breaststroke in 2:20.8. Indianapolis and Green Bay dominated most of the other intermediate events.

The first round of the districts will be held on Saturday at George Williams College. District finals will be held at Maine South High on Saturday, March 6.
